JUSTICES TILT OVER TAXES IN RELIGIOUS CASE

Ruling Aids Press, Frankfurter Says.

UPHOLD OPA CONTROL

The Supreme court yesterday upheld OPA rent and price fixing controls and decided for iron miners in their claims for portal-to-portal pay. Details on page 16.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—Discord on the Supreme court bench again was disclosed today with a minority of three headed by Justice Frankfurter charging that a majority opinion had "startling implications" leading to the establishment of the press "in a class apart, untouchable by taxation."

This interpretation was ridiculed by Justice Murphy of the majority who warned, in his turn, that the taxing power "in the hands of unscrupulous or bigoted men could be used to suppress freedoms and destroy religion."

The court was divided, 6 to 3, in reversing the conviction of Lester Follett of McCormick, S. C., a Jehovah's Witness, for selling religious literature without a book agent's license.

Similar to Previous Rulings.

The court has previously ruled in similar cases that peddlers of religious tracts could not be taxed for a license. The only difference in Follett's case was that he was a resident of the town where the sales took place and the principals in other cases had been itinerant salesmen. The majority held the residence of the salesman made no difference—the tax was unconstitutional.

Altho the question involved thus was a narrow one, six of the nine justices saw fit to air their views separately on the meaning of the 1st amendment to the Constitution which specifies:

"Congress shall make no law . . . prohibiting the free exercise [of religion]; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press."

Call Effect a "Subsidy."

"Here a citizen of the community, earning his living by a religious activity, claims immunity from contributing to the cost of government under which he lives," said their opinion. "Unless the phrase 'free exercise' embodied in the 1st amendment means that government must render service free to those who earn their living in a religious calling, no reason is apparent why he should not contribute his share of the community's common burden of expense.

"In effect the decision . . . requires that the exercise of religion be subsidized. . . . Trinity church, owning great property in New York City, devotes the income to religious ends. Must it therefore be exempt from paying its fair share of the cost of government's protection of its property?

Assert Implication "Startling."

"The decision now rendered must mean that the guarantee of freedom of the press creates an immunity equal to that here upheld as to teaching or preaching religious doctrine. . . . It is unthinkable that those who publish and distribute for profit newspapers and periodicals should suggest that they are in a class apart, untouchable by taxation. . . . The implications of the present decision are startling."

Justice Murphy, in a separate opinion concurring with the majority, ridiculed this reasoning.

"It is claimed that the effect of our decision is to subsidize religion," he wrote.

"It is wise to remember that the taxing and licensing power is a dangerous and potent weapon which, in the hands of unscrupulous or bigoted men, could be used to suppress freedoms and destroy religion unless it is kept within appropriate bounds."

Tells How He Choked Wife in Bitter Row

New York, March 27 (AP).—Wayne Lonergan's unsigned confession that he killed his wealthy wife, Patricia, was admitted as evidence at his first degree murder trial today after a two day defense fight to block it.

He described in it how he struck her with a candlestick and choked her during an argument in her apartment the morning of Oct. 24 after an argument which reached a climax when she told him he never could see their baby boy again.

"I became mad," he said in the confession. "I picked up a candlestick, rushed over to her [on the bed] and hit her. The candlestick broke and she sat up and said, 'Good God, what have you done here!' I was mad. I rushed over to the table again. I picked up another candlestick. I hit her again."

Choked Her with Both Hands.

The confession stated Mrs. Lonergan jumped out of bed on the side opposite where the 26 year old husband was standing.

"What did you do then?"

"I grabbed her around the neck. I choked her with both hands."

"Did she say anything?"

"She shoved me."

"What did she say?"

Lonergan said she called him a vile name.

"What did you do then?"

"I grabbed her around the neck. I chocked her with both hands."

"What did you do then?"

"I realized she wasn't moving. I was horrified at this mess of blood."

Wife Scratched Him.

Sitting at the counsel table the accused R. C. A. F. aircraftsman showed no emotion as General Sessions Judge Garrett Wallace ruled that Defense Counsel Edward V. Broderick had failed to show that the statement was obtained by duress.

He likewise was calm as the confession was read by Edward Vaccaro, a stenographer.

Talked of Night Clubbing.

In his statement, which the prosecution admits was not signed, Lonergan said he was separated from his wife but that he went to her apartment about 9 a. m. last Oct. 24. The first floor entrance of her three story apartment was open, he related; he knocked on her bedroom door and she opened it; she had been sleeping and she had no clothes on.

"I said I had heard some mention of her hanging around night clubs all the time, and some one told me she was the belle of El Morocco [a night club]—was there every night."

"Anything else you said to her about that?"

"I said I think she was behaving

NEW DEAL ISSUE IN OKLAHOMA ELECTION TODAY

Both Sides Ignore Local Questions.

Chavez Fearful

Washington, D. C., March 27 (AP).—Republicans of New Mexico are "cocky" and the Democrats are in danger of losing the state in approaching elections, Sen. Chavez [D., N. M.] said today upon his return from a three weeks' trip to the west coast, old Mexico, and New Mexico.

(Picture on Page 3.)

Muskogee, Okla., March 27 (AP).—Two United States senators, Barkley [D., Ky.], senate majority leader, and Moore [R., Okla.] asserted tonight the Democratic national administration is the issue in tomorrow's special congressional election in the 2d Oklahoma district.

E. O. Clark [top] and W. G. Stigler.

"You will render a verdict upon the conduct of your government by those whom you have trusted to manage it both in peace and war," Sen. Barkley said in a state-wide radio broadcast.

Candidates Overshadowed.

Almost overshadowed by the national political issues raised by both parties were the nominees, W. G. Stigler [D.] and E. O. Clark [R.], candidates for the seat vacated by the resignation of Jack A. Nichols [D.].

Barkley, who came here at the invitation of party leaders, urged selection of a congressman who would coöperate with the administration.

Barkley, in an impassioned Senate address on Feb. 23, branded Mr. Roosevelt's veto of the tax bill as a deliberate assault on the integrity of every member of congress and shouted that he would not take it "lying down."

Assailing figures used by the President in justification of his tax bill veto, Barkley said the President had "resorted to one of the most unjustifiable methods of calculation it is possible to conjure up, which obviously was handed to him by a mind more clever than honest."

Assails New Dealers.

"Mr. Clark stands for repudiation of the New Deal," Moore said. "William G. Stigler, the Democratic candidate, is a New Dealer.

"A New Dealer acts without any regard for the people and their government. He acts to keep himself in power. He doesn't have to think. The thinking is done for him by the Washington dynasty."

Atrocious and Repugnant.

"To millions of us in America today, New Dealism is an atrocious and repugnant word," Moore said. "It is so atrocious and repugnant that the candidate for the fourth term is seeking to escape its odium. He is seeking to substitute another name."

Moore is a lifelong Democrat who ran as a Republican to defeat New Dealer Sen. Josh Lee in 1942.

The 2d district includes eight eastern Oklahoma agricultural, mining, and industrial counties. It has gone Republican only once, in 1920.

Both Stigler and Clark, the two candidates, live in the town of Stigler, named for the Democratic candidate's family. Their law offices face each other across the town's main street. Both have Choctaw Indian blood and Clark was the Republican congressional nominee in 1942 also, losing by 385 votes to Democrat Nichols.

Wife Accuses Dodge of Sins 'In Hundreds'

New York, March 27 [Special].—Horace E. Dodge, Detroit boat builder and heir to a huge motor fortune, was pictured in Supreme court today as a husband whose acts of unfaithfulness "may well run into hundreds." The charge was made when his wife, Martha [Mickey] Devine Dodge, blonde ex-Vanities show girl, asked Justice Maurice Eder to allow her $75,000 counsel fees and $15,000 for prosecution of her suit for divorce. The court reserved decision.

Dodge, an army major who was placed on the inactive list last October, married the stage beauty in Baltimore May 17, 1940, and she charges that before the month was out he had forgotten his vows. She named seven women with whom he allegedly was indiscreet. Most of them are New York cafe society girls, but one was identified as Lt. Clara Tinsley, an army nurse.

"My husband gave Lt. Tinsley a gross of nylon stockings for which he paid over $1,400," Mrs. Dodge testified, and added he called her his "hillbilly."

"Little Country Girl."

"This little country girl," she added, "is 27 and comes from Jefferson county, Kentucky." Mrs. Dodge charged her husband misconducted himself with Lt. Tinsley at the Ambassador hotel here last October and December, at Owl's Nest, his Stamford, Conn., estate, in Washington, D. C., and at Marion, Ind. An affidavit attached to her complaint and signed by Richard Schmidt, a bellhop at the Claypool hotel in Marion, gave these details:

"Between Sept. 10, 1943, and Sept. 17, 1943, I was called to Room 502 to serve ice and whisky to Maj. Dodge and Lt. Clara Tinsley and I observed them both in various forms of undress, Lt. Tinsley being in pajamas, night gown, and sometimes wearing a slip, and Maj. Dodge being in bed or sitting in his pajamas."

"Loved Little Half Pint."

Mrs. Dodge said she has an affadavit from another hotel employe saying that Dodge had said of Lt. Tinsley: "I love the little half pint; I will do everything I can to be with her."

The divorce complaint also charges Dodge was guilty of misconduct with Flo Sisman at the Ambassador and Shelton hotels, at 420 Park av., and at other places from May 15, 1940, to Aug. 14, 1943. Other co-respondents named are Rose Nagel, Virgil Dodd, Anita Rogers, Sylvia Hofstadter, and Ann Black of England. In a separation suit filed last fall, which the current divorce suit replaces, Mrs. Dodge described Miss Black as an actress who had become mistress of Dodge's castle at St. Leonard's Windsor, England.

She Asks No Alimony.

The complaint, filed by Atty. William A. Hayman, is unusual in that Mrs. Dodge asks no alimony, but she explained that Dodge gives her $48,000 a year plus $12,000 a year under a pre-marital agreement.

"In addition, the pre-nuptial agreement provides for payment to me of 1 million dollars net upon the happening of certain events," she said.

She did not explain what she meant by certain events but it was believed that divorce was one of them.

CHICAGO GLOVERS WIN.

Chicago's Golden Gloves team last night whipped New York's representatives, 9 to 7, in Madison Square Garden before 18,630 fans. Pvt. Ragon Kinney, heavyweight, won the final bout to insure the victory, the 10th for Chicago in the 17th of the intercity series.

ORDERS DUMPING OF 48,000 CANS OF SPOILED MILK

Philadelphia, Pa., March 27 [Special].—A total of 48,000 cans of evaporated milk, which had been stored here for the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation, was ordered dumped today because of spoilage.

Dr. Elkan H. Yunker, chief of the division of livestock, milk, meat, and food of the Philadelphia bureau of health, issued the order after an inspection was requested by the Gerard Warehouse corporation, which reported the spoilage.

The milk was packed 48 cans to the case and had a value of approximately $3.60 a case, Dr. Yunker said.

3 R's to Spell 'Army' for 45 Ex-illiterates

BY HARRY M'CLAIN.

Forty-five men once rejected for military service because of illiteracy will be graduated tomorrow night with the equivalent of a fourth grade education and reported to their local draft boards as available for military service.

Altho this will be the first formal graduation ceremony of its kind, about 75 other men have completed the schooling, and 57 already are in service. About 200 more are attending night classes, and 54 others are awaiting establishment of day classes so they can learn to read and write.

First School of Kind.

The school in which the draft registrants are learning the three R's is the first of its kind in the United States, and is conducted by the Illinois selective service system in coöperation with the Chicago board of education. Louis A. Boening, assistant state director of selective service, and Miss Frances K. Wetmore, supervisor of adult education for the Chicago board, conduct the school.

Classes are held in Crane High school, Gage park, and Kosciuszko fieldhouses, the Lincoln, South Park way, and South Chicago centers, and Olivet institute. The students go to school two nights a week and remain for three hours each time.

Among the 45 to be graduated tomorrow are 28 white, 14 Negroes, and three Chinese. When they started school none could spell or write his name or read it when written. Their average age is 27 and none is over 37.

Expect to Salvage 40 Per Cent.

The school was started in September, 1942, after selective service officials became alarmed over the large number of rejections because of illiteracy. Boening said about 40 per cent of those rejected for this reason would be salvaged for military service.

An original survey disclosed 662 men in Chicago who were not acceptable to the army because they could neither read nor write. Of these, Boening found about 50 per cent were otherwise handicapped and totally unfit for service.

Explaining to the others the benefits of being able to read and write and do simple arithmetic, Boening found ready response. The men were told that in addition to fitting them for military service, the education would increase their opportunities in civilian life. Boening has many letters from former students to prove the success of the plan. Classes will be continued for the duration of the war.

German Line Split East of Carpathians

LONDON, March 28 [Tuesday]—(AP).—The Red army crossed the Dniester river into pre-war Rumanian Bukovina yesterday, wiped out a regiment of Hungarian troops, and rolled 23 miles southward to a point across the upper Prut river and 2¼ miles away from the capital, Cernauti, Moscow announced today.

The swift smash by Marshal Zhukov's 1st Ukraine army split the German defense line east of the Carpathian mountains based on the Bucharest-Cernauti-Lwow railroad, and put the Russians within 28 miles of Rumania's northern frontier.

The railway, which crosses to the north bank of the Prut at Cernauti, was within two miles of the soviet advance forces and thus was no longer serviceable as a north-south artery connecting the German troops in Rumania with those in Poland.

Fan Out Along Dniester.

Russian investment of Cernauti, Rumania's third largest city, was imminent as the Red army poured men and machines across the Dniester and also fanned out to the west in the southwestern corner of old Poland on both banks of the Dniester. Apparently the Russians had trapped large German forces caught north of the Dniester.

In southeastern Poland Moscow said soviet troops—now within 55 miles of former Czecho-Slovakia—had seized Gorodenka, 70 miles southeast of Lwow, big German communications key to the Balkans. Other soviet forces were hammering at the thinning ranks of the surrounded German defenders at Tarnopol, on a main rail line 70 miles east of Lwow.

Kamenets-Podolsk, German stronghold eight miles north of the winding Dniester and 40 miles northeast of Cernauti, was taken by the Russians, Premier Stalin announced in an order of the day. It was seized late Sunday after soviet troops had surrounded the city. Stalin ordered a salute of 20 salvos from 224 Moscow guns.

Extend Prut River Front.

To the southeast in Bessarabia, where the Russians were preparing to leap the Prut river into Rumania, Moscow announced the capture of a town only 11 miles northeast of Iasi [Jassy], big Rumanian rail hub on the west bank of the Prut.

Iasi is a junction on the main German escape railway from the Odessa-Nikolaev sectors in southern Russia. Marshal Konev's 2d Ukraine army expanded its hold on the east bank of the Prut to a length of 72 miles.

At Nikolaev, where they clung to their farthest eastern foothold in Russia, the Germans were virtually surrounded and Russian troops were fighting in the outskirts of the Black seaport. The 3d Ukraine army had the garrison's Black sea exit blocked.

POLES 'FACE WEST'

WITH THE POLISH ARMY IN RUSSIA, March 26—[Delayed]—(AP).—Facing west toward Warsaw, the 3d Polish division today took an oath of allegiance to the "Polish land enslaved by the Germans" and entered service with the Red army to join the battle against the Nazis.

This unit was the newest in a force that has grown to a full army, with three infantry divisions, an artillery brigade and other motorized infantry and aviation formations. The commander of this army, Gen. Sigmund Berling, told the 3d division: "We represent Poland."

"The people of 1939 will never rule Poland again," he said, adding that "our way and place in the world is among the great democracies."

U. S. General Present.

The United States was represented at the ceremony by Maj. Gen. William Krist, chief of the army section of the American military mission in Moscow. The Fighting French, the Czechs and Jugo-Slavs also sent representatives. No British officers were present.

Most of the soldiers in the Polish divisions were recruited from reoccupied regions of the western Ukraine. They will go into action under Gen. Stanislav Galatsky, joining two divisions which have already been fighting along the Warsaw highway.

OPA LOOSENS RATION CURBS AS NUISANCES

Food Coupon Dates Are Eliminated.

Rationing officials yesterday moved to relax restrictions or procedures on several sectors of the rationing front, with the following developments:

1. Gasoline rations for B card holders will be increased in 30 days.
2. Expiration dates on fuel oil coupons will be eliminated by next fall.
3. Expiration dates on red and blue food coupons were removed, effective at once.
4. Civilians will have more butter and cheese, but slightly less meat, in April, May, and June.
5. Easter shoppers were told they need not purchase "extra" articles to get desired garments.

Forthcoming increase in B card gasoline rations was announced by Col. Bryan Houston, OPA rationing administrator, at Washington, D. C. He said it would be the first in a series of increases planned to restore by autumn the original maximum allowance of 720 miles a month.

Increase Awaits Supply Report.

The initial increase probably will not be for more than 100 miles a month, Col. Houston said, adding that the figure would be set after supply totals were ascertained. No increase is contemplated, he said, for holders of A cards.

The reason for the planned increase in B rations, he said, is an expected slight improvement in the supply situation and a "desire to sustain the distributive businesses of the country in their necessary activities."

Announcing proposed elimination of expiration dates on fuel oil coupons, Col. Houston pointed out that the action was in line with OPA action on other items, and that this would extend indefinitely the validity of these coupons before the fall season of heavy consumption begins.

Try to Lessen Nuisance.

Elimination of expiration dates on red and blue food stamps was explained by OPA officials as a move to cut the clerical and shopping problems of food rationing to a minimum of nuisance and trouble, and to avert the buying rushes that occurred as coupons neared their expiration dates.

Unless some new change occurs, the OPA's decision will make the currently valid red and blue stamps in ration book No. 4 good for an indefinite period. Red stamps A8, B8, C8, D8, E8, and F8 were due to expire May 20, and red stamps G8, H8, and J8 on June 1.

Blue stamps A8, B8, C8, D8, and E8 were dated as good only thru May 20, while blue stamps F8, G8, H8, J8, and K8, which become valid April 1, were originally scheduled to expire June 20.

Token Difficulty a Factor.

An OPA spokesman insisted that the change was not a panic action prompted by token hoarding, but part of OPA's program to simplify rationing for the country's 600,000 food retailers and 40,000,000 housewives. Expiration dates were removed earlier from sugar stamps and shoe coupons.

Unofficially, it was admitted that the tendency of housewives to cash in expiring coupons and take change in tokens was a factor contributing to the new ruling.

The war food administration came forward with the announcement of increased butter and cheese, but tighter meat allotments for civilians for the second quarter of 1944.

Civilian allocation of butter for the quarter is 432 million pounds, compared with 410 million pounds for January, February, and March. The increase is made possible, the WFA said, by a slackening in buying for military and lend-lease purposes due to built-up stores.

Meat Allocation Reduced.

A total of 4,485,200,000 pounds of meat will be allocated for the period, compared with 5,091,300,000 pounds for the first three months of the year, with approximately the same proportion of beef, pork, veal, and lamb available as during the present quarter.

The total cheddar cheese allocation for civilians is 120 million pounds or 30 million more than in the present quarter, while that for other cheeses, such as Swiss, Italian, limburger, etc., is down slightly from 45 million pounds to 44,200,000.

Potatoes, cabbage, spinach, lettuce, carrots, citrus fruits, canned green and wax beans, tomatoes and other fresh vegetables, frozen vegetables, eggs, and milk are expected to be in good supply during the next quarter, while bread, flour, noodles, and spaghetti are expected to be plentiful thruout the year.

Women's Shops Warned.

Retailers of women's outer garments were warned by Paul A. H. Shults, metropolitan OPA director, that those who seek to compel "tie-in" sales, such as the purchase of a bag or a pair of shoes with a dress or suit, would be dealt with sternly. Shults asserted that more overcharging occurs in this industry than in any other.

He disclosed that 19 warning notices had been sent to stores on the far north side, admonishing them to get their records straight so that investigators could determine whether ceiling prices were being observed.

Many Violations Found.

Investigators have visited 874 of the metropolitan area's 2,102 women's wear stores and found that 50 per cent of them were guilty of some violation or other, chiefly the careless keeping of records, Shults said.

Every one of the stores eventually will be investigated, he said, and violators will be sent warning notices to get their books in shape; if the warnings are ignored, the OPA will move to have violators' licenses suspended.

CAPTAIN OUSTED BY ARMY ON OPA FRAUD CHARGES

Tried at a court martial in the United States courthouse yesterday, Capt. James Baggett, 48, of Oklahoma City, Okla., commanding officer of an air training detachment at the Midwest Athletic club, 6 N. Hamlin av., was ordered dismissed from the service with his pay and allotments canceled for allegedly using an OPA blank fraudulently and for breach of arrest. An eight man board of superior officers found him guilty on the two charges, and voted him not guilty on a charge of being absent without leave. Altho the first charge, involving the OPA blank, was not explained, federal officials said the second charge was based on the fact that Capt. Baggett violated a restriction while under arrest. Maj. Karl Remensnyder was presiding officer at the court martial. Capt. Baggett entered the service with a commission as captain in January, 1943.

ARMY REVERSES ORDER HALTING TRIBUNE PLANE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Phoenix, Ariz., March 27.—Military authorities for the Pacific coastal area today reversed a recommendation of civil aeronautics administration representatives and issued a permit for a Chicago Tribune chartered plane to enter this defense zone.

A spokesman for the army described the incident as a test case. The test was on a question of whether travel by a newspaper reporter for political news is, quoting the regulations, "in furtherance of the war effort."

The permit was obtained in a direct appeal to the 4th fighter command.

OPA EXPOSES TOURISTS' GAS APPEALS FAKED

Investigation of 152 applications seeking gasoline for motor trips from Florida to Chicago, many believed spurious, was opened yesterday by the Chicago office of price administration.

Names and license numbers of the motorists who applied to boards in Florida for gas to return "home" were sent to the OPA here and referred to local boards. Board No. 1, at 79 E. 9th st., of which Walter A. Wade is chairman, last week sent notices to six such persons to appear yesterday.

None showed up, Wade reported. All had given loop addresses. Two notices were returned marked "No such person"; one man replied he had moved to Florida last October and had not applied for more rations. The other three took no action.

Paul A. H. Shults, area OPA director, said he believed many applicants used fictitious names, addresses, and license numbers.

PLAN INQUIRY ON RELUCTANCE TO DRAFT 4-FS

Washington, D. C., March 27 [Special].—An inquiry into the reasons for army and navy reluctance to accept a plan for the drafting of men classified in 4-F and men over 38 years old who are not holding essential jobs was scheduled today by the house military affairs subcommittee on the draft after hearing testimony that such a proposal had been discussed by the services.

Under the proposal, advanced by Col. Francis V. Keesling Jr., legislative representative of selective service headquarters, registrants over age or physically unfit for military service would be inducted if they were not employed in essential jobs and be assigned for the duration to such tasks as kitchen police, hospital work, and fatigue duty in military establishments and shore facilities on the home front.

KEY MAN SEIZED IN COUNTERFEIT GAS COUPON RING

Dealer Confesses Sales to Station Operators.

The arrest of a man who has confessed the possession and sale of counterfeit ration coupons for 85,000 gallons of gasoline and who is believed to be a key figure in a large gasoline black market ring, was announced yesterday by Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan, chief of the secret service in Chicago.

Capt. Callaghan said that Milton Lambert, 32, owner of the General Gas and Oil company, 724 Roosevelt rd., a wholesale concern, admitted that he had distributed ration coupons for more than 75,000 gallons among his customers owning filling stations, and had distributed coupons for 10,000 gallons from his own station.

Enters Not Guilty Plea.

Lambert was arraigned before United State Commissioner Edwin K. Walker later in the day and charged with possessing and selling counterfeit ration coupons. He pleaded not guilty and the case was continued until April 12. Bond was set at $5,000.

As a wholesaler, Callaghan said, Lambert was able to sell coupons to service station operators who were short coupons on their own retail transactions. Each coupon sold for between 2½ and 3 cents, and was of the C-2 class, for five gallons.

Operator Accuses Him.

Callaghan said Lambert's arrest grew out of the arrest late Friday night of Frank J. Zuffante, 1020 Loomis st., owner of a gasoline station at 1730 N. Central av. Agents found in his possession counterfeit coupons for 7,500 gallons of gas.

Zuffante told secret service operators that he had received the coupons from Lambert, paying 3 cents a coupon.

Lambert lives at 5656 Washington blvd. with his wife and two children. His attorney, Edward J. Hess, said he has been a wholesaler and job dealer of petroleum products since 1936. Lambert is president of the Garfield Park B'nai B'rith, Callaghan said.

OPA Lets Heating Stove Dealers Boost Inventory

The OPA has authorized dealers and distributors of heating stoves to build up stocks to provide for peak demand next fall. Effective today in the far west and April 3 in the rest of the country, inventories of coal and wood stoves may be increased to 50 per cent of dealers' initial allowable inventory, while stocks of oil and gas heaters may be boosted to the full supply originally allowed.

Aiding Red Cross

Martin H. Kennelly, chairman of the Chicago Red Cross drive for $12,000,000 yesterday received a check for $33,500 from employes of the Milwaukee road and cited some of the Red Cross war services such donations help provide.

The railroad's contribution amounted to $6 per employe. It was presented by James W. Turney, 3852 N. Oketo av., whose son, Lt. John W., 22, is a German prisoner after being shot down in an air raid last June 22. Others taking part in the ceremony were W. L. Schroeder, representing the road's labor organizations, and Edward G. Kiesele, superintendent of the Chicago terminal divisions.

Kennelly said the Red Cross in the last year has shipped enough coffee overseas for 143 million free cups of coffee; more than 25 million chocolate bars; enough flour for 70 million doughnuts, served in Red Cross clubs, canteens, and clubmobiles; 36 million razor blades, and 1,701,269,000 cigarets. The only charge in Red Cross overseas clubs, he said, is for food and lodging.

35 ABSENTEE BALLOTS CAST ON FIRST DAY

Thirty-five persons, 20 of them soldiers and sailors, yesterday cast the first absentee ballots for the April 11 primary in the offices of the board of election commissioners.

It was the first day on which such ballots could be cast. Only those who are certain to be away from home on primary day can vote beforehand. The election offices will be open for absentee voters from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. daily, Monday to Friday, inclusive, and 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Saturday until the eve of the election.

Chief Election Clerk Rusch said that thus far 4,000 applications for absentee ballots had been made, and that 90 per cent came from persons in the military or naval services. He declared that the ratio was 2 to 1 Democratic.

BLACK MARKETS THRIVE AMID OPA CHAOS: BENSON

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

The outstanding primary election battle centered in Cook county yesterday with the presence here of both candidates for the Republican nomination for secretary of state—Arnold P. Benson, regular G. O. P. organization choice, and State Treasurer William G. Stratton.

Until now the two have been working far apart. Benson, president pro tem of the Illinois senate, strated earlier and wound up his downstate campaign two weeks ago. Stratton just completed his tour of 101 downstate counties and arrived in Chicago yesterday.

Benson Says OPA Fails.

Sen. Benson last night again blasted the New Deal. He told a Chicago Heights audience that OPA regulations have broken down and caused black markets in Illinois to run wild. Here and in Lansing and Blue Island he was lauded by Gov. Green and Richard J. Lyons, candidate for United States senator.

"The OPA pace for inefficiency was set by Raymond S. McKeough, Chicago ex-congressman who was given the top OPA administrative job after the voters had repudiated him," Sen. Benson said. He added that "the confusion and chaos had not slackened" under the new administrator, Rae E. Walters, and Paul A. H. Shults, acting director in the Chicago area.

"By their own admission that 75 per cent of the grocery stores and meat markets in the Chicago area are violating regulations of the OPA, Walters and Shults admit their incompetency and should be removed from office," Benson said.

'Bewildered by Rulings.'

"Either the grocers and butchers are being harassed and bewildered by OPA regulations and rulings or else they are defying the government. I prefer to believe that these small business men want to be honest and obey the law.

"But thru the collapse of OPA enforcement, they must either stand by and watch black market operators put them out of business or close their eyes to senseless rulings that are impossible to meet.

"It is no wonder that the business men are turning to the Republican party for a sane solution of their problems and for an efficient leadership that will speed industry and restore freedom to American enterprise."

Leaders Speak Tonight.

Ticket headliners tonight will speak at 2025 Miner st., Des Plaines, 620 Lincoln st., Winnetka, and at 2800 South Park way.

William J. Grace, secretary of the Republican Nationalist Revival committee, announced a series of meetings in behalf of Stratton and candidates for congress and national delegates indorsed by the committee. The first meeting will be at the Madison Athletic club, 4715 Madison st., tomorrow night.

Grace said that $300,000 is being spent in the effort to beat Stratton. This money will be needed to defeat the New Deal in November, he asserted.

Watson Backs Stratton.

Deneen Watson, internationalist candidate for senator, last night urged voters to support Stratton, who as congressman at large was a noninterventionist. He predicted that many Democrats as well as independent Republicans will vote in the G. O. P. primary.

"These Republican voters will support the free and independent candidates," Watson said in a radio talk, listing Oscar E. Carlstrom for governor, Lloyd Moody for attorney general, Edward Davis for congressman at large, and Stratton.

STATE REQUESTS ITS 2 SENATORS PROBE GAS CUT

Investigation of the recent cut in A gasoline rations from three to two gallons a week, to determine whether it was "political," was asked yesterday of Senators Brooks [R.] and Lucas [D.] of Illinois by State Rep. Lyle M. Prescott [R., Dixon]. Prescott is chairman of the Illinois joint legislative commission to investigate the rationing of petroleum and petroleum products in the state.

The state legislator asked the senators to conduct their own inquiry into the ration slash, he said, because be believes they have access to facts the commission is unable to get. The commission members believe, he said, that reports from the senators may lead to summoning of witnesses from the regional offices of the office of price administration to a hearing by the commission in which "the truth about the cut in A rations" may be obtained.

Prescott said he had sent the requests to both senators by registered mail, despatching the one to Lucas so it may catch him while he is campaigning downstate. He said the commission expected to call a meeting when the replies were received.

DEMANDS FACTS ABOUT WINCHELL BACKER'S 2 AIDS

Hoffman Asks Report by Justice Department.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—A resolution calling on the justice department to give congress the facts on charges against two women employes of Andrew Jergens, whose cosmetics company sponsors Walter Winchell's radio broadcasts, was introduced in the house today by Rep. Hoffman [R., Mich.].

The resolution was offered as house members took the floor to denounce Winchell for his reaffirmation on the radio last night of all charges he previously leveled at congress and other targets of his smear campaign.

The Broadway gossip, who was labeled the "Charlie McCarthy of the smear bund" by Rep. Dies [D., Tex.] in a radio address last night, told his audience a few minutes before Dies' address that he was reaffirming all his previous statements, which include unsupported charges that saboteurs are holding seats in congress.

Official Details Sought.

Hoffman's resolution, which under house rules must be acted on by the judiciary committee within seven days, seeks official details on cases involving the two employes of Winchell's sponsor.

The congressman previously disclosed to the house that Jergens' personal secretary, Mrs. Elfrieda Margaret Siddell, has been interned as an enemy alien and that Hedwig Engemann, a maid in Jergens' household, was sentenced to three years in prison for misprision of treason [withholding knowledge of treason].

Altho at least two congressional committees have sought full information on both cases from the justice department, it has been denied as contrary to public interest.

Promises to "Pass It On."

Hoffman told the house that if congress is successful in getting the additional information, he will "pass it on to Winchell, so he can tell his public how his sponsor had these two women in his employ and about their Nazi activities."

The congressman previously observed that Winchell, altho posing as a prime exposer of "seditionists," has skirted carefully the cases involving his sponsor's employes.

Another resolution offered by Hoffman today would amend the navy code to require the dismissal of Winchell, who now holds a reserve commission, for using "disrespectful words toward the congress of the United States."

Asks Who Protects Him.

"Who is it—is it the President of the United States—that permits Winchell to be carried on the navy rolls as an officer and to continue to stab congress in the back?" Hoffman asked.

"For weeks Winchell has been crying, whimpering, and whining that some citizens are trying to deprive him of free speech. All the people are objecting to is a lack of decency and truthfulness in what he says. He has attempted to discredit congress in the eyes of the people and has thus given the enemy food for propaganda."

Winchell's sole defender in today's debate was Rep. Sabath [D., Ill.], administration wheelhorse, who said the gossip broadcaster has "done many good things" and said house members were "wasting their time" talking about him. Sabath further asserted Winchell never attacked congress, but "only individual members."

Hoffman replied to Sabath by citing several of "dozens" of Winchellisms, including the latter's assertions that "saboteurs have landed in congress," that the people who elected congress were "damn fools," and a reference to the house of representatives as the "house of reprehensibles."

"It should be clear even to the gentleman from Illinois [Sabath]," interjected Rep. Keefe [R., Wis.], "that when Winchell speaks of the 'house of reprehensibles' he is referring to congress."

"And don't forget," remarked Rep. Robsion [R., Ky.], "that he reaffirmed the same charge last night."

Sabath reddened and retreated, explaining he had protested against the "reprehensibles" charge in a letter to Winchell.

"As long as Winchell takes the air and stabs loyal citizens in the back, I propose to show he is a peddler of falsehood," Hoffman said.

SENATORS TURN DOWN KNOX REQUEST FOR A NEW LIMOUSINE

Washington, D. C., March 27 (AP).—The senate appropriations committee approved today the purchase of a new limousine for Adm. Harold R. Stark, but turned thumbs down on similar purchases for Secretary Knox and two other admirals.

Sen. Russell [D., Ga.], a member of the committee, said the senators felt Knox and Admirals Ernest J. King, chief of naval operations, and C. W. Nimintz, commanding the Pacific fleet, could make their present seven passenger cars do another year.

"But Adm. Stark has been limited to a light Chevrolet in London and needs a bigger car," Russell said.

BEER GOING UP? GLASS MAY COST 11 CENTS APRIL 1

Washington, D. C., March 27 (AP).—Beer drinkers may have to pay 11 cents a glass instead of a dime after April 1, the office of price administration announced today. And the price of 12-ounce bottles may be raised a penny when the new federal excise taxes become effective next month.

The new price schedules on beer are in line with OPA's policy of permitting tax increases on alcoholic beverages to be passed on to consumers. In some instances, OPA said the producer, wholesaler or retailer will absorb the added levy.

On cheaper brands of beer the tax increase will amount to only seven cents on a 24-bottle case.

REDS SEEK ALP CONTROL IN N.Y. PRIMARY TODAY

A Bitter Party Fight Highlights Poll.

New York, March 27.—A bitter factional fight within the American Labor party, which often has claimed the balance of power in state and city elections, holds chief interest in tomorrow's primary election in New York state because of its possible effect on the November national election.

Democrats and Republicans will elect delegates to their national conventions, but lack of opposition to the organizations' uninstructed slates made their election certain.

Altho uninstructed, the delegate candidates are considered as overwhelmingly in favor of President Roosevelt and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

ALP Groups Back Roosevelt.

The American Labor party fight centered on the election of a 750 member state committee from right and left wing slates. The state committee names the Presidential electors. Both factions have indorsed a fourth term for President Roosevelt.

A bitter feud has been going on in the ALP ranks with the right wing, led by Alex Rose, state chairman of the party, charging that a victory for the faction headed by Sidney Hillman, CIO leader and New Deal labor adviser, would be a victory for the Communists. Hillman has put forward a so-called "unity" plan which involves putting left wing union leaders into key positions on the party's state executive committee.

See Help for Browder.

Lined up with Hillman in the fight to take over control of the ALP are Michael Quill, who has frequently been identified as a leader of the Communist party line, and Rep. Vito Marcantonio, who has been called the only Communist member of the house.

Rose and David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers, with whom he has been closely allied in the fight, have declared that if the Hillman plan is successful Earl Browder, head of the American Communist party, will be the real winner.

BRITISH AGENCY HOLDS WINCHELL LIBEL INSURANCE

A British controled insurance company has written a slander and libel insurance policy on Walter Winchell for his radio sponsor, the Andrew Jergens company, which was unable to buy the protection from leading American underwriters, it was learned yesterday.

American companies previously had written such insurance for Jergens, but refused to renew their policies because they consider Winchell a bad risk. The rate charged the Jergens company on the new policy is said to be the highest ever paid for slander and libel protection. The policy was obtained by Jergens from Eagle Indemnity company, a New York corporation organized by the Royal Insurance company interests of Liverpool.

Invites Libel Suits.

The business was peddled by Jergens thruout the insurance industry before it was accepted by the Eagle company at a rate greatly in excess of that customarily charged for such coverage. Eagle demanded and got the high rate because other companies refused to underwrite the risk at any price, insurance men said.

The entire cost of the policy is borne by the Jergens company and that permits Winchell to call his enemies names without fear of incurring personal financial loss. At times Winchell has taunted his smear victims by inviting them to sue him for libel. He has never explained, however, that the cost of defending such suits and the damages incurred are borne by his sponsor.

The Jergens company is forced to buy the libel and slander insurance because Winchell's contract with the Jergens company specifies he will be furnished with a so-called "hold harmless" policy which means that his sponsor is held responsible for any damages incurred. Winchell is reported to have a similar agreement with the New York Mirror which publishes his daily column.

Covered Up to $100,000.

The contract between Jergens and the Eagle company provides coverage up to $100,000. The insurance company has deemed it advisable not to carry the entire risk, reinsuring part of the business with other companies. Eagle is reported to retain $10,000 of the risk, with other companies participating for like amounts.

The Jergens policy is regarded as the "hottest" piece of business in the underwriting field. Insurance men rate Winchell an exceedingly poor risk. Two syndicates that had handled the Winchell risk before the present contract was written by Eagle Indemnity have refused to renew the policies. Each time a new contract has been written the rate has been jacked up until the business is now in a class by itself.

The business was offered several times to the Employers' Reinsurance corporation of Kansas City, one of the largest underwriters in the field. Each time it was refused.

"We do not consider Winchell an insurable risk," a New York specialist in libel insurance told THE TRIBUNE. "When he confined himself to bedroom keyhole gossip the risk could be reckoned with some accuracy. He is now engaged in a venomous crusade against reputable individuals in which the risks are incalculable."

DENY ILLINOISAN REVIEW IN LIBEL CASE CONVICTION

Washington, D. C., March 27 [Special].—The United States Supreme court today denied a review of a criminal libel conviction against William A. Doss, of Monticello, Ill., former county judge and states attorney and publisher of a mimeographed weekly leaflet called "The Liberty Press."

Doss, 65, a disbarred attorney, is under sentence of six months in jail as a result of his conviction two years ago of criminally libeling State's Atty. Carl I. Glasgow of Piatt county, Illinois. In his pamphlet, Doss attacked the prosecutor as deceitful, untruthful, and unfair in the conduct of his office.

Doss also is under sentence of three months in jail and a $2,000 fine on a charge of contempt of court which arose from distribution of his publication to members of a Piatt county grand jury investigating charges he violated the libel law. The Supreme court refused last November to review that case.

BLAST WINCHELL RUMOR ON LACK OF HOTEL ROOMS

The statement by Walter Winchell on his Sunday night broadcast that the Chicago hotel accommodation situation is acute and will be aggravated further by the Republican and Democratic conventions this summer was termed "false and uncalled for" yesterday by hotel operators here. They asserted that Winchell could not have had accurate knowledge of the Chicago situation or he would not have made such a remark.

MAY CALL JOAN TO STAND TODAY IN CHAPLIN TRIAL

Los Angeles, Cal., March 27 [Special].—Charles Chaplin's attorney announced today that Joan Berry will be called back to the witness stand tomorrow when the former comedian's trial on Mann act charges is resumed after a three day recess.

The attorney, Jerry Giesler, had said Friday he was thru cross-examining Miss Berry, 24, the government's chief witness. But today he said he would ask to have her recalled for further cross-examination about her relations with the 54 year old actor.

Chaplin May Testify.

It was explained that Miss Berry may be recalled with permission of the court. Giesler said he would ask Federal Judge J. F. T. O'Connor for that permission tomorrow.

When the government completes its case Chaplin himself may be called to the stand to present a denial of the charges made by his ex-protegee, who has charged in a civil suit that he is the father of her 5 month old daughter.

The defense concedes much of the government's evidence as to times and places of Joan's and Charlie's associations, but denies that Chaplin had intimate relations with her when they went to New York City in October, 1942. The government's charge that he violated the Mann act is based on that trip.

Contend Act Doesn't Apply.

Miss Berry testified that Chaplin told her to obtain her railroad ticket to New York at his studio, that she had intercourse with him in his Waldorf Astoria suite in New York, and that he gave her $300 to pay her railroad fare and that of her mother back to Los Angeles.

Chaplin, thru his attorneys, has contended that the Mann act doesn't apply to his acts, that its intention was to prevent commercialized vice rather than to control the conduct of individuals. The government prosecution, however, holds that provisions of the act do apply to his case.

The Mann act, which was introduced in congress in 1910 by the late Rep. James R. Mann [R., Ill.], reads in part:

"Any person who shall knowingly transport or cause to be transported or aid or assist in obtaining transportation for, or in transporting, in interstate or foreign commerce, or in any territory or in the District of Columbia, any woman or girl for the purpose of prostitution or debauchery, or for any other immoral purpose . . . or aid or assist in procuring or obtaining, any ticket or tickets, or any form of transportation or evidence of the right thereto . . . in going to any place for the purpose of prostitution or debauchery, or for any other immoral purpose, or with the intent or purpose on the part of such person to induce, entice or compel her to give herself up to the practice of prostitution, or to give herself up to debauchery, or any other immoral practice . . . shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000, or by imprisonment of not more than five years, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court."

Other provisions in the act refer to any person persuading or enticing a woman or girl to go from one place to another in interstate commerce for an immoral purpose, and to such persuasion used with girls under 18 and with alien females.

BARRETT FACING 'GRUDGE FIGHT' WITH DEMOCRAT

Sveinbjorn Johnson Race Recalls 1942 Clash.

This is the third article in a series discussing candidates seeking nomination for state offices in the April 11 primary.

BY GUY GENTRY.

The race for attorney general will bear some of the aspects of a "grudge fight" when Sveinbjorn Johnson, Democrat, begins his battle against Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett for that office. Johnson is retaining his position as counsel for the University of Illinois until the end of the scholastic year and will do little active campaigning during that time.

Barrett in 1942 ordered Johnson's salary checks held up when he found that, in addition to the $9,000 annual salary Johnson drew from the state, he also was on the federal government pay roll for $6,500 as state director of the office of government reports, a New Deal propaganda agency which was superseded by the office of war information.

In announcing his candidacy for attorney general last February, Johnson declared he would give up his $9,000 university job in June, adding that "I hope I shall be able to serve the university in some respects as effectively as while a member of the staff."

Militant Foe of Vote Frauds.

Barrett made his first campaign for attorney general in 1940 as a militant foe of vote frauds. After his election he added to that program vigorous prosecution of handbook operators. Barrett sponsored several measures to make vote thefts and vote errors more difficult. The plan he formulated in 1939 to detect and stop vote frauds was adopted by Republican organizations in other large cities.

Barrett is a native Chicagoan and member of a family prominent for years in public life. His father, George F. Barrett Sr., was chief justice of the Cook county Circuit court and his uncle, Charles V. Barrett, was a member of the board of review. Barrett himself, for many years, has been a leader in the 21st ward and among west side Republicans.

Barrett is vigorous in speech and action. His red hair already is beginning to thin on top. He is one of the state's most active sponsors of amateur athletic events. His Elgin-to-Chicago bicycle race is regarded as a "classic" of that sport. He also sponsors one of the important ice skating meets of the country. Barrett is married and lives at 2000 Cermak rd.

Faces Primary Opposition.

He will be opposed in the primary by Lloyd C. Moody of Wayne, who ran away from home when 12, traveled the world in tramp steamers, served in France in the first World war, and returned home to resume his studies at the University of Illinois. He was admitted to the bar in 1927, served as assistant United States attorney, and was a candidate in Cook county for probate judge in 1930 and for circuit judge in 1933. Barrett is the overwhelming favorite to win the nomination.

Johnson was born in Iceland and came to America in 1887 when he was 4 years old. He obtained his law degree at the University of North Dakota and practiced law in that state before serving as attorney general for one year and as Supreme court justice four years. He was hired in 1926 as legal counsel and professor of law by the University of Illinois.

Johnson took an active part in the formation of various agencies in the early stages of the New Deal, being state director of the national emergency council in 1935 and later heading the state organization of the office of government reports, the post which brought him legal difficulties with Barrett thru acceptance of state and federal pay checks at the same time.

Johnson is spare in build and bald. His Scandinavian ancestry is indicated in his sandy, freckled complexion. He is the author of "Pioneers of Freedom," a story of the Icelanders and their free state. Johnson is married, has one son now serving in the army, and resides in Champaign.

THE QUESTION.

What sad experience have you had in learning a new sport?

WHERE ASKED.

Hyde Park Recreation parlor.

THE ANSWERS.

Howard Goldstein, 5316 Dorchester av.—My aunt was going to give me a few lessons with a golf club. I swung it just as she told me, but struck the ground so hard the head broke off and bounced into the air. It struck my aunt on the head. I've decided to wait until clubs are more plentiful.

Arlene Joseph, student, 4422 Ellis av.—One day I borrowed my dad's tennis racket without his permission. I struck at the ball so hard that the racket slipped from my hand. It cracked in two pieces against the wooden fence. That first attempt was a pretty expensive one.

Robert Ellsworth, bus driver, 6539 Woodlawn av.—We had been learning all kinds of new stunts in the cavalry. The next lesson assigned was a bareback jump over a hurdle. Right after we landed, the horse made a sharp turn and I couldn't stick. I was dragged for 100 feet and spent three weeks in a hospital.

Pvt. Ray Malmgren, 78 Almay rd., Rochester, N. Y.—It wasn't a very wise idea to practice docking a canoe laden with food supplies. I was able to paddle it, but when I tried to dock we upset and dumped the whole load. I got an empty canoe for my next practice.

Mrs. Benjamin James, housewife, 5542 Dorchester av.—My first swing at a soft ball turned out to be a sad experience for my best friend. All I could think of was to hit the ball. I hit what might have been a home run, but I never ran it out, because I threw the bat and knocked my friend unconscious.

Jerry Oscherwitz, student, 5000 Cornell av.—When I was first learning to skate I was discouraged by all the hard falls, but I didn't give up for a few little things like that. Then one day when I fell thru a hole in the ice, I decided to put off learning for another year.

NEW TAX FORMS FOR APRIL BEING MAILED TO 800,000

The mailing of 800,000 forms for declarations of 1944 estimated income tax was begun yesterday, Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue for this district, said. The forms are being mailed to taxpayers who filed estimates for 1943 last September. The new blanks must be filled in and returned by April 15.

On the new form, Harrison said, the taxpayer will estimate his total income and victory tax but will deduct the withholding tax which his employer will take out for the government. Persons who derive income of $100 or more from sources other than salary must pay one fourth of the estimated tax on such income at the time of filing the declaration.

PREDICT 'QUIET' VOTE, BUT GUARD AGAINST FRAUD

County Judge Jarecki and Guy Reed, chairman of the joint civic committee on elections, who are cooperating to prevent vote frauds, predicted yesterday that the April 11 primary would be "reasonably quiet." But they are taking no chances.

In view of the man power shortage particular efforts will be made efficiently to distribute about 500 volunteer polls watchers. In the 1940 election there were 8,000 nonpartisan watchers. Despite the inroads made by war, the committee still has about 1,200 expereinced men and women from previous elections on its lists. The question is how many will be too busy to serve this year.

Five Ward Races Watched.

Committee members seem unworried over the single heated statewide contest—for secretary of state on the Republican ticket. Most of the fireworks is expected in the five battles for G. O. P. committeeman posts in five wards—1st, 5th, 25th, 29th, and 42d.

"We are going to stand guard where the main battles are expected," Reed said. "It is in those areas that excitement might lead to tactics with which we have become familiar. We are compiling reports on spots where conditions might be bad."

Volunteers will be assigned in shifts to each "trouble area" precinct—in some instances two at a time in a precinct. There also will be roving squads to help out if fraud attempts become too ambitious.

All Volunteers Sponsored.

All of the volunteers are what Reed described as the "sponsored type—determined to do a civic job without fear, favor, or reward." Recruits enrolled by the present drive must take the educational course, which includes lectures and moving pictures showing how vote thieves operate. These workers will be instructed to familiarize themselves in advance with the neighborhoods in which they will be posted.

"Methods we have worked out have proved to be pretty effective," Reed said.

Organized in 1939, the committee coördinates the honest ballot efforts of the Chicago Association of Commerce, Chicago Bar association, Woman's City club, City club, Union League club, League of Women Voters, and more than 50 affiliated groups.

Canada Extends Income Tax Payments 4 Months

OTTAWA, Ont., March 27.—Canadians were told today by Revenue Minister Colin Gibson that they will have four more months to complete payment of their 1943 income taxes. Normally payments must be completed by April 30 each year but the government decided to postpone payment of balances until Aug. 31 without interest.

PEAK OF 288,000 SEEN IN 1970 IN VET HOSPITALS

Washington, March 27 (AP).—Brig. Gen. Hines, director of the veterans' administration, estimated today hospitalization of war veterans will reach a peak of 288,000 by 1970.

He testified at a house committee hearing on a senate-passed "G. I. bill of rights" providing hospitalization, education and vocational training, loans for homes, farms, and businesses, employment service, and unemployment benefits for veterans of this war.

"We expect the peak in hospitalization to come many years after this war ends and not immediately afterward," Hines told the committee. He said hospital cases are coming in now at the rate of 1,000 to 1,400 a month.

REPORTS FARLEY SAYS ALL EXCEPT SOUTH IS G.O.P.

New York, March 27 (AP).—Newspaper Columnist Ed Sullivan said tonight on his weekly broadcast that James A. Farley, former Democratic national chairman, told him he is convinced that if the Presidential election were held tomorrow the Democratic party would lose every state with the exception of the solid south.

"Mr. Farley believes the winning Republican combination will be Thomas E. Dewey and Earl Warren," Sullivan said.

"He tells me that, basing his estimates on what he believes already to be a 5 per cent national turnover in votes, if the election were held tomorrow, the Democrats would lose every state except the solid south."

COL. M'CORMICK SEES ANARCHY IN A 'SUPER-STATE'

Warns of Subordination to Inferior Powers.

Omaha, Neb., March 27 [Special]. —Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, tonight described as "world anarchy" the conditions that may be expected to prevail under the super-government proposed to rule the globe in the post-war era.

Col. McCormick spoke before a throng of 1,000 at a dinner meeting of the Ad-Sell club. There were frequent bursts of applause. Col. McCormick was introduced by Charles Reed, attorney, who said:

"Recently it has required fortitude for any one to stand against propaganda and villification and assert the inherent right of free speech. Col. McCormick is perhaps the foremost figure in the battle to preserve free speech in this country, and at times he has appeared to be the only one, standing apparently alone against a torrent of ridicule, criticism, and abuse."

In his address, Col. McCormick analyzed this country's prospects in a world government and restated, with amplifications, what he termed a "Confession of Faith of an American."

"It is proposed," he said, "that we tear up the instrument of government which, beginning with the Declaration of Independence, has developed thru the continental congress, the confederation, the ordinance of the Northwest territory, the Constitution, and the Bill of Rights, and intrust ourselves with no self-protection in a world government in which we will have one of 44 votes, the British empire six and it would seem that Russia will have 16.

Power to Levy Taxes.

"This super-government is to have power to levy taxes on us without our consent, to spend the proceeds among the dominant majority which will raise and equip armies and appoint their officers, and create a supreme judiciary before which Americans may be hauled from this country for trial, deprived of all the rights we now enjoy under our Consituation."

Col. McCormick said that in presenting his "creed as an American" he offered a creed to which every Republican and every Jeffersonian Democrat can subscribe. In amplifying these principles, which he previously had stated to several other audiences, he declared:

"Lincoln, at Gettysburg, epitomized our American doctrine when he said: 'Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.'

Confusion of Words.

"Some people of today misunderstand the meaning of these words, saying that men vary in height, in mental acumen, in taste, in almost everything. These people confuse the word 'equal' with the word 'identical.' We can easily comprehend the phrase if we take the words as Jefferson understood and used them.

"When Jefferson wrote the Declaration of Independence, and indeed until it had been adopted by the continental congress, Americans were subjects of the British empire, an institution founded and maintained on the legal inequality of men.

"There were and are in England six orders of royalty and nobility. The king, dukes, marquises, earls, and barons, all holding seats in the house of lords with the right to be tried by their peers and not subject to the judgment of commoners.

Knights of Various Kinds.

"Following the barons come baronets and then a great many knights of various kinds. To this rank at the very bottom of the nobility a few American generals and admirals have been elevated. There is a rank reserved for women, called dames, not to be confused with the New York underworld understanding of that word. Below knights come gentlemen, a term denoting ancestry rather than conduct. In Scotland there is another rank known as master.

"Occupations are graded socially. There are two ranks of lawyers, one known as barristers, confined to the lower aristocracy, and solicitors, open to the middle but not the lower classes. Medicine and science do not rank high in the social hierarchy. The high born scorn to follow them. Newspaper writers belong in the lower class and use the servants' entrance when calling on important people.

Social Distinctions.

"No English nobles emigrated to America but various social distinctions existed here. In Connecticut, perhaps the most uniform colony of all, women were fined and imprisoned for dressing beyond their station. In South Carolina was a self-conscious quasi-aristocracy.

"Such were the inequalities that the Declaration of Independence terminated.

"That the statement did not make all men equal socially and legally is obvious, but because of it slavery was excluded from the Northwest territory and was abolished in the south 90 years later.

"Today the statement does not represent an existing condition, but an ideal toward which this country, but no other, is striving.

Not Adopted Elsewhere.

"Therefore, I believe in the first principle of the Declaration of Independence 'that all men are created equal' as strongly as the men who wish to rule others and those who buy into the foreign nobility—and their hangers-on—disbelieve in it. . . .

"I believe that 'all men are created with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness,' a doctrine that has not yet been adopted elsewhere. . . .

"I believe that 'in all criminal prosecutions, the accused should enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime shall have been committed,' and I regret that our courts have seen fit to violate this amendment to the Constitution.

Petition to Congress.

"I regret that in Washington is being carried on a trial of people of no political consequence that outrages every American conscience.

"We should petition congress to correct this national disgrace. . . .

"I believe that governments should 'derive their just powers from the consent of the governed,' another purely American conception. . . .

"I believe the groveling acceptance of official Washington that foreign royalty and nobility are superior to American citizens is disgusting."

Specific Freedoms.

After restating his firm belief in other specific freedoms, such as freedom of religion, of speech, and of the press, Col. McCormick said:

"Lord McCauley said that our Constitution was 'all sail and no anchor.' I wonder what he would say today if he could see our constitutional procedure carrying the American elections to American soldiers in England, which has been without elections since 1935 and without a Bill of Rights since 1939.

"As we sit here, what we bless most is the solidity of the government our Constitution set up.

"In the early days of the New Deal it was the Supreme court which preserved our institutions, and by the time that had been almost completely made over—and please do not understand me to say that I do not think the present Supreme court will not stand up—I believe it will—but anyway by the time it had been made over, congress had reasserted its powers, and where it has lately succumbed in the matter of the Presidential election, the state governments have asserted the powers delegated to them in the Constitution to select Presidential electors."

No Government in China.

Discussing the proposed post-war supergovernment which he declared would mean world anarchy, Col. McCormick said:

"Unbelievable as it is, a justice of our Supreme court is a leading advocate of this world anarchy and so is our secretary of state!

"Let us consider the institutions to which we are to be subordinated. First, China. There is no government in China. The only governments it has ever had have been the governments of conquerors! Since the Manchurian emperor was deposed in 1912, such governments as have existed have been by local war lords.

"At the present time Chiang Kaishek uses the title of president, altho patently he has not been elected to that office and is maintained in power solely by American lend-lease money. It is proposed that China shall continue to receive American lend-lease money as a right enforceable by an international army! China has three times our population.

"We are also to come under the government of Russia.

"Russians have never known liberty. In the time of the emperors, rule was dictatorial under the code of the eastern Roman empire which, if severe and denying all freedom, was at least honestly administered. Since the revolution of 1917 there has been no law and much massacre in Russia. Russia, now receiving vast sums in lend-lease, is also to have our contribution by right enforceable by an international army. Post-war Russia will have twice our population.

Ruled by Dictators.

"We are to come under rule of the so-called South American republics, all of whom have never been able to conduct themselves as republics. They have always been ruled by dictators, each succeeding each by revolution.

"What relationship are we to have with France, whose efforts at a republican form of government collapsed under the shock of war; where the De Gaulle faction murdered Adm. Darlan who let us into Africa, and where a military tribune even now is embarking upon a twentieth century reign of terror? Is it conceivable that you will commit yourselves and your descendants to such horrors?

"Another suggestion is that we shall combine our government with that of the British empire.

"I have pointed out that, if desired, this can be brought about by admitting the component parts of that empire into our union under our constitution, giving them the benefits of the great liberties it guarantees to its citizens. This would probably be the choice of the British people but not of their privileged classes who alone are vocal and who have bitterly denounced the suggestion in the insular and colonial press and in the newspapers they control in this country.

Recall Churchill Speech.

"My friend Winston Churchill suggested to the Republican conference at Mackinac, with the approval of President Conant of Harvard, and apparently of President Roosevelt, that we repeal our Declaration of Independence and reënter the British empire as lower class subjects of the British crown. Some of our millionaires favor this plan so that they may buy for themselves the titles that they can now only purchase for their sisters and daughters.

"Let us see, therefore, what is the British empire and how it is ruled and how are its subjects protected from tyranny.

"One consequence of our revolution was that, in imitation of our guarantee of a free press, the press in Great Britain was freed from many of its shackles. A law was enacted making the jury judge of the libel as well as of the publication, thus depriving the judiciary of the tyrannous powers it has exercised for centuries. Also those taxes on newspapers, which made their publication unbearably burdensome, were repealed, and the practice of holding editors in jail for long periods without trial was abolished.

Fails to Respond.

"The British press did not respond to its new found liberties. The newspapers became either organs of privileged groups, such as the London Times and Morning Post, or properties of millionaires using them to obtain peerage by supporting the successful political parties.

"A self-respecting professional press devoted to the interest of its readers never arose in England.

"This may explain why about 20 years ago under various guises, the courts reintroduced censorship.

"Of this tendency the London Economist said in 1936:

"'Some of his majesty's judges, taking an increasingly serious view both of the wickedness of criticism and the sordid motives of the press, have employed on the bench the art of advocacy which they learned at the bar to stimulate the jurymen to award swingeing damages. Comments which less judicial minds would regard as harmless or justifiable have been treated by the judges as gross defamation; and plaintiffs, encouraged by the prevailing fashion, have brought actions that in earlier generations would have been laughed out of court.'

New Form of Censorship.

"Still more recently an English court has introduced a hitherto unknown form of censorship.

"The London Daily Express and the London Evening News had published accounts of the assault with a deadly weapon upon the then king of England in the current language used by every one in describing the assault.

"Upon the excuse that these descriptions were calculated to prejudice the defendant's fair trial, each newspaper was fined. The fines were levied without jury trial and by the process most open to judicial wrongdoing because it has no rules, is not limited in the violence of its penalties, and is subject to the minimum of review in the higher courts—contempt of court.

"The ruling sets up the principle that newspapers may not describe breaches of the peace. If a newspaper may not describe an assault on the king, it may not describe a riot; it may not describe a Communist outbreak, a Fascist march on London, or an attack by the police of the army upon a peaceable assembly.

Its Principal Defense.

"Under the guise of protecting a defendant's rights, the court deprived the English people of its principal defense against a seditious uprising or a coup d'etat—this long before all of the traditional rights of Englishmen were abolished four years ago.

"The colonial newspapers, even those in Canada which have had the American example before them, followed the British pattern. All newspapers in the British Empire are now under absolute government control and a despicable control it is.

"In further imitation of our first amendment, toleration of dissent in religion has been greatly extended in Great Britain, but equality of religion has not been granted, and financial support of the state church is required from dissenters outside of Scotland and Wales.

Rights of Self-Government.

"The principle of manhood suffrage and equal representation—the reform bill—was another reform copied from our Constitution.

"Still another consequence of our revolution was that parliament granted broad rights of self-government to the white, English-speaking colonies.

"These rights, however, unlike ours, are not constitutional rights belonging to the colonies. They have been granted by parliament and can be withdrawn by parliament—which brings us to a discussion of the powers of parliament.

"Madison has pointed out:

"'That in England parliament is unlimited in its power; that the power of the king has alone been curtailed by Magna Charta and the other great constitutional documents; that only the prerogatives of the king may be curtailed.'

Different Case Here.

"'In the United States the case is altogether different. The people, not the government, possess the absolute sovereignty. The legislature, no less than the executive, is under limitations of power. Encroachments are regarded as possible from the one as well as from the other. Hence, in the United States, the great and essential rights of the people are secured against legislative as well as executive ambition. They are secured, not by laws paramount or prerogative, but by constitutions paramount to laws.'

"The American Revolution brought about the defeat of King George III.'s party which had tried to revive the prerogatives so curtailed. Parliament then resolved 'that it is necessary to declare that the influence of the crown has increased, is increasing, and ought to be diminished.'

Continuous Diminution.

"Since then the power of the crown has continuously been diminished. The right to veto legislation passed away by non-use. Lord Palmerston, as foreign minister, took over the conduct of foreign affairs which had been part of the royal prerogative.

"The king, so long the dominating—some times the absolute—element of the government, has been reduced to a figurehead having lost both his executive and his legislative powers. He can no longer even choose his wife, and has yielded the headship of the state church to the archbishop of Canterbury, long since an appointee of the prime minister.

"The principle of our Declaration of Independence that 'governments obtain their just powers from the consent of the governed' found expression in England with the growing dissatisfaction with the hereditary house of lords as a legislative body.

Conflict Over Legislation.

"In the early years of this century the house of commons and house of lords came into conflict over the social legislation of Lloyd George, introduced in the government by Prime Minister Herbert Asquith. The lords having thrown out some of the legislation, the house of commons compelled them to accept the principle that any law insisted upon by the commons should become effective without the house of lords' consent.

"Now the house of lords, sitting by right of birth, which used to have equal powers with, and often controled, the elections to the house of commons, has been reduced to the status of an adviser to the house of commons, which need not heed its advice. Thus, the king's right of veto having been lost, the old common law rule that legislation to be effective must be passed by the two houses and approved by the executive, has been destroyed.

Whim of a Majority.

"In olden days the courts outlawed acts of the king and parliament that contravened Magna Charta, but abandoned that power long ago, so now Britain is ruled by the whim of a majority of one house.

"Of the present government of England, Maj. Gen. Fuller, retired, of the British army, has recently written in the London Evening Standard—I quote:

"'. . . Glance only at what has been and is taking place under our very noses, here in democratic England, among ourselves—we who begat the mother of parliaments:

"'The whole nation is regimented, conscription embracing civil worker and soldier alike. Freedom of choice of occupation is gone, as much so as freedom to enlist into a particular regiment or service.

Disappearance of Liberty.

"'Individual liberty has disappeared. Secret police have been established under evasive names. Magna Charta, the Bill of Rights and habeas corpus are virtually shelved.

"Further that: 'all thriving in a "left wing" atmosphere—our idolization of Russia clearly points to this. Further still, the longer the war lasts, the stronger and the longer will their roots grow, and that, as after the last war, when peace is reëstablished, many will be too firm set to be eradicated.

"'. . . with our allies it is much the same, yet with at least one marked difference. Whereas in the United States of America freedom of the individual still commands attention, in Russia it disappeared with the coming of Lenin. In that vast aggregation of countries—the U. S. S. R.—the purely socialistic phase has been traversed and some observers suggest that a militaristic phase may become dominant.'

Power in a Dictator.

"So we find that the house of commons is now a self-perpetuating assembly that has repealed not only the Bill of Rights, the right to own property, the right to jury trial, the right to freedom from imprisonment without trial, but the Magna Charta itself, and has lodged all power in the hands of a dictator!

"Will we scrap the Constitution, which, in the face of a combination of Communists and capitalists under the leadership of an unscrupulous and overambitious executive, has preserved elections involate, preserved the two houses of congress, and with court empowered to construe the Constitution, in order to enter the British anarchy?

"I know not what the others may do, but I will not repudiate the sage advice of Washington when he said in his farewell address:

"'We may safely trust to temporary alliances for extraordinary emergencies. It is our true policy to steer clear of permanent alliances with any portion of the foreign world.'"

GOV. DEWEY HAS BEST NOMINATION CHANCE, SAYS COL. M'CORMICK

Omaha, Neb., March 27 (AP).—Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, said at a press conference here today he believes Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York has the best chance of winning the Republican Presidential nomination but added "Dewey has got to come out and be an avowed candidate" to win delegates.

Col. McCormick said Wendell Willkie "is always saying the same things as Roosevelt." He said he did not believe Willkie "has much chance" of winning the Republican nomination.

Referring to the age of the leaders in the present administration, Col. McCormick predicted "the New Deal is going to die of old age if nothing else." He said it is possible that "the New Deal crowd will not dominate the Democratic convention."

Col. McCormick described Roosevelt as "the worst diplomat we ever had in this country," and charged that Roosevelt "is working for Stalin and Churchill," but "they aren't doing anything for us."

The publisher said there is a feeling that Texas may go Republican this year. "There are a lot of northerners who have gone south and it may be that they are beginning to be felt," he declared.

Col. McCormick said the east has dominated American affairs and has "an advantage that must be overcome."

"I'll tell you what they think in the east," he said. "They think they own the country—and they almost do. They feel they have a duty to run the country."

CASSINO ATTACK FAILURE, 2 ARMY PAPERS ASSERT

Declare Doughboys Will Profit from Lessons.

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, March 27 (AP).—The allied attempt to wrest Cassino from its stubborn German defenders appeared tonight to have been suspended for the time being after the failure of an 11 day assault—a failure conceded by newspapers of both the Uited States and Canadian soldiers. These newspapers, the Stars and Stripes and the Maple Leaf, also gave expression to the allied determination to profit from the bitter experience.

It was announced that massed allied artillery has begun a systematic bombardment to blast Nazi parachute troops from the ruins of the Continental hotel and the Hotel des Roses.

Complete absence of mention of ground activity in the allied war bulletin appeared to indicate that New Zealand troops who fought their way into the last quarter of Cassino had for the moment abandoned the effort to drive the Germans from their remaining strongholds.

"Learned Many Lessons."

"The allies have learned many lessons in the battle for Cassino, lessons which will count wherever Germans are fought," Stars and Stripes said. "The British and Americans who invade Europe from the west will profit by those who have gone before them in the shattered town in the mountains of Italy. When allied soldiers start again on the road to Rome their way will have been made easier by the hard learned knowledge gained in the fighting at Cassino."

The Maple Leaf said: "The allied attack combination of bombs from the air, shells from artillery, and punch from the infantry has failed. The allies have been beaten at Cassino, but there is no reason to believe that theirs is a final failure. The formula is learned the hard way. The next time the forces who know they are fighting for freedom hit Cassino, it will stay hit."

Quiet on Anzio Beachhead.

Action on the Anzio beachhead again was limited to small patrol actions.

[Monday's broadcast German war bulletin said "an American commando force" of two officers and 13 men had landed near the naval base of La Spezia, on the Gulf of Genoa, 200 miles northwest of Rome, but had been wiped out. There was no allied confirmation of the report.]

American heavy bombers attacked Fiume, important Italian Adriatic port, the Maniago airdrome 50 miles northeast of Venice and rail yards at Rimini on the Adriatic coast.

COUNCIL TO ACT ON HUNGARIAN POLICIES TODAY

LONDON, March 27 (AP).—The Budapest radio today announced that the council of ministers would meet tomorrow to promulgate decrees to bring about "radical changes in Hungary's home and foreign policies." The broadcast said "anti-Jewish measures will be included." Heads of Hungarian civil administrations have offered their resignations, the Swiss radio said.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, March 27 (AP).—Premier Nicholas Kallay of Hungary has taken refuge in the Turkish legation at Budapest since the German invasion of that axis nation, it was reported here tonight.

CASSINO PROVES BOMBINGS CAN'T WHIP INFANTRY

Troops Return to Posts When Planes Leave.

WITH THE 5TH ARMY ON THE CASSINO FRONT, March 27 (AP).—The current allied failure at Cassino is blunt proof that air power alone—no matter in what strength—cannot defeat a determined enemy on a battle field.

Bombers may smash cities and industries, slow up communications, and kill and terrorize civilians, perhaps to a point where the country can be brought to defeat. In the case of Germany, this is yet to be proved.

But bombers cannot beat good infantry men. When the will to resist is strong, as at Cassino, ground troops in good position can withstand anything planes can drop on them and hold their ground. They may have to run into holes like rats when the bombs come, but after the bombing, they can emerge and fight again.

Quicker Back at Posts.

On March 15, 500 bombers pounded Cassino and returned again and again to the target with new loads of bombs. For four hours they rained high explosives on this one small town. Then hundreds of artillery pieces pounded at what was left.

But by the time tanks had cut thru the rubble and seasoned New Zealand infantry men got into the town, the Germans had emerged from their shelters and again were at their posts in the ruins of the southern part of the town.

The New Zealanders wiped out some of these posts and captured some of the defenders. But they could not advance to the end of the town under the withering, close range fire from the bulk of the defenders who still were fighting.

It is true that the Germans selected their best shock troops for the defense of Cassino, members of the 1st parachute division. One might suppose that even such soldiers would be unnerved by such a bombing. But most of those captured showed little or no sign of nerves.

Pillboxes in Use Again.

It is also reported that the Germans had extremely deep and well built underground defenses. When the allied troops went into Cassino, they found pillboxes under many of the piles of rubble, anti-tank guns in cellars, and the debris alive with sharpshooters. One German sharpshooter is credited with killing 34 allied soldiers. When hand grenades failed to dislodge him, tanks were run over his position but this did not silence him.

The lesson of Cassino is one the Russians apparently have known all along and one which the Germans learned at Stalingrad. The Germans threw clouds of bombers against Stalingrad but the Russians buried themselves under the city and then came out again.

The Cassino bombing also provided some check on the accuracy of bombing. Army and air force chiefs had a grandstand view of the spectacle and saw many bombs fall wide of the target. Some were mistakenly dropped miles away and killed allied troops. [Incidents of this type occasionally have happened in terrain where opposing lines were both close and hard to define.]

RED CROSS AIDS FROM CHICAGO BUSY IN ALGERIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALGIERS, Algeria, March 27.—More than 1,000 reports a month on births and illnesses in their families back home now are being made to soldiers in this theater by the American Red Cross.

Emmett Burke, who lived at 596 N. Hawthorne pl., Chicago, formerly was employed by federal and state relief agencies, is assistant field supervisor. He explained that frequently soldiers have been getting only meager details in letters from home and they request more data on emergency matters.

Blanche Novak, administrative assistant to the field director here, formerly was a secretary in the law offices of Sidley, McPherson, Austin & Burgess, a Chicago firm. She also was recording secretary of the Evanston board of education. Her last home address was the Greenwood Inn on Hinman av., Evanston.

ADS SHOW FATE OF NORTH ITALY UNDER GERMANS

Travel and Home Life Are Disrupted.

BY P. E. BRIQUET.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CHIASSO, On the Swiss-Italian Frontier, March 27.—The plight of Nazi occupied northern Italy is disclosed in the advertising columns of the Fascist press. The papers, reduced to a single sheet, devote a large part of the back page to advertising.

In a recent issue of the Milan Pomerrigio, inquiries into the whereabouts of missing men and officers filled one-quarter of the advertising space.

That interurban communication practically is at a standstill was illustrated by this announcement: "Leaving Saturday, Sunday, or Monday at the latest for Rome, a private bus. Still three seats to be had free."

The unreliability of the Fascist postal system is exemplified particularly by the large announcement of another hauling concern which says: "Our most reliable employes also carry personal messages."

Promised Aid Is Slow.

War damage is one of the gravest problems in Milan. One house building firm announces that it will "buy bombed houses." The Fascist government is providing financial help for the reconstruction but the help is slow in forthcoming or is difficult to obtain as evidenced by this announcement: "Lawyer, a former official of the tax service, specializes in claims for administrative help for the bombed out."

Many bombed houses are uninhabitable but some less damaged places have been the victims of robberies because of inadequate police protection. The spread of thievery is stressed by this ad: "Reward to any one furnishing information leading to the recovery of a large gray van stolen from an important moving firm."

Try to Tempt Labor.

A large part of the advertising space is reserved for the German occupation authorities who use it for propaganda intended to lure Italian man power into volunteering for work in Germany. The paper Regima Fascista devoted one-third of the entire advertising space to the following "call":

"It is an excellent idea for land laborers [farmers] to go to work in Germany where an Italian driver was signed for an immediate job in which he is being paid the same wages as his German comrades."

HITCH IN TIME SAVES NOTHING FOR GUINEA GI'S

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AT AN ADVANCED ALLIED BASE in New Guinea, March 27.—It is fall in Australia and Australia is a modern country eager to share all the benefits of civilization such as daylight saving time, along with its subsidiary, New Guinea. So jungle time went back an hour yesterday. Today the complaints already have started rolling.

When the GI's heard that dawn would come at 6 a. m. instead of at 7, they cheered. Now they wouldn't have to get up so early. But today they found out the army runs on sun time so instead of arising at 4:30 a. m. to do sundry chores, they got up at 3:30. Some thought the change would help the movie situation. Movies, held in the open air, had begun at 8 p. m. The rains came at 9:30, right in the middle of the seventh reel, and every one went home soaking wet. But now they start at 8 p. m. and the rains come in the middle of the third reel.

Shang Chen, head of China's national military council and one of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's most trusted associates, is expected to leave Chungking soon to head the Chinese military mission in Washington, D. C., thereby signalizing closer military relations between the United States and China.

PACIFIC YANKS A RUGGED CREW, SAYS COMPTON

Health, Morale Top Jap Fighters.

United States soldiers in the Pacific theater withstand malaria far better than their Japanese enemies and all evidence indicates the Japanese are suffering from lack of nourishment. Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said here yesterday. He returned recently from a 28,000 mile tour during which he saw Gen. MacArthur and Adm. Nimitz.

Dr. Karl T. Compton.

Dr. Compton is not permitted to discuss the reason for his Pacific tour, but he said he was deeply impressed by the high morale of the troops and sailors under command of Gen. MacArthur and Adm. Nimitz. He said the men's physical condition is good and with plenty of atabrine available and on mess tables at all times Americans are combating malaria effectively despite the shortage of quinine.

Sees Synthetic Rubber Future.

Dr. Compton, who was a member of the national committee which made a study of the rubber situation in 1942, predicted a definite place in the post-war world for the synthetic rubber industry which has mushroomed because of war demands and the lack of natural rubber. Cost, he said, will be a factor, depending upon how rubber plantations survive the war.

Buna-S is working out in war production and other uses better than had been expected, Dr. Compton said, and synthetic rubber plants which have been put into operation are producing 35 per cent more than was expected.

Discourages Optimism.

This does not mean, however, that civilian automobile owners can expect to get new synthetic tires soon because the army's demand for tires for airplanes and trucks is greater than was anticipated. One reason, Dr. Compton said, for the delay in production of synthetic tires was the slowness in getting approval for construction of rayon plants.

Use of rayon instead of cotton in the carcass of military tires cuts the requirement for natural rubber with which the cords are held together by 50 per cent.

SCHOOL RADIO PROGRAM IS HIT BY MANY THEFTS

Sets Lack Repairs and Spare Parts.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Loss of school radio receivers thru burglaries has increased at such a rate in some districts of the city the last year that principals are hesitating to seek replacements, the radio council of the board of education disclosed yesterday. Inability to obtain tubes, other parts, and repair service, together with a steady obsolescence of sets, is beginning to impair the effectiveness of the board's school time radio program.

If the depreciation rate continues and if parts fail to come thru in greater quantities, the school radio receivers will be ready for the junk heap and will have to be replaced by new equipment at the end of the war, George Jennings, acting director of the council, said in a report of radio activities for the semester just concluded.

200 Sets Are Lost.

A year ago all of the more than 400 public schools had facilities for radio listening. A survey indicated that 1,000 receivers were in use. Since then 200 sets have been lost thru thefts, obsolescence, or disrepair. About 100 new receivers have been acquired during this interval. Many were frequency modulation sets, enabling the schools to tune in the board of education's recently established FM station, WBEZ.

Many schools, Jennings said, have funds, obtained thru scrap and salvage drives, which could be used to buy FM sets if they were available.

Grab Radios First.

When burglars break into a school, radios—table models—usually are the first things stolen, Jennings said, probably because they are so easily marketable.

Since many schools lack FM sets capable of receiving WBEZ, the council's programs are broadcast also over five standard broadcasting stations.

During the last semester, programs were broadcast directly to 182,110 students in 3,981 classes, and 1,370 students participated in school programs, Jennings said.

BABY GIRL, BORN ON TRAIN, PUT IN HOSPITAL HERE

A sailor's wife and her seven pound baby girl, born Sunday on a transcontinental train as it sped between Evanston and Green River, Wyo., were met by an ambulance yesterday at the North Western station and taken to Passavant hospital. The mother, Mrs. E. W. Andrews, was en route from Napa, Cal., to be with her husband, a coxswain in the navy, at Newport, R. I., when the child was born. The baby, who has been named Carolyn Sue, was delivered in a lower berth of a Pullman car by an army doctor, Maj. Paul S. Connell, two nurses, and the Pullman conductor, Harry Madden, of 1548 Glenlake av. Mrs. Andrews is 18 years old.

14 TIRES STOLEN.

Fourteen tires were stolen in a burglary of a gas station at 1026 E. 67th st., Douglas Southworth, owner, reported to police yesterday.

YANKS DESTINED TO STAY BEHIND WILL GIVE BLOOD

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 27.—American soldiers, scheduled to remain in the United Kingdom in vital supply and administrative jobs, are being given an opportunity to participate more actively in the threatened European invasion by donating their blood for battle casualties.

Many thousands already have volunteered since the first call six weeks ago, Lt. Col. Angvald Vickeren of the operations section, office of chief surgeon, European theater of operations, said today. Before the allies land on the continent, he said, thousands more of names are expected to be added to the master list at a southern base section of headquarters which is the site of the proposed blood bank.

Will Contain Whole Blood.

This bank, a reservoir of whole blood, as distinct from dried blood plasma, which is shipped from the United States, will draw on only healthy soldiers of the supply service. Acceptable volunteers must have blood type O—suitable for any patient. Plans call for a continuous collection of many thousand pints of blood, available for hospitals here.

Most of this blood, Vickeren explained, is intended for use as close to the front line as possible, supplementing plasma as well as blood obtained from slightly wounded patients.

To accomplish this, the medical corps has trained advanced detachments to serve with the field armies and troops of communication zones on the continent. Each crew will have a truck equipped with a refrigerator holding 400 pints, which will supply battalion first aid, clearing, and collection stations as well as evacuation hospitals.

Based on Experience.

When the call is received here from the continent for blood, it will be shipped in iced containers by air or sea, met at the other end by the refrigerator trucks, and taken to advanced detachments' own storage refrigerators.

The army's scheme for collecting whole blood was worked out by Maj. Gen. Paul R. Hawley, chief surgeon, Colonels Robert S. Muckenfuss and James B. Mason, Maj. Robert C. Hardin, and Vickeren, following a decision based on experience in North Africa.

Wounded soldiers, who have lost much blood, need the red corpuscles of whole blood, altho plasma, which is blood without red corpuscles, can pull them thru critical periods. But battlefield experience has shown that in extreme cases, plasma, alone, is insufficient or at best only a stopgap until whole blood transfusions can be given.

Some blood collecting teams here are making trial runs to familiarize themselves with the technique of collection. Blood so collected either is used at general and station hospitals here or sent to the British army's plasma production plant.

DOUGLAS PLANE WORKER KILLED, 2 HURT IN BLAST

Gordon Clinkunbroomer, 42, of 1407 Oakton st., Evanston, was killed early today when a high pressure air tank exploded while he was using it to test parts at the Douglas Aircraft plant at Mannheim and Higgins rds.

Miss June Verhoeff, 21, of 235 Wisner av., Park Ridge, and another woman employe working near-by suffered minor injuries. Both were given first aid in the plant infirmary.

Thousands of other employes were at work in the plant when the blast occurred near the end of the second shift. Plant officials said it was the second fatality since work on the plant was begun in August, 1942.

Huge new six ton super block buster bomb the British royal air force now is dropping on German industrial facilities is contrasted with array of other bombs, ranging from 500 pounds to two tons, which play their part in pre-invasion destruction.

U. S. PLANES RIP 9 NAZI AIR BASES IN FRENCH AREAS

LONDON, March 27 (AP).—United States Flying Fortresses and Liberators—an armada of from 150 to 1,000 heavy bombers—swept almost unopposed thru France today to blow up nine German airdromes and the freight yards at Tours while their fighter escorts alone destroyed 38 Nazi planes.

Six of the bombers and 15 fighters failed to return from this daylight mission, the 21st of the month, executed while Essen, seat of the Krupp arms works, burned after a night attack by the R. A. F.

Air bases attacked were Chartres, 40 miles southwest of Paris; La Rochelle, St. Jean d'Angely, Pau, Biarritz, Cazaux, Bordeaux, and Monte de Marsan, all in the Bay of Biscay section, it was announced.

Strong forces of German bombers struck England and Wales tonight. London itself escaped attack, altho one section of the capital had a brief alert. The Nazi radio said Baistol was the principal target.

Maj. Walker M. Mahurin of Fort Wayne, Ind., accounted for his 21st German plane, downed in today's raids over France. Maj. Charles G. Tescner of Vincennes, Ind., shot down a Focke Wulf for his first victory.

A Rumor About 'Swooner' Puts Fans in Bad Humor

More than 100 Frank Sinatra fans, most of them wearing the bobby sox which have become almost a badge among his admirers, put away autograph books and trailed back to schools and offices after the rumored arrival in town of "The Voice" proved to be a false alarm. The swooner was reported to be arriving on yesterday's "Santa Fe Chief," but actually he is scheduled to come into Chicago today aboard the same train.

Planning Divorce

JOAN FONTAINE.

Hollywood, March 27 (AP).—Actress Joan Fontaine disclosed tonight she will soon seek a divorce from Brian Aherne, British-born actor. Miss Fontaine, the sister of Actress Olivia De Havilland, said her suit probably would charge cruelty and that it would be filed here. She and Aherne were married in Del Monte, Cal., Aug. 20, 1939.

Japs Hurl Wires in Air to Entangle U. S. Planes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AT AN ADVANCED NEW GUINEA BASE, March 27.—In a vain effort to save what remains of the defenses of Rabaul, the Japs are hurling wires attached to parachutes into the air to entangle American bombers, pilots reported today. The propeller of one plane was slightly damaged.

LOOT CAR OF CLOTHING.

Hymen Gratch, 4725 Ingleside av., told police yesterday that thieves broke into his parked car at 49th st. and the Outer drive and took $150 worth of men's clothing.

CHURCHILL TALK SHOWS RADAR AN ATTACK WEAPON

Washington, D. C., March 27 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill spoke right out about radar yesterday, and sent a nervous twinge thru army and navy security officers who are always jumpy where military secrets are concerned.

But, as a result of the prime minister's radio address, it can be revealed today that the miracle weapon which played a vital role in winning the defensive battle of Britain three years ago is on the offensive now. It rides with allied air forces in their day and night assaults upon Europe.

Wrapped in Secrecy.

For reasons of military security, radar has been under the tightest wraps of secrecy since news of its magic powers leaked out two years ago. Churchill broke the cloak of silence.

[Radar is an abbreviation for "radio detecting and ranging." By means of ultra high frequency waves it projects electrons into space which locate enemy targets such as ships or planes far beyond the range of human vision and returns the electrons to the sending transmitter, thus enabling the sender to measure exactly the distance to the target. It was originally developed by a Scotch electro-physicist, Robert A. Watson-Watt, and was credited with saving England from invasion after Dunkirk. At Truax field, near Madison, Wis., the army operates a radar training school.]

Scientists Unrecognized.

How vital a role the probing electronic fingers are playing on the offensive cannot yet be told. It can be reported that the American scientists who did most to develop this instrument are still without formal recogntion from the American government.

The line in Churchill's speech which gave security officers the jitters came when he said British and American air superiority was brought about not only by advantage in numbers, but also:

"By sharing all our secrets with one another we have won the leadership in the marvels of radar both for attack and defense."

SOLDIER WIELDS KNIFE ON TRAIN; SHOT IN SUBWAY

Pvt. Sheridan Foster, 19, of Fort Sheridan, was turned over to military authorities by police yesterday after a special agent of the Chicago Rapid Transit company shot him in the left heel during an altercation on the subway platform at Roosevelt road. The agent, Michael Rice, 53, of 2136 Kenmore av., said Foster attempted to attack him with a knife as he resisted removal from a northbound train. He said the soldier was intoxicated.

FINDS GERMANS IN GLOOM, BUT STILL DEFIANT

Himmler's Grip on People Remains Unbroken.

[David Darrah, Chicago Tribune foreign correspondent, has returned to America after 13 months' internment in Germany.]

BY DAVID DARRAH.

Germany's civilian population is despondent about winning the war but it is still responsive to the Nazi party demands. Those who have been bombed, lost relatives or witnessed the sight of an entirely destroyed city often have their determination to resist to the bitter end actually accentuated.

In Baden Baden, I talked to a few Germans who had suffered from the bombardments and their attitude was "we will never give up."

Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler's grip on Germany is all powerful, and he has allocated so many of his troopers to the job of quelling any attempted uprising that Goebbels and his propagandists were always boasting that there could be no disaffection this time.

"There won't be another 1918," he shouted last November. The Gestapo seemed, in fact, confident that it could allow a little criticism as an outlet for civilian pessimism. Alsatian waiters in our hotel took no precautions to express their opinions on what they considered a black future for Germany.

Checks Trial Reports.

But Himmler's repressive measures for agitation and defeatism, for listening to enemy radio, plundering after bomb raids and notorious black marketing were severe.

During the last three or four months I was in Germany I used to keep a check on the reports of trials and executions for defeatism and other offenses as they appeared in the German press. They used to average five or six a month and were usually given much publicity as a warning to others. Doubtless many cases were unpublished.

Here are a few cases I noted down: On Oct. 5 Mateus Troszko, 21, was condemned to death for robbing a shoe store in Mannheim after an air bombardment.

Executed for Gossiping.

On Oct. 15 Johann Dombrowski, 54; Fritz Grosspietsch, 56; Dorothea Fonden, 41; and Fritz Pahnke, 64, were executed for circulating rumors in a Berlin public office.

On Oct. 27 Alfred Neumann was executed at Stettin for swindling on war contracts.

On Oct. 29 in Strasbourg, Wilhelm Bartikowski got five years for blackmarketing and profiteering.

In Berlin on Oct. 29 Louis Birck, 56, was executed for seeking to discourage belief in final victory.

On Oct. 30 Mayor August Barsch of Gussow was condemned and executed for listening to the British radio in his office and telling fellow townsmen what he had heard.

In Berlin on Oct. 31 Albert Mehlhorn was executed for profiteering.

On Nov. 17 in Mechlenburg Frederick Schwarz, 56, was condemned to death for spreading lies about German troops in Italy at the time of the Badoglio armistice.

Makes False Claim; Dies.

In The Hague on Jan. 14 an unnamed Dutchman described as the murderer of Gen. Seyffard was executed for sabotage.

In Hamburg on Jan. 11 Albert Gragert, 47, was condemned to death for making false claims for bomb damage reparations.

On Jan. 15 it was announced that any one seeking to cross from Alsace into France would be shot at sight and one man had already been on Jan. 15. A black market ring in Strassburg was broken up and eight Germans who had traveled there from interior Germany to get provisions were arrested.

On Jan. 18, in Strassburg, Karl Ziller, 43, was executed for having listened to the foreign radio.

HERZL STUDENTS WILL BE MOVED TO CRANE TECH

Herzl Junior college students will move into Crane Technical High school, 2245 Jackson blvd., 25 blocks from the Herzl building, probably next Monday or Tuesday, Supt. Johnson said yesterday.

Students and political leaders said this was what they wanted. The action apparently settled a controversy which began last Tuesday morning when the students were instructed to continue classes, beginning yesterday, at Wilson Junior college, 6800 Stewart av., approximately 10 miles from Herzl, 3711 Douglas blvd. The navy will take possession of the Herzl building Saturday for a pre-radio training school.

Johnson warned that facilities probably would not be up to standard before next fall. College and high school students will use the same science laboratories. The Herzl library will be moved beginning today to a third floor room at Crane. John C. Christensen, board architect, said plans would be prepared for installing two college laboratories and providing women's gymnasium facilities.

New Jap Attack Unleashed

How Allies and Japan Line Up in Muddled Burma-India War

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIED HDQ., NEW DELHI, India, March 27.—The over-all picture of the campaign in Burma is one which would bring despair to writers on orthodox military tactics. Perhaps the most fitting description was voiced by a military spokesman who in all seriousness said it was the "kind of campaign in which everybody surrounds everybody else."

An Indian told me today the currently popular joke among the turbaned, pantalooned citizens of New Delhi is that if the campaign continues along the persent lines it will result in a sort of military horse swapping—with the allies in Burma and the Japs in India

Unscrambles Opposing Forces.

Herewith is a brief description of each of the allied forces and what it is doing.

Along the Indian-Burma frontier, from the Maungdaw-Buthedaung sector on Bengal bay, northward to the jungled hills of Assam province, are English and Indian regiments of the British 14th army. Spirited, tho minor, fighting has been going on for months in the Maungdaw-Buthedaung, or south sector, of this almost 1,000 mile long line. In recent days, however, a new development has pushed this fighting in the background.

This is the sudden advance by the Japanese across the Indian frontier into Manipur state, at almost the exact center of the 14th army front. Jap columns have crossed the Chindwin river and apparently are converging toward Imphal, Manipur's largest city. Thus far, only minor actions have taken place between the three columns of advancing Japs and the defending British, but the Japs are in strength and reënforced by tanks. A major battle probably is developing. [A fourth Jap column is moving toward Kohima, 60 miles north of Imphal, late dispatches said.]

Perils Supply Railroad.

The Jap thrust holds little danger for the great mass of India but it is highly important in other aspects. It threatens the main line of the Assam-Bengal railroad, over which American supplies now are carried to the upper Assam air bases for air delivery to China. Today strong forward patrols of a Jap column are about 60 air miles from this railroad.

So much for the British 14th army. In northern Burma, there are three allied ground units which threaten to throw a weighty monkey wrench into Jap plans.

The most important of these is the combined American and Chinese force of Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell. Month after month, Stilwell has moved slowly to the southeast into Burma from Ledo in northern Assam as construction crews build the Ledo supply road behind his forces. At the same time, the Japs have built a road northward to meet the allied road, boasting that when the time comes they will take over the whole thing. But Stilwell has other ideas.

Lunge Down Jap Road.

Real fighting began when his forces met the Japs at Taihpa gap on the Tanai river in January. Stilwell captured it Feb. 2. Since then he has sent his Chinese divisions in smashing advances down the Japanese built road. His American Commandos under Brig. Gen. Frank Merrill have swung around the flanks into the enemy's rear. Stilwell has driven into the Hukawng valley and at present is in a pass leading to the important Mogaung valley.

About 60 miles east of these units is a road leading from the hill village of Sumpra Bum south to the city of Myitkyina on the Irrawaddy river, the northern terminus of the Burma railroad. Pressing strongly down this road are units of Gurkha troops and Kachin [north Burmese] levies, also under Stilwell's command.

Thus, the picture is this so far:

The Japs are pressing to the west into India's Manipur state, while Stilwell's forces move southward thru Burma into the Japanese rear. Now, to make the tactical picture more confusing, consider the strong allied glider forces commanded by Maj. Gen. Charles O. Wingate, which went into action on March 5.

Wingate's British and Gurkha troops landed 200 miles deep in Burma to the rear of the Jap forces advancing toward India. The Burma railroad leading to Myitkyina, mainstay of the Jap supply system, passes thru that general sector, and Wingate's men already have disrupted its service.

Japs Strike Again

NEW DELHI, India, March 27 (AP).—A fourth Japanese spearhead, striking from the densest jungle of the border area of Burma and India, is moving toward Kohima, 60 miles north of Imphal in Manipur, Adm. Mountbatten's headquarters said today. Across the hills to the west lies the allies Bengal-Assam railroad.

To the south three other Japanese spearheads invading India are striking at Imphal in the Manipur valley. To the north, Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's American-Chinese forces are 10 miles deep in the Mogaung valley, compressing the enemy between the Hkawnglaw Hka river and Shaduzup, which Brig. Gen. Frank Merrill's Chinese and American marauders already held.

MEDICATED POSLAM OINTMENT

HERE IS A RECORD OF U. S., BRITAIN ON CENSORSHIP

BY RAYMOND DANIELL.

[New York Times Correspondent.]

LONDON, March 27.—Secretary of State Hull's recent statement asserting that he is opposed to "political" censorship raises some interesting questions the chief of which is what the secretary means by "political." If he means suppression of criticism of government such as exists in totalitarian states, the record bears him out but if he is using the word "political" as a synonym for "diplomatic," the record is not so clear.

It is true that Byron Price, American director of censorship; E. R. Stettinius Jr., acting secretary of state, and John G. Winant, United States ambassador to Britain, have informed British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden that the cause of international friendship is best served by permitting people in any country to know what the people in friendly countries are thinking and saying about them, however unpleasant some of those opinions may be.

Opposed Diplomatic Stories.

On the other hand there have been repeated instances of objections from Washington to stories by American correspondents for American newspapers about diplomatic developments which have been passed in regular routine thru the British censorship. One of the most recent complaints was lodged with the foreign office thru diplomatic channels after the British censors passed a story by a correspondent here saying that the draft of the American plan for dealing with Germany had been turned over to the European advisory committee.

Hull was on firm ground also if he said that Washington, D. C., had never interfered with the British censors. They work under the ministry of information and under British rules, the American censors having nothing to do with anything except news concerning American military and naval affairs.

Complaints to the foreign office regarding what was held in Washington to be too frank discussion in the American press of diplomatic news became so numerous at one time, however, that Cyril Radcliffe, deputy director of the ministry of information, asked the foreign office to relieve the ministry of the responsibility of censoring diplomatic news. Subsequently, Reginald Hoare and Robert Hodgson, two former ambassadors, were entrusted with that responsibility.

Censor Diplomatic News.

It is interesting to recall that in April, 1942, a few months after the United States entered the war, Minister of Information Brendan Bracken issued an order for the first time extending censorship to cover matters other than military information useful to the enemy.

This rule, which made censorable all material which might cause disunity among the allies, recently has been relaxed, but there is still censorship of diplomatic news, the publication of which is deemed harmful to pending negotiations.

"What did she say?"

"'It's none of your business.'"

"Anything else that she said?"

"She said my behavior was not the best in the world, either—something to that effect."

Lonergan said they called each other names and his wife berated him for going out with another girl. She shouted to him, "Get out of here," and when he went to pick up his hat and gloves he said she yelled:

"Stay out of here. Don't ever come back. You will never see the baby again."

It was then he picked up the candlestick and began to hit her.

Threw Uniform in River.

The aircraftman tried to wipe blood from his uniform with a towel, but was unsuccessful, the confession said. He walked from his wife's apartment on 51st street to the apartment of John Harjes on 79th street, where he had been staying. Harjes was out of town.

At Harjes' place, Lonergan continued, he cut the uniform up and stuffed it into a duffle bag, along with a dumbbell to weight it, and his wrist watch, which had blood on the strap. He borrowed some of Harjes' clothes, walked to the East river, and threw the duffle bag into the water.

"It floated down the stream," he said.

Then he went to a drugstore and bought some pancake makeup to cover scratches his wife had inflicted on his face, he said.

BOMBERS SMASH 145 BUILDINGS AT RABAUL BASE

ALLIED HDQ., SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, March 28 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Bombers from allied bases in the Solomons Islands damaged or destroyed 145 buildings in raids Friday and Saturday at Rabaul, New Britain, Gen. MacArthur announced today.

Dismounted troopers of the 1st cavalry division, cleaning up in the Admiralty Islands, northern Bismarck sea stronghold, which the Americans invaded Feb. 29, pushed southward from Lorengau, Japanese headquarters town on Manus Island, captured March 18. American destroyers wiped out the village of Lenkau on Rambutyo Island, southeast of Manus.

Allied planes struck in the foothills of Lorengan, at Wewak, and at Aitape, 90 miles west of Wewak on New Guinea, and to the east in the Madang area.

KEEP HANDS OFF FRANCE, WARNS GEN. DE GAULLE

ALGIERS, Algeria, March 27 (AP).—Gen. De Gaulle told the French consultative assembly today to ignore foreign plans for the post-invasion regime in France, asserting that France "doesn't need a lesson from any one"—indirectly telling the other allies to keep hands off the French government when the continent is invaded.

His remarks came while London and Washington were considering the degree of recognition to be given the French committee of national liberation in ruling continental France.

After De Gaulle's address the assembly adopted, 62 to 6, a plan for provisional administration of liberated France and convocation of a constitutional convention. The plan must be approved by the national committee.

DISSENTING DEMOCRATS.

The appearance of Sen. O'Daniel, elected from Texas as a Democrat, on a platform in Oklahoma appealing for the election of a Republican to congress is only the latest in the series of incidents demonstrating that Mr. Roosevelt and the New Deal are no longer synonymous with the Democratic party.

Sen. O'Daniel was following in the footsteps of Sen. Johnson, elected from Colorado as a Democrat, who in a recent speech in Chicago said that the third term was the greatest tragedy of American political history, and that far from being at the crossroads, America is already too many miles down the wrong road and must face in November the decision as to whether to turn back.

Sen. Johnson, in his turn, was only following the footsteps of Sen. Gillette, elected from Iowa as a Democrat after the New Dealers failed to purge him; and all of them must yield precedence to Sen. Moore of Oklahoma as the most courageous Democrat in the country. He had the courage to leave his party and win an election as a Republican.

There are many Democrats who are opposed to the destruction of the Republic and the erection of a dictatorship by an administration elected under their party label. They are found in the states that govern themselves. The crooked city machines in the north and the crooked Communists in New York, who are the greatest sources of strength left to Mr. Roosevelt, cannot deliver states. Their influence does not extend beyond the cities in which they function and their reputations have become so malodorous that their every indorsement of the New Deal has caused its defeat in those states. Illinois, Missouri, New York, and New Jersey, the states in which the Communists and gang machines are strongest, all have Republican governors today.

This state of affairs is reflected in the appraisal of the current political situation made by several nationally known Democrats, details of which were obtained by THE TRIBUNE's Washington bureau. These Democrats estimate that if the election were held today Mr. Roosevelt could carry but 17 states, with a total of only 155 electoral votes. Only six of these states are outside the solid south, and these six have but 28 electoral votes.

Thus, the paradox exists that with these scattered and unimportant exceptions, the only states which Mr. Roosevelt would be reasonably sure of winning are those in the south which today are least willing to renominate him. The surveys indicated that, of the southern states, Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Georgia, Virginia, and possibly North Carolina, will send delegations to the Democratic national convention free of any instructions to vote for a fourth term.

If the south votes Democratic this year, it will be in spite of Mr. Roosevelt, and not because of him. The Associated Press reports the formation in South Carolina of a "Southern Democratic party" opposed to the fourth term and the New Deal, whose spokesman says that the party will nominate a full slate of Presidential electors, presumably pledged to vote for Mr. Roosevelt's opponent.

For more than a year now the cornerstone of the movement to get the fourth term nomination for Mr. Roosevelt has been the contention that he is the only candidate with whom the Democrats have any chance of winning. That argument retains its validity only so long as the leaders of the party remain satisfied that they can hope to win with Mr. Roosevelt. A good many of them are already persuaded they can't.

ANOTHER ARMY GAG RULE.

American soldiers are forbidden to write to their senators or congressmen on political matters in a recent army regulation disclosed to be in operation by a Tribune correspondent in Algiers. This regulation puts the responsibility for stopping such letters on unit commanders rather than on censors. A soldier's private opinions written to newspapers or other publications in the United States must be tagged "for possible publication," must be accompanied by the unit commander's approval, and must clear thru regular press censorship.

It is not known whether this regulation affects the entire American army, but it is apparent that it governs soldiers in the Mediterranean and possibly in the entire European theater where American fighting men are subjected to the propaganda campaigns of British newspapers, the OWI, and the British Broadcasting corporation, and where American newspapers may not be printed.

There are two possible explanations. Either the officers in Europe and Africa are under the influence of the domineering British aristocrats who are attempting to interfere in the American Presidential election or they are receiving their orders from the White House.

In either event, their conduct is utterly inconsistent with American tradition. A good many American soldiers in Europe will cast ballots in the November election for congressmen and senators as well as for Presidential candidates. When they are forbidden to discuss legislative and political questions with their representatives in Washington, it is time that the congressmen and senators interested themselves in the matter.

MACHINES FOR FARMERS.

President Roosevelt has announced that farm machinery will not be shipped overseas thru the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration unless congress appropriates the funds and that the need of American farmers for machinery will be considered first. A resolution also has been introduced in the senate proposing to investigate the Roosevelt administration's farm machinery program.

With the advent of war, the New Dealers turned over control of all farm machinery to Joe Weiner, the Union square agriculturist, who made it his business to see that farmers got no machinery at all. He was one of the hardship gang and for a while it looked as tho Joe Weiner was going to liquidate the American farmer just as effectively as Joe Stalin liquidated the Russian kulak, but public indignation finally got him removed.

Since then, the New Deal's regulation and allocation of farm machinery has not been much more liberal. Up to a few months ago, a second hand kerosene lamp would bring big money when sold along with a good used cultivator, altho the OPA now has relegated that type of farm sale to the black market. The President's pronouncement and the fire that will be kindled under the war production board by the threat of a senate investigation indicate that progress is being made in getting the machinery to farmers that they need to grow food for a nation at war.

This progress, however, is no credit to the burocrats. It has been forced upon them by an angry population which has seen food prices soar and needless shortages appear. If American farmers begin to get some machinery with which to do their work, it is because the people learned the truth from independent newspapers and the fourth term candidate is, accordingly, running for cover.

SELLING THE ARMY'S SURPLUS GOODS.

Sen. Wiley of Wisconsin has raised in the senate the question of disposition of surplus army and navy goods. As he says, it is one that has agitated retail merchants thruout the country in recent months.

Their apprehension is understandable. For more than two years they have been dissipating their inventories without full replacements, as the army, navy, war industries, and lend-lease monopolized the supply of most merchandise.

Partly thru prudent preparation for unpleasant eventualities that did not occur, and partly thru plain profligacy and incompetence, the governmental agencies accumulated tremendous stores of many articles that will never be used in the war. Some of these surplus stores are already being thrown back on the civilian market, and billions of dollars' worth will follow after the war.

Since they were deprived of these goods originally, and have carried on their businesses under great handicaps because they lacked them, established merchants feel that they have the first claim on this merchandise. What they fear is that the government sales will be the means of setting up new competitors, racket stores and "army" stores, which with stocks of surplus merchandise bought at bargain prices, will complete the ruin of already hard pressed small merchants.

A case of some merit might be built for a restriction that surplus army goods be sold and resold only to wholesale and retail establishments that were in business when the war started. It would undoubtedly meet great administrative difficulties. What, for example, would be done about the returned soldier who wanted to start a store and stock army goods?

Actually, no such regulations are needed. If the sale of surplus goods is conducted fairly and openly, they will go into the established channels of trade because those channels can handle them with the most profit to the government and at the lowest cost to the public. Few retail merchants will want to bid individually, because the lots of merchandise are usually too large for them to sell. But the wholesalers and jobbers from whom retailers buy, the large mail order and chain store companies, and retailers' coöperative purchasing associations will provide a natural outlet. They can handle surplus goods more efficiently and at lower prices than fly-by-nights and newcomers.

The only competition that the retailers need fear is political competition, the competition of the manipulator who has a friend on the inside and can put over secret deals at prices that defraud the government and enable the purchaser to undersell merchants who buy openly and legitimately. Some instances of these practices have already arisen, and more will follow unless congress sees to it that sales are open and widely advertised.

THE SAGA OF WILLIE.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

The question as to which is the best and most authentic pair of rhymes about Willie, the child who made catastrophe a laughing matter, is a tempest raging among bibliophiles who hold in esteem an out of print volume entitled "Ruthless Rhymes for Heartless Homes."

One lover of beautiful letters affirms that the only true and faithful version goes: "Little Willie, in the best of sashes, fell in the fire and was burnt to ashes. Suddenly the room grew chilly; nobody wanted to poke poor Willie."

Another authority denounces the foregoing lines as fit only for milksops. He prefers: "Willie fell down the elevator. Wasn't found till eight days later. All the neighbors said, 'Gee whiz, what a spoiled child Willie is.'"

To all of which we would add only one tender blossom of poesy, to be spoken by a valedictory voice: "Little Willie, who did things neatly, got blown up almost completely. They found an ear, but don't be silly—that's just about enough of Willie."

JOTTED ON MARGINS.

The "Army of the Maquis," waging guerrilla warfare in France according to David Darrah, recalls the legends of Corsica. "Maquis" is a Corsican word for wild country overgrown with thickets, and is a French adaptation of the Italian "macchia." Every student of French who has advanced beyond the elementary stage has read about the "maquis" of Corsica and its sharp-shooting outlaws in Mérimée's tale, "Colomba."

The Rumanian province of Bessarabia, which the Russian armies are overrunning, contains the city of Kishinev, which was heavily headlined in the American press in 1913. It was the scene of a particularly vicious pogrom, or massacre of Jews, instigated by secret agents of the czarist regime. For a time its name was a synonym for anti-Semitic atrocities.

Cassino, the sore thumb of the Italian front, deserves a catalog of its ancient monuments, probably wrecked by bombs and shellfire. In addition to the ancient Benedictine monastery, the neighborhood contained: A well preserved Roman amphitheater with walls 59 feet high; a Roman theater, in bad condition; the remains of a pre-Roman fortification in Cyclopean masonry on the hill of the monastery; a roadside chapel which probably had been a Roman tomb on the Via Latina; and a medieval castle of picturesque appearance.

* * *

Smaller Roman remains at Cassino included the foundations of a villa believed to have belonged to Varro, a Roman antiquarian and author whose work survives only in fragments. Mark Antony confiscated Varro's villa in the civil wars, but Julius Caesar compelled him to return it to its owner. Varro's contemporaries called him "the most learned Roman." He had a famous library, part of which may have been stored in this villa.

WORDS WITHOUT SONG.

Will I return? Or will I lie
  At peace on some embattled hill
When all the tanks have rumbled by
  And all the guns at last are still?

Will I return to all the things
  I left reluctantly behind?
Small fry at play on schoolyard swings;
  My old job, and the daily grind?

Will I return to find the moon
  Still rises coolly from the lake?
Will summer nights still end too soon?
  Will hearts now sad forget their ache?

Will I return—or can it be
  That chance has chosen me to stay?
Survivor of Thermopylae . . .
  Or legend, half a world away?

Referred to Dr. Cutter.

This March weather reminds me of the home remedies we had for spring colds.

We would take an onion, slice it, sprinkle it with sugar, and place it in the warming oven of our kitchen range. This would make a sweet juice which we called "onion sirup," and it was excellent for coughs.

Ah, but the most delightful cough medicine was made by folding a square bit of paper in quarters. We would place the folded paper over the top of a kerosene lamp chimney and quickly pour into it a tablespoonful of cane sirup. When it came to a boil we would be given a small portion of it, and it would cure almost anything.

O, but was it the boiled cane sirup which cured our coughs? We could as well have boiled it in a kettle on the stove, but there was more glamor to it if it was boiled on top of the lamp chimney. We could also have taken it ourselves, but it "worked" much better when administered by a tender hand, preferably mother's.

Let us then try to decide if it were the sirup, the glamor of its preparation, or the loving hand of mother which made the cure.

IT GIVES ONE PAUSE.

(This is a Procrustean Petrarchan sonnet, tailored to measure for the Line. It is Petrarchan because it obeys as many Petrarchan rules as circumstances permit, Procrustean because one foot has been amputated from each line to make it fit its bed.)

From here across its arc to here
The pendulum forever swings,
And ceases not its measurings
Of hour, and day, and month, and year.
And I should think a life so drear,
Sans love, sans cabbages and kings,
And sans so many other things,
Would drive the pendulum quite queer.

If mad, would it outswing its arc,
Spin about the whole damn circle,
On some new orbit then embark,
Driving the clockwork all berserkal,
Shriek like a maniac patriarch,
Rave like a crazy soda jerkal?

Commodore.

Maybe There's a War On.

A firm in New York is circularizing the architects, engineers, and contractors of Chicago for clews to the location of second-hand equipment. "We are anxious to locate," it announces, "shovels, cranes, draglines, tractors, bulldozers, truck cranes."

The prize for a clew to any of these implements or machines will be "a box of good cigars or 500 cigarets."

After the war, Germany will be full of second-hand bulldozers. . . . No, thanks, we do not smoke cigars or cigarets.

SHE WHO HESITATES.

"Tomorrow," she said, "I will speak to the Lord,
  tomorrow,
When I have finished with present work and play."
But Time is a dangerous thing to plan to borrow,
And the Lord did not wait. He spoke to her today!

CANCER CONSCIOUS WITHOUT CANCER FEAR.

THE conquest of cancer—the goal of every physician—is our most important research problem. It is no longer possible for a single individual to have at his command the necessary surgical skill, the knowledge of how to use radium and X-ray, and the ability to profit by the advances which come with laboratory experiments. The whole matter resolves itself into teamwork. The surgeon, the gynecologist, the radiologist, the pathologist, the dermatologist, the chemist, and the physicist must bring their knowledge to bear upon every case.

What we hope to do is to produce resistance to the disease. Our tissues do not like these outlaw elements and the peritoneum, that thin membrane which lines the abdominal cavity and covers each loop of bowel, will do its best to ward off the invaders. Not infrequently lesions which are discovered when the abdomen is opened are merely malignant cells which have degenerated completely because of the beneficent role of peritoneal tissues. This same structure can combat successfully a variety of cancer—papillomata—if it has a chance.

The answer lies in finding ways to make more of our organs powerful enough to repel this arch enemy of life and health. We realize only too well that these vicious growths know no law and will wander wherever channels, ducts, or blood vessels can carry them.

* * *

Cure demands early diagnosis. If we can detect a beginning nodule removal is easy, as a rule. More often than not this will spell freedom from further trouble. But how can we inculcate this doctrine? Education, by means of talks to lay audiences on the part of competent medical men, is perhaps our best method. On the whole we will not create fear or encourage neurasthenia. Now and then perhaps some one will be disturbed but this may be the very person who needs to be reached. Only a few will develop a cancer phobia.

Usually an examination will drive away dread. In consequence the sense of relief will more than justify the effort. The verdict that there is no occasion for concern, that no tumor is present as determined by careful yearly inspection, will allay worry.

* * *

Pain is not always a reliable guide altho in arthritis or other disorders we depend upon discomfort to oblige the patient to seek relief. Cancer of the breast may arise without the slightest symptom. The type of thing we may suspect, until proved innocent, is a lump, a mole that increases in size, an area of the skin that fails to heal, or the appearance of blood in the discharges. Of course there are other causes for these conditions and we must not jump to conclusions. We must make certain, however, that this dread destroyer is not responsible.

The disease is not contagious. It can't be transmitted by a nurse or a member of the family who is caring for the patient. The only thing that is hereditary is the habit of body [physical resistance].

Instead of covering up our apprehensions we can bring them into the open and, for the most part, learn how groundless they are. Nevertheless we can be alert to danger. Thru the family doctor we can reach experts in every phase of the malady.

PAINFUL DISORDER.

G. J. writes: I have had two severe attacks of intercostal neuritis. Is there any cure for this disease?

REPLY.

Favorable results have followed the injection of a small quantity of the patient's own blood, introduced into the muscles. The use of pituitrin [an endocrine product] has proved helpful in some cases. Smallpox vaccine has also been suggested.

MINOR DEFICIENCY.

M. E. writes: Should anything be done about a minus 10 thyroid in a middle aged person?

REPLY.

A metabolic rate of minus or plus 10 is considered normal. If you are gaining weight rapidly and are logy and fatigued, your physician may wish to try small doses of thyroid.

SWEETS AND COLDS.

E. A. writes: I have heard that sweets should not be eaten when a cold is present. Is this true?

REPLY.

In the presence of a respiratory infection, most of us do best when we follow a light diet with plenty of liquids. There is no objection to a moderate amount of sugar.

"INFECTS" EASILY.

J. M. A. writes: Is there something wrong with the blood stream of one who becomes infected every time he receives a scratch?

REPLY.

No—with the skin not the blood. The epidermis is harboring all too many germs. A daily scrub, with plenty of soapsuds, is the remedy.

T. B. OF BONE.

W. T. writes: How is tuberculosis of the bone contracted?

REPLY.

PLEURAL IRRITATION.

T. H. writes: What are the symptoms of dry pleurisy?

REPLY.

A stitch in the side; every breath will aggravate pain. A hacking cough is usually present.

Among the Waiting.

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Up and down the ragged coast line, on the cliffs of the little town whose lights at night are tiny jewels on the rim of the Pacific, perch the little houses of the navy wives. They have followed their husbands to war to the water's edge, and now they live by the ocean, their eyes upon it by day, its roar in their ears at night, as they wait and watch for the ship that may be his but probably is not.

Navy wives, more than any other branch of the services, live in colonies. They are all up and down the California coast, few here in Los Angeles, but hundreds and thousands to the north and south. They know the ships that come in by name and size and silhouette, and many, those married into the service for years, have a good idea of the men on each one.

So they sit and work and raise their children beside these waters blue farther than the pictures show and wait for letters and try to read meanings between the lines when they come, and from comparing letters and driblets of news, they manage to put together a fair patchwork quilt of what is happening two thousand miles, three thousand miles, to the west on the same waters that even now pound against the cliffs beneath their windows.

Don't ask any of them if she knows there's a war on. She knows it. She is conscious of her every word and to whom she utters it, and she goes around a living "words are lives" poster. Most of them are enraged at all times by the unthinking acts of many of their fellow citizens, such as the girl who shortly after Pearl Harbor stopped at a telegraph office to send a message to some one in San Francisco. The message said: "Jimmy arriving Friday on the U. S. S. Chicago. Please look him up."

* * *

Two navy wives were in the office at the time, and one, while awaiting her turn, idly read the message. Horrified, she turned to the girl and told her she couldn't send it. "What do you mean, I can't send it?" the girl asked indignantly. "Well," the navy wife said, "I don't see how you know when the ship is coming in anyway, but if you do know, you must keep it to yourself." The girl became crimson with rage and yelped out something about "What business is it of yours?" The navy wives said they both had husbands on ships and they knew only too well that such a message could endanger an entire ship. The girl was adamant, so they turned to the clerk, who also conveyed the impression it was no business of theirs, so they called the general manager and left with a bad taste in their mouths. Whether the message was sent they never knew, but the Chicago did go down, and not too long afterward.

* * *

None of these wives expects to see her husband any time soon. The man who gets home after 21 months is an exception, and the new motto out in the Pacific is "See the Golden Gate in '48." Those who do come home are dumbfounded by the ease of life still here, of the quiet skies and lighted nights. One, who had taken his ship thru some bad moments, came home at last, sick, and was walking down a street with his wife and small son when two bombers zoomed overhead on a practice flight. Without a word he threw them face down on the pavement and followed suit himself. Not until the planes were a small whine in the distance could his wife persuade him that it really was all right now, that he was home. And then there was a wife who was driving down the streets of San Diego one day with her two small children. All at once, leaning out the car window, they shouted "Daddy! Daddy!" His ship had come in after 26 months at sea, and he was walking home.

The thing that gets you in the long run is their optimism. They may be gray and bleak within, but they do not show it except occasionally, when, after a prolonged gaze at the surging waters which they at one time loathe and love, they say: "There's just one thing I hope. If the ship goes down, I hope he goes down with it. He wouldn't want to be a Jap prisoner."

A VISITOR RIDES OUR SUBWAY.

Chicago, March 24.—When I came to Chicago it was winter. That is, the calendar said it was winter, altho you could hardly see the winter thru the fog. I was told that once you get used to Chicago you never want to leave. Maybe that's true. It's a great city to live in, anyway, always something doing some place or other.

The other day, they found a body stuffed in a trunk of a car just two blocks from my hotel—some gentleman engaged in the cheese racket, it is said. At any rate, they did not find any cheese. I guess the other mice ate it. They have a very funny subway here. The project is quite new, but being city owned, a private company runs the trains, which are not quite so new. The doors are manually operated so, due to the man power shortage, or shortage of power of the men, they don't open the middle doors. As a result, the conductors tell the crowd to move to the center of the cars and as a direct result of this request, in inverse ratio, everybody stands on the platforms so they have to get out at each station to let other passengers off.

I noticed when I first came here, on my way home one night, we left Jackson blvd. and it seemed to be all one platform between Jackson and Monroe, and Monroe and Washington. Continuous is the word, I believe. They just forgot to chop the platforms off. I made up my mind I'd investigate this the next day, so I got on the platform at Jackson, and walked practically out to the city limits before falling off the end. This is handy. If you think you got off at the wrong station, you are still right. All you have to do is walk, and what's more, even on New Year's eve, you can prove to any cop you are sober and get off at the right station.

Every car has a clock in it and they are all of a different opinion, so it may be any time at all. If you move from one car to the next, you might find that you got to your destination a half hour earlier than you left home, or, if you choose to be contrary, you may walk in the opposite direction on the train and find you have traveled practically no distance at all, to brag about, and it took you three and a half hours to make it.

They call this gopher hole Mayor Kelly's underground, and I am beginning to understand now. They have escalators that run down at night so you can't get up, and up in the morning so you can't get down. I guess that's what the transfers are for. They really suggest in a subtle way that you use the "El," which runs around the loop and meets itself when they have a long train. You can get off at one platform and get on the same train and have an extra ride free. You can only do this once, unless the train is an extra long one, or it backs up. I haven't tried the second method and can't figure it out until I do some more traveling around.

They say here, once you get used to Chicago you never want to leave. That's probably because you could not leave it if you wanted to until you got used to it. There's only one way for a stranger to get out of here and that's to commit a crime in another state and not fight extradition.

PLEA FOR NYLON STOCKINGS.

Chicago, March 24.—Why do I see nylon bobby sox, nylon blouses, and nylon panties [precious nylon] advertised in the loop stores when we poor ladies struggle along with our baggy rayon stockings?

If this nylon is to be had, why can't it be manufactured into stockings? If all the nylon was going into war materials, I would not be squawking, but I have no words strong enough to express my feelings as I pull on a pair of rayon hose and think of the nylon articles, other than hose, that I have recently seen advertised in the downtown stores.

"BURNED UP."

SAYS JUDGES GET BORED.

Des Plaines, Ill., March 24.—Mr. Hart's complaints about our Circuit and Superior court judges are taken as confessed by most of the judges. If he wants to see some real loafing let him tour the floors housing the Municipal courts in the city hall.

However, Mr. Hart should remember that our judges are human and that it becomes extremely boring to listen to the troubles of others even in times such as these when men are giving their lives and limbs to protect them in their jobs.

DO YOU HAVE A KITCHEN IN YOUR HOME?

Chicago, March 20.—A student wrote in, naming cooking, sewing, home management, and home economics as useless school subjects. She said she could learn these things right at home. I think she probably could learn more at home than at school. However, many girls do not have the facilities to learn at home or there is no one to teach them. It is for these girls that the above named subjects were most likely intended.

WANTS A WORLD'S FAIR IN '65.

Chicago, March 22.—The year 1965 will mark the completion of 100 years of internal peace within the United States. It should be the occasion of a major world's fair. Chicago, as the metropolis of Lincoln's home state, is the logical place for such a fair. Also Chicago's record of putting on successful world's fairs gives her the best right to this event. Plans should be started immediately.

MRS. ROOSEVELT UNCLE BLAMED IN IRELAND FIASCO

Envoy, 73, Caused U. S. to Make Demands.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—Blame for the recent American diplomatic fiasco in Ireland, which resulted from the abortive attempt to force dismissal of Japanese and German diplomats from Ireland, today was in official circles placed squarely on the shoulders of David Gray, United States minister to Ireland and uncle of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

The United States would not have delivered its curt note to Eamon De Valera, Irish prime minister, demanding expulsion of the axis representatives, it was said, if Gray had given a more accurate and comprehensive report on the situation in Ireland.

De Valera Refused.

Gray reported that the time was ripe for renewal of the effort to induce Ireland to expel axis agents. Instead of yielding to the demand, De Valera replied with a firm refusal to accede to the request of the United States which was supported by Great Britain.

Gray had counseled bringing the demand on the ground that axis agents were using Ireland as an espionage base against the allies and spying on second front preparations from Irish coasts.

In official circles here it was reported that Mrs. Roosevelt's uncle had been misinformed on this score and acted with more enthusiasm than judgment. It was also said Gray had irked the Irish by following what is considered an anti-Irish policy in the conduct of his office.

Some One Blundered.

The first hint that Gray was to blame for the Irish fiasco came from Robert Brennan, Ireland's minister. Without mentioning names, Brennan said the American government was grossly misinformed and that some one had blundered.

It was made known in official circles that the blunderer was Gray, who apparently owes his post to his relationship by marriage to Mrs. Roosevelt. Gray, Harvard educated newspaperman and dilettante playwright, had no diplomatic training when he was selected as minister to Ireland in 1940. He is 73 years old.

Gray is the second White House relative on the diplomatic pay roll. The first is Mrs. Warren Delano Robbins, widow of the late cousin of President Roosevelt, who was United States minister to Canada. Mrs. Robbins is chief of the office of foreign service furnishings at $6,750 a year. She was named official interior decorator of American embassies and consulates in 1937, shortly after the death of her husband.

LABUY APPROVED BY SENATE BODY; DELAY FOR SHAW

Washington, D. C., March 27 (AP).—The senate judiciary committee approved today the nomination of Walter J. La Buy as a federal judge for the northern district of Illinois, but deferred action on a similar appointment for Elwyn R. Shaw, against whom complaints of alcoholism and incompetency were lodged last week.

Shaw's appointment to a judgeship in the same district was opposed last Tuesday at a hearing before a subcommittee by Nathan Haffenberg, Chicago attorney. Chairman McCarran [D., Nev.] said the subcommittee would meet again Wednesday with the hope of disposing of the case.

Shaw submitted for the record numerous letters from "reputable citizens" as to his character, and called John Stelle, former Illinois governor, and Col. William E. Carpenter, Rockford, Ill., as witnesses. They testified Haffenberg's charges were "absolutely wrong" and that Shaw's sobriety, morals, and judicial standing are above question.

CASHING OF WAR BONDS REACHES PEAK IN MARCH

Washington, D. C., March 27 (AP).—With one week remaining in the month, March war bond redemptions already have reached a new record of more than 216 million dollars, apparently reflecting a heavy drain on savings resulting from the March 15 income tax payment date.

The March total of cash-ins thru Saturday compared with December's $206,900,000, the previous record, and last month's $184,800,000 figure.

This month's redemptions were running at a rate of nearly 47 per cent of sales. However, treasury authorities believe that record purchases during the January-February fourth war loan, plus income tax paying time, tended to slow buying in March.

There are more than 30 billion dollars' worth of United States savings bonds outstanding.

WHAT IS BRITISH FOREIGN POLICY? PAPERS INQUIRE

Churchill's Address Stirs Criticism.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 28 [Tuesday].—After 24 hours' study of Prime Minister Churchill's broadcast, most editorial writers this morning accorded to the prime minister perhaps the worst "press notice" he has received since he became leader of the government. Disappointment and anxiety are widespread, judging from newspaper comment, particularly with the prime minister's failure to mention British foreign policy.

"Where do we stand?" asked the Daily Mail. It recalled that while Churchill was conspicuously silent on foreign policy Sunday night, just a year ago he made "frequent reference" to international relationships.

"Policy of Expediency."

"Our foreign policy, in fact, appears to be one of expediency," the paper complained. "At present it seems based on the need of treading delicately between the United States and soviet Russia. One moment, as in the case of Poland, we seem to follow the Russian bent, and another, as in the case of Eire [Ireland] the American."

The Daily Mail inquired what is the British policy regarding eastern Europe, North Africa, Italy, the Pacific, the Atlantic charter, the four freedoms, and a new league of nations, adding:

"It is time we and the world knew . . . day by day foreign policy is not good enough for Britain and certainly cannot be good enough for the post-war world."

Eden to Quit?

The Daily Mail mentioned reports that Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden is leaving the foreign office. Its political correspondent caustically hailed this as an "encouraging" prospect and boosted Dominions Secretary Cranborne for the job of foreign minister, asserting he is courageous, intelligent, tenacious, and well regarded by the United States and other foreign governments.

As a result of his broadcast, the writer suggested, Churchill has roused Conservative critics and "may have started a private quarrel with a large section of his own party."

Fail to Convince.

The Labor organ, Daily Herald, said Churchill failed in the principal aim of convincing the people "they should be completely uncritically grateful to the government for the accomplishments to date," and voiced suspicion the Atlantic charter is being whittled down. This paper, too, emphasized the need for "defining British foreign policy in unmistakable terms."

The Communist Daily Worker said Churchill was disappointing and unconvincing, and criticized the prime minister's "irritable, self-righteous tones." It castigated Churchill for suggesting Premier Stalin did not fully appreciate the difficulties of amphibious operations, and renewed its clamor for an immediate second front.

2,000 A WEEK STILL FILE FOR PAY AS JOBLESS

Altho Chicago still is classified a critical labor area, weekly applications by unemployed workers for unemployment compensation continue to be made at a rate of 2,000 a week, Francis B. Murphy, state director of labor, reported yesterday. Approximately 10,000 persons are drawing weekly benefits, he said.

Beginning Saturday, as a result of changes made by the Illinois legislature at its last session, maximum weekly benefits will be increased from $18 a week to $20, but instead of receiving the maximum for 20 weeks as the law provided formerly, the payments will be made for 18 weeks. The maximum over-all payment per worker still will be $360 a year, Murphy announced.

Value of Oakes' Estate Is Placed at $11,968,952

NASSAU, Bahamas, March 27 (AP).—Final valuation of Harry Oakes' personal estate, filed with the registrar of the Bahamas Supreme court, was placed at $11,968,952. Oakes was bludgeoned to death and his body set afire in his Bahamas residence last July. His son-in-law, Alfred de Marigny, husband of Oakes' eldest daughter, Nancy, was tried for the murder but was acquitted by a jury.

Friend of the Yanks' Kin

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

[This department answers questions covering problems related to the social service of relatives of service men, both in the column and by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent with inquiries to Sally Joy Brown.]

Mrs. J. B. writes: "My husband expects to enter the army in a short time. We do not have a great deal of money saved, and I am wondering how long it will be before I receive my first allowance check and how much my husband will have to contribute toward it."

ANSWER: "It is difficult to say exactly when the first allowance check will be paid. They are generally sent as soon as possible after application is filed. To class "A" and class "B-1" dependents, the first month's family allowance is paid entirely by the government, with no contribution by the service man.

H. O. writes: "Is it true that the next of kin receives a check for six months' salary if an enlisted man is killed in the service? My mother is a widow, and due to my brother's recent death, I expect that the family allowance which he has been receiving will be discontinued."

ANSWER: If your brother had no wife or child, and if he designated your mother as beneficiary to receive the six months' death gratuity pay, she is entitled to it. As a general rule, the finance officer will, after determining eligibility, furnish a claim voucher to the beneficiary. Information on benefits to which your mother may be entitled is generally supplied to the next of kin, within a short time after the death occurs.

Mrs. F. writes: "My son is an air cadet. Last September he applied for a family allowance for me, as my husband died at that time. I have never received a check, but in January, I received notification that I had been classified as a 'B-1' dependent, and payments would be effective from Nov. 1, 1943. I am very much in need of money, and I do not understand why payments are not effective from the date of his application, which was in September.

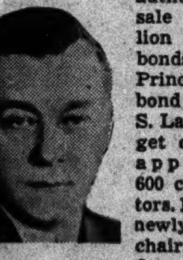
"He is to become a commissioned officer after graduation next month. Will I still be eligible for assistance then?"

ANSWER: At the time your son made his application, he was not eligible for the family allowance. In November, 1943, the law was altered to extend the family allowance privilege to air cadets. That is the reason why your allowance can be effective only from that date. After your son receives his commission, his eligibility will cease.

Mrs. K. H. writes: "My son in the army has written that he will apply for the family allowance for me. Due to a recent illness, I am no longer able to work, and I am now in financial need. I understand that it is necessary that two persons swear to affidavits concerning my dependency and wish that you would advise me about obtaining such affidavits."

ANSWER: It is no longer necessary to use affidavits of the type you mention. A new form is now used by the war department, and it is signed only by the dependent. When your son makes the application at his present station, the required questionnaire will be sent to you.

COUNTY ANNULS ITS BOND SALE OF 7.5 MILLIONS



Commissioner Ryan.

Cook county commissioners voted yesterday to rescind an ordinance authorizing the sale of 7½ million dollars in bonds to Seipp, Princell & Co., a bond firm at 105 S. La Salle st., to get cash to pay approximately 600 county creditors. Daniel Ryan, newly appointed chairman of the finance committee, told the board that the firm hadn't complied with the terms of the contract.

The $160,000 deposited with the board by the firm to bind the contract will remain with the county controller pending further action of the board. The commissioners discussed possible forfeiture of the money.

Ryan was appointed finance committee head to succeed the late Maurice F. Kavanagh. Ryan has been a member of the board for 21 years. John Traeger Jr. was appointed chairman of the highway committee to succeed Ryan.

The board approved purchase of 10 new squad cars for the county highway police.

YOUR PERSONAL POST WAR WORLD

Says Edwin Stivers, "The war hasn't meant a larger income for us. But we've managed to keep up our savings. Inflation would be bad for everyone right now. And it would mean the end of our hopes for the post war world. That's why we'd like to see everyone going along with the Stivers—in doing what those seven points tell us is right."

How you can help the Government hold down YOUR living costs

SOME OF US SAY, "You can't fight a war without having prices go way up." Maybe we are thinking about the last war. How prices got out of hand. How bad times were after the war. Maybe it seems that about all we can do now is to grin and bear it.

But that's because we haven't taken a good look at what causes the cost of living to head upward in wartime. When we do, we find there's really no reason why we can't keep a firm grip on prices. No reason we can't hold them down.

We find that fighting the high cost of living is a twofold job. Part of it is our Government's. Part is ours.

If we each pull an oar, we can't help winning. If we don't, we'll pay doubly for the war—in higher prices now, in post war trouble.

7 THINGS we can do

There are things each of us can do right now—to make the fight to hold down prices successful. Our Government has shown us where our own job begins and ends. That's all wrapped up in the seven points you see "boxed" over there at the right.

These seven points go at the cause of rising prices with a double-edged sword.

They put our extra money into places where it can't be used to bid up prices of the goods that are scarce. They remind us that from our own selfish point of view it's a good idea to observe our Government's price and ration regulations.

They give us a good program to get started on this very day—for ourselves and the country at war.

Here's what causes Runaway Prices . . .

In war, most of our factories are working full time making weapons. And a whole lot fewer peacetime goods are being made.

At the same time, many of us are being paid in wages and salaries more money than ever before.

If we disregard price ceilings and try to use this extra money to buy these few goods, bingo! Prices start going up. It's just the way prices go up at an auction.

But if we follow our Government's 7-point program, it's a sure bet prices won't get out of control.

* * *

68,000,000 Americans, with the help of their life insurance agents, are already doing one of these seven things. They have also found the peace of mind, the family protection, the feeling of independence that owning life insurance brings.

It is in the interest of these 68,000,000 people—as well as the nation as a whole—that the Life Insurance Companies of America have joined together to bring you this wartime message to help prevent runaway prices. Address inquiries to 60 East 42nd St., New York 17, New York.

EDWIN O. STIVERS is the village druggist of Wilton, Conn. His family income is $3,800. He's holding his basic living expenses (including taxes) down to $2,425. That leaves $1,375—his "security dollars," which he puts into War Bonds, life insurance, savings and debt payments. Read below the seven points the Stivers are following in the battle to hold down prices now.

Here are the 7 Things our Government suggests that every family can do now and keep on doing

1. Buy and hold War Bonds.
2. Pay willingly our own share of the taxes—including increased taxes—that our country needs.
3. Provide for our own and our family's future by adequate life insurance and savings.
4. Reduce our debts as much as possible.
5. Buy only what we need and make what we have last longer.
6. Follow the ration rules and price ceilings.
7. Cooperate with our Government's wage stabilization program.

COURT REJECTS ALL SEDITION DEFENSE PLEAS

BY PHILIP WARDEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—Chief Justice Edward C. Eicher of the federal court for the District of Columbia today removed the last barrier to the trial on April 17 of Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling and 29 others charged with conspiring to aid in the establishment of a Nazi form of government in the United States.

In a brief, blanket order, Judge Eicher denied and overruled:

1. All demurrers filed or argued.
2. All motions to quash.
3. All motions for bills of particulars, or for more specific bills of particulars than the bill of particulars filed by the government under date of March 7.

Continuance Denied.

4. All motions filed or argued to strike the bill of particulars furnished by the government.
5. All motions for continuance for the duration of the war.
6. All motions for severance.
7. Motions for inspection of the grand jury minutes.
8. All pleas in abatement.
9. "Any and all other motions or pleas not specifically enumerated herein and filed by or in behalf of any of the defendants."

Defense attorneys charged that Judge Eicher's order denies a fair trial to the defendants. It was learned that some of the Washington attorneys appointed by Judge Eicher to represent various of the defendants who claimed they did not have sufficient funds to provide their own defense have considered asking Judge Eicher to relieve them of their duties.

Asks More Coöperation.

Frank H. Myers, who was appointed to represent defendants Charles B. Hudson and William Robert Lyman Jr., told the court while arguing for additional particulars that he felt the appointed attorneys were not getting the coöperation they should expect from the judge.

"You are asking defense counsel to come into this case and defend these clients to see that they get a fair trial," Myers asserted.

"Everything is being done to prevent that. I fear I'm going to have to stand up in the middle of the trial and tell you that I cannot defend these defendants."

Judge Eicher's order, dated March 24, allowed the defendants only three weeks and one day to prepare for trial. E. Hilton Jackson, representing Defendant Gerald B. Winrod, in arguing for some additional time to prepare, declared that it would be "physically impossible" for him and other defense attorneys to go to trial April 17 and provide the kind of defense the defendants have the right to expect.

PASTOR OBJECTS TO SERVICE FLAG; QUITS HIS PARISH

Rev. E. S. Schwenk.

Bridgeport, Conn., March 28 (AP).—A 38 year old clergyman who says service flags have no place in church auditoriums, has quit his parish here and will leave after the Easter service.

He is the Rev. Emerson S. Schwenk, pastor of the First Universalist church, whose 100 families have sent 10 men to the fighting services.

To him the matter is simple. "No symbol, whether of war or anything else, has a place in the church other than the symbol of Christianity," he said.

The pastor made it clear he had no objection to the presence of the flag on church property and declared in an interview he had suggested that as a compromise it be draped in the assembly hall, which adjoins the church.

URGES FURTHER U. S. HELP FOR SCHOOL MEALS

Washam Backs Move for More Funds.

Importance of extending federal legislation allotting funds for the purchase of meals for school children was emphasized last night by Frank Washam, director of lunchrooms for the board of education, at a meeting of more than 500 delegates from member organizations of the Back of the Yards Neighborhood council in the Holy Cross social center at 46th and Woods sts.

Present legislation expires June 30, he said. He urged the council to impress upon congressmen from this area the importance of perpetuating the legislation.

Saul Alinsky Reports.

Members of a strategy committee, headed by Saul Alinsky, reported to the delegates on a conference with Robert J. Dunham, president of the Chicago Park board, concerning the board's action in excluding the council from exclusive use of the Davis Square park fieldhouse for its activities. Lunches formerly served there are now being served at Holy Cross social center.

Bishop Urges Continuation.

The Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, told the delegates that their greatest opportunity is to continue to serve children in the back of the yards area.

The Rev. Edward Plawinski of St. John of God church presided at the meeting. Also present were Aldermen Bryan Hartnett, Clarence Wagner, and Joseph Kovarick, as well as James McDermott, ward committeeman.

Katherine Watkins' Betrothal to Naval Officer Is Announced

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE arrival from the east last week-end of Miss Katherine Jane Watkins and Lt. Robert A. Escher of the naval air forces was the occasion of a small dinner party given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Benson Watkins of Winnetka, to announce their engagement. Miss Watkins came home for the week-end from Sarah Lawrence college, and at the last minute her fiancé flew in from his post at Quonset Point, R. I.

Miss Watkins, a granddaughter of Mrs. Paul Watkins and the late Mr. Watkins of Winona, Minn., was graduated from the North Shore Country Day school before entering Sarah Lawrence, where she is a junior. She has two brothers, Aviation Cadet William B. Watkins Jr., who was married last June to the former Marjorie Anne Hubachek and who now is in training at Yale university, and Ben Watkins, a freshman at North Shore Country Day school.

Lt. Escher, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Escher of Englewood, N. J., was graduated from Lawrenceville and attended Cornell university. After service in the Mediterranean and the South Pacific, where he saw action on the ill-fated carrier Wasp, he received the Purple Heart. Since returning to this country he has been stationed in Atlantic City, N. J., and at present is on the admiral's staff at Quonset Point.

Wedding.

Miss Kathleen Lewis and Cadet Harry S. Wells of the army air forces, who met on shipboard in 1937 when they were traveling to Europe with their parents, were married March 25 in the Chichester chapel of the Immanuel Presbyterian church in Los Angeles, Cal., it has been announced. A reception followed in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Lewis of Los Angeles. The bridegroom is a son of Harry L. Wells, vice president and business manager of Northwestern university, and Mrs. Wells of Evanston.

Cadet Wells' sister, Virginia, was among the attendants of the bride, who was graduated in February from Occidental college in Los Angeles. Cadet Wells, who was attending Northwestern university when he entered the air forces, is in training as a navigator in Santa Ana, Cal. His best man at the wedding was Marine Edwin Myerson of Evanston, who recently returned from service on Bougainville.

Birth News.

Somewhere in the Pacific, Lt. Thomas Francis Geraghty Jr., who is on duty with the navy, has learned of the birth of his son, Thomas Francis III., on March 17 in Passavant hospital. Young Mrs. Geraghty is the former Kate Barkhausen, daughter of Mrs. Henry Barkhausen. The baby's paternal grandparents are the senior Geraghtys of Astor st.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Sills Jr. [Dorothy Warner] are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter last Thursday at Michael Reese hospital. The baby, whose grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Rawleigh Warner of Winnetka and Mr. and Mrs. Sills of Kimbark av., was named Gay Hartwell for her paternal great-grandfather. She has a 21 months old brother, Peter.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Hardy were in Washington, D. C., to welcome their new grandson, the baby born March 18 to Mr. and Mrs. William Gibson Harris. Mrs. Harris is the former Jane Hardy.

Flower Show Tells World Spring Is Here

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

The 18th annual flower show of the Garden Club of Illinois is a sprawling affair that meanders over the second floor of Marshall Field & Co. in the midst of artificial flower and china displays, with here and there a sudden and breathtaking vista of a "real" garden backed by some one's country home. The two weeks' show opened yesterday morning, and from the start was crowded with sightseers who this year certainly will take advantage of the tours planned at regular intervals so that visitors will not miss any of the enchanting tables or flower arrangements that are tucked away in nooks and crannies as well as placed along the main aisles.

By noon the club's famed "Wishing Well" was sparkling with copper and silver coins tossed in by a thoughtful public for the benefit of the boys in military hospitals. A few ration tokens slipped in, too. The tragedy of the morning was the collapse of the Kenwood Garden club's special award winning flower arrangement of calla lillies and white stock, which toppled over, but which should be back in its appointed place today.

This small club won a prize in each of the four classes its members entered, including its blue ribbon Regency dinner table, a stunning gray, black, white, and red arrangement that was much admired. On a gray cloth were black and white plates, and black statuettes held deep red candles that echoed the red of the roses in the twin flower arrangements placed in black urns at either end of the table. Deep and pale pink carnations added further charm to the bouquets.

Chicken Ring, Mushroom Sauce.

[Serves 10-12.]

- 4 cups shredded chicken [stewed]
- 1½ cups diced celery
- 2 cups chicken broth
- 2 eggs, unbeaten
- ½ pound mushrooms, sauteed
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ⅛ teaspoon black pepper
- 2½ cups soft bread crumbs [or more]
- 2 cups medium white sauce
- 3 hard cooked eggs

Dice and saute mushrooms. Add 1 cup of them to chicken, celery, broth, eggs, seasonings and crumbs. Use enough crumbs to absorb excess moisture. Pack into greased ring mold and bake at 325 degrees for 45 minutes, or until firm and lightly browned. Turn carefully onto a hot platter and fill ring with medium white sauce to which remainder of mushrooms has been added. Garnish with sliced hard cooked eggs. It takes a large stewing hen to produce 4 cups meat.

White Collar GIRL

—BY RUTH MAC KAY—

Millennium.

That the millennium has arrived cannot be doubted after a recent incident at the University of Chicago evening school. In the question and answer period following an address by Edward L. Ryerson a written question was submitted: "Will women hold executive positions after the war?"

Mr. Ryerson answered: "They will if they have the ability."

A second question followed quickly: "Will women be needed in executive positions after the war?"

The same answer was given: "They will if they have the ability."

A few women were present, but the group was composed chiefly of men. The men cheered the answers.

His Own Medicine.

Our credit manager just returned
From lunch in an awful huff—
He forgot his wallet; the cashier refused
To put it on the cuff!

AL SPONG.

What to Do About 40.

Ah, at 32, one is a mere infant. Eight years more, tho, and any one will feel as I do, that age alone limits. All the handsome words about keeping mentally alert, youthful, tolerant, and poised—all are tossed overboard into oblivion when you mention 40.

The beauty advertisments say: "Use this cream or that and retain your youth." But what good does it do when you arrive at the blank [in an application] in which you must write "Month—Day—Year!"

Are there employers who still are seeking employes with the understanding which comes in those years after 30—after 40? Do we have to be oppressed with the finality of chronological years? Our minds are not havens for cobwebs! Our eyes are not dimmed. Our step is not halting! —B.

It Sticks in the Mind.

The soldier, writing to a white collar girl, who complained that he has not been sent overseas and said he was "tired of releasing a WAC for active service."

The sailor standing in Madison street, drenched, when a sudden wind emptied a rain-laden awning on him.

The letters in the mail on the Miss-Mrs. controversy [in addressing business women] and the conclusion that girls will be girls and some will be difficult no matter what you call 'em.

The 506 scrapbooks, mailed out last week by the U. S. O. in response to a paragraph in the White Collar Girl column, showing that the girls still want to do "something for the boys."

Feminine Firsts.

Pearl Mabon, American Airlines' first full fledged woman engineer, is said to be the first employed by any air line. . . . INSTALMENT XX.

PASSPORT TO IMMORTALITY.

The wearing of tights had been one of Barrymore's chief antipathies. This seems a curious aversion when we consider his superb physique.

"When I first got into these skin-fitting jollities," Barrymore said of his tights, "I felt as if I had put on the intimate wear of Peg Woffington.

"What an ass a grown male can become on occasion! I think I wore these dainties for the first time in 'Pantaloon.' I am not sure. No one is ever sure of anything in respect to tights."

He snorted like St. George's monstrous adversary, then continued: "When I had to play 'The Jest' in these counterfeits of nudity, I decided to conquer them or be conquered. I spent at least three hours before a pier glass. True, I had to take a few drinks to brace myself. Then I began to stare at the asinine fellow in the mirror. I sneered at him, I reviled him, I questioned his authenticity in matters of romance. I walked, I turned this way and that, never taking my eyes from the fellow in the quicksilver. Finally I grew sick from the idiot-vision. Fortunately I hadn't taken enough alcohol to see two miserable, mincing scoundrels, else I should have died. Finally I got so fired of surveying myself, so sick, so fed up with tights that I no longer gave a damn how they looked, on me or any one else. I had 'em licked."

Jack borrowed a pair of underdrawers from Lionel to wear beneath the Hamlet tights. Not only did he regard his brother's shorts as a good-luck charm, but the garment was adroitly tailored so as not to form awkward creases on the thighs. When, toward the 50th performance of "Hamlet," Barrymore's valet discreetly suggested a change of underpants, Jack bellowed: "Damn it, no! I opened in these drawers, and I'll close in them!"

One thing that enhanced Jack with the "Hamlet" play was the physical leeway it permitted the actor. "You can play it standing, sitting, lying down, or, if you insist, kneeling. You can have a hangover. You can be cold sober. You can be hungry, overfed, or have just fought with your wife. It makes no difference as regards your stance or your mood. There are, within the precincts of this great role, a thousand Hamlets, any one of which will keep in step with your whim of the evening. Why, one night in London, after I had been overserved with Scotch at the home of—never mind her name—I got half way thru my 'To Be' soliloquy when it became expedient to heave-ho, and quickly. I sidled off to the nearest folds of the stage draperies and played storm-at-sea. I then resumed the soliloquy. After the performance one of the fine gentlemen who had sponsored me for membership in the Garrick club confided: 'I say, Barrymore, that was the most daring and perhaps the most effective innovation ever offered. I refer to your deliberate pausing in the midst of the soliloquy to retire, almost, from the scene. May I congratulate you upon such imaginative business? You seemed distraught. But it was effective!' To which I replied: 'Yes, I felt slightly overcome myself.'"

Much has been said concerning Jack's playing of Hamlet for 101 consecutive performances on Broadway. This exceeded the younger Booth's all-time record by the margin of one appearance. It has been offered, quite erroneously, I believe, that Jack had some egotistical reason for wishing to surpass the Booth record. It was so unlike Jack to be conceited about anything, he cared so little for evidence of his own deeds, that we should look for a more convincing motivation.

The real solution, I think, was supplied by Frank Case, and lay within the sometimes perverse humors of the actor's nature. Case says that Jack was tiring of "Hamlet," as he invariably wearied of all theatrical iteration, at about the 60th performance. Hopkins himself confirms Case's statement by revealing that Jack was talking increasingly of "quitting this nonsense."

"I was in Jack's dressing room one day," Case said, "when a deputation of old gentlemen, not one of them under 70, called. Jack was most courteous, recognizing most of them by name as retired actors, playwrights, and theatrical personages. Their spokesman shook his white locks, then began to address Jack:

"'We are all proud of your vast success,' and the old boy gave a William Jennings Bryan flourish of the arm. 'We know that, should you choose to do so, you could continue on as Hamlet for years. But we are here to urge you to close your Broadway run at 99 performances.'"

Jack was enchanted by the request, Case reflects. "May I ask," Barrymore inquired of the patriarchal delegates, "why you fix such an arbitrary number as 99?"

"In memory of the great master," said the old boy. The other old boys nodded impressively.

"Who in hell is the great master?" asked Jack. "Shakespeare?"

"Not Shakespeare," the spokesman replied. "Booth. We do not think you would want to destroy the record of the great Edwin Booth."

"Gentlemen," Barrymore replied, "I think it about time that you stop living in the past. That's what is wrong with the world. It is run by a lot of persons applying only the rules of a dead past. I am compelled to inform you that I shall play Hamlet for exactly 101 times. And when you see the master, give him my regards. I knew him when I was a little boy, and he'll laugh like the devil when you tell him that you saw me."

According to Culbertson

[Copyright, 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

The following deal, which occurred in the open pair event of the Eastern tournament, created a controversy among the experts.

North, dealer.

NORTH
♠ A K 10 9 6 4
♥ 3
♦ A 10 6

WEST
♠ Q 8 5
♥ 10 6 4 2
♦ 5 2

EAST
♠ J 7 3 2
♥ J 8
♦ J 9 8 4
♣ K 10 6

SOUTH
♥ A K Q 9 7 5
♦ K Q 7 3
♣ J 4 3

The first round of bidding was, of course, easy. North opened with one spade, East passed, and South made the normal response of two hearts. After West's pass, North rebid spades as a matter of course, but when this two spade bid reached South, there was a wide difference of opinion over South's proper action.

In the general postmortem, the majority opinion was that South should now bid three diamonds—to "build up the hand and sound out all possibilities, while simultaneously implying considerable strength by showing the new suit at the three-level."

The minority opinion, with which I heartily concur, was that a three heart bid, perhaps even four hearts, was far superior to three diamonds. This point of view was summed up by its chief protagonist as follows:

In the first place, the game is duplicate, not rubber bridge. Hence, a major suit contract is greatly to be preferred. In the second place, there is enormous disparity between South's heart suit and his diamonds—a disparity that will not even be hinted at if South's second bid is three diamonds. The opposition stated that if South bid three diamonds and North raised to four diamonds, or bid three no trump, South then could show his own great preference for hearts by rebidding that suit at the four-level. But what earthly assurance was there that North could or would take either of those actions? Lastly, if South bids three diamonds, it will do him no good to play the hand at hearts, because he will have virtually pushed the opponents into opening a club, which is certainly not a desirable lead from South's point of view.

Approve Selection of St. Louis U. for Technology School

Judge Joseph A. Graber of the Superior court yesterday approved the selection of St. Louis university, at St. Louis, Mo., for the establishment of an institute of geophysical technology under the terms of the will of Henry E. Sever, late publisher of the Riverside Publishing company. The university will receive from Sever's estate a trust fund of $1,250,000, plus $100,000 outright.

St. Louis university was chosen by two members of a three man selection committee, Walter P. Murphy, an attorney, and William Zingheim, a manufacturer. The third member, Mark W. Lowell, a banker, favored any one of the three other schools, Kansas City university; Washington university, and the University of Missouri.

Lowell argued that any of the three would offer a chance to pioneer in the technological field, but Judge Graber held that St. Louis university was the logical choice because of its wide experience in the technological field, its long history—it was founded in 1818—and because, better than the other schools, it was able to meet the requirements of Mr. Sever's will. Mr. Sever died April 8, 1941, in Chicago.

Child's Sense of Security Is a Vital Need

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

I am not alone in saying that, war or no war, war work or no war work, children need their parents. Certainly they need one parent.

Today, when fathers are either in one of the services or are on long day or night shifts that one parent is usually mother. And nothing, except the most urgent financial necessity, should make her take on a job and leave her home and children every day. All the child care organizations in Britain, Canada, and our own country realize how deeply a child's sense of security is rooted in his father and mother, and have broadcast that fact again and again.

I want especially to make clear that your child's sense of security has its roots in you—his father and mother. His world stands or falls by you—what you do and what you are. You must be his Rock of Gibraltar. If you are, gradually he will find security within himself, and with maturity will come an all around self reliance, and an ability to judge persons, and to know where to place his faith and where not to.

While he's young, your word and your actions must be clear and dependable. Consistency in handling him, loyalty, and keeping your promises are among the things which give him solid ground beneath his feet. But it's your presence that's most important. He needs you there.

There is one situation not often mentioned in discussing this subject which holds a threat to a child's security, a rather deep threat, too. That is when a mother leaves home for a long stay without the little boy or girl knowing that she is not coming back. In order to spare a child immediate unhappiness, a mother sometimes will go to the hospital to have her baby or an operation without telling all about it beforehand. Or she will take her little son or daughter to have tonsils out, for example, and leave the hospital without explaining that she cannot stay. These experiences to some children are disturbing, and the effect of them may be felt long afterwards.

A Court May Teach Cruel Father Lesson

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

In all probability, the type of girl who unfortunately is rounding out our juvenile delinquency numbers, is represented in the following letter from a 17-year-old, Broken-Hearted, who adds a post-script that if something doesn't happen soon she knows she will go out of her mind. The last phrase is a melodramatic version of the girl's state of being, of course, but her problem nevertheless is serious:

"I am 17 years old and not allowed to talk to a boy. I like one boy who is refined, but my father beats me and never lets me out. I clean house all day and am not even allowed to go to the movies. What I want to know, Miss Blake, is: 'Could I take my father to court?' He beats me until I am black and blue. Do you think I should, or should I run away from home and go so far that I'd never again see him or other members of my family? I have to mind two of my sisters' babies while they go to work. My mother goes to work. But my father is home all day. I do not get a cent for minding my sisters' babies.

"Miss Blake, I would be happy if I could only talk to that boy I like. I wouldn't care if I couldn't go out with him if I could just talk to him. Please tell me what to do?"

We think a father who would beat his daughter until she is black and blue should be hauled into court and made to pay for his brutality. But in your case your mother should be dragged along, too, to explain why you are left to his mercy. Why isn't she home and her husband out earning the money?

But we would beg you not to attempt to run away from home. In that way lies more misery for a young thing like you than what happens at home, bad as the home atmosphere is. We wouldn't waste time before putting your case before a court of domestic relations who, we feel, will help iron out your unfortunate position.

"What's happened to our Marriage?"

INSTEAD OF HAPPY HOURS at home, there was quarreling—tears! She didn't dream her own "one-neglect" was to blame—carelessness about feminine hygiene. Today, so many modern wives use Lysol disinfectant. It cleanses quickly, thoroughly, and deodorizes, too. Yet it's so gentle it won't harm sensitive vaginal tissues—just follow easy directions. Costs so little.

Thru the Looking Glass

Skin that is overly oily needs to be kept scrupulously clean. Frequent scrubbings will rid the surface of grime and dust, which, mixed with the natural oils of the skin, menace the health of the complexion and impart to it a dingy, grayed look.

To cleanse such skin effectively and give it the gentle stimulation it needs, we'd suggest some soap grains that have proved themselves notably helpful in maintaining the clarity and radiance of potentially troublesome skins.

They're tiny white globules, much like granulated soap, and they melt readily in warm water to provide a rich, abundant lather. Pour a small amount onto the moistened palm and then with both hands work up a hearty suds and apply it to the face, employing the fingers to get into the crevices around the mouth and nose. Using the hands is best because there's no danger of aggravating the skin condition with a soiled washcloth. After the lather has been worked around the face and neck, rinse it away with warm water and finish off with cold, cold water. The skin will feel refreshed and stimulated, the gentle friction of the soap having brought a nice pink glow to the complexion as it washed away soil.

Use the grains daily if the skin is oily and troubled with blackheads, otherwise they need be used only two or three times weekly to help keep the complexion radiant and clear.

ner garden, a delightful small plot in green and white which took its theme from a white brick wall backing the figure of a child. A sun dial centered the square before the wall, and to one side was a recess lined with slender arbor vitae which enclosed a white stone bench on three sides.

The Evanston Junior League Garden club's garden walk received first prize among the gardens, and another special award winner in this class was the mission garden, complete with cacti, yellow pepper plants, and lemon tree, arranged by the Garden Club of South Shore. The blossoms on the cherry tree in the Lake Forest Garden club's Chinese garden were not real, but the rhododendrons and azaleas that blazed in a mass of color were growing plants. Another first went to the Downers Grove Garden club's round English rose garden.

The invitation buffet tables set by men were judged at the competitors' insistence, with special awards going to Leon Hamburger and Marc Leeds, and blue ribbons to Ernest von Ammon and Andrew Rebori. "That's a knockout, a typical man's garden," said Mrs. George Plamondon of Mr. Leeds' entry. Its most unusual feature was ivy growing out of pockets along the sides of the table cloth. Two pottery heads balancing small trays of fruits, and a wooden bowl filled with variegated green leaves decorated this modern table. Mr. Von Ammon chose a circus motif for his buffet table which included frosted glasses decorated with balloons, and Mr. Rebori was more conservative with ruby colored glass and rosy checked apples on the china reflecting the few red blossoms of the centerpiece.

The women's invitation tables were not judged, but it would have been difficult to choose among them. Mrs. Charles R. Walgreen's was a gracious Easter buffet table in sage green and white and plenty of old silver, and Mrs. Warren W. Shoemaker's was a gay, informal country table with a terrarium planted under glass for a centerpiece. Mrs. Wesley Stukenberg of Freeport arranged the most startling of these tables, using a black taffeta cloth, black china decorated with white camellias and green leaves, green linen napkins, pewter plates, and in one corner fat white plaster cherubs playing about the flower arrangement of small yellow calla lillies and white statice.

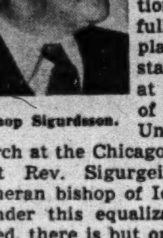
Salaries of Lutheran State Church Pastors in Iceland Equalized



Bishop Sigurdsson.

The Lutheran state church in Iceland has equalized salaries for its clergy regardless of the size of their congregations. This has been attempted elsewhere, but Iceland, probably, is the first national church fully to adopt the plan. This was stated yesterday at a conference of clergy of the United Lutheran church at the Chicago temple by the Most Rev. Sigurgeir Sigurdsson, Lutheran bishop of Iceland.

Under this equalization plan, he stated, there is but one bishop with pastoral jurisdiction over 80 parish clergy and 20 deans, each with a salary slightly less than $3,000 a year and parsonage. These minister to 99 per cent of the total population. The constitution of Iceland grants every one full religious liberty. According to the latest census, with a population of 130,000 only 721 people worshiped outside the state church, and another 782 claimed no religious affiliation.

Bishop Sigurdsson also stated that cordial relationship exists between the state church and the United States service forces, and that the use of Iceland as a base accords with the people's desire because of the protection afforded its neutrality. Bishop Sigurdsson was the guest of honor last night of the Icelandic association of Chicago at a dinner in the Palmer House.

Lingerie Plays on Hearts and Flowers Theme

BY REA SEEGER.

Spring lingerie attractively priced and most sentimentally designed is particularly timely for gifts to brides to be or for the depleted lingerie supplies of the average woman. If you are shopping for trousseau pieces, see the pink, blue, and white stuff trimmed with applique heart motifs—a display as colorful as a florist's window of spring flowers. The pearl white trios of nightgown, slip, and panties are truly for the bride with their appliqued hearts of shimmering contrast against the dull white of the crepe material. The shell pink and cloud blue models [especially the slips] are delectable under sheer colored blouses.

Nightgowns are slit in front with each side edged with the heart shaped applique motifs to match the outline of the bodice top. The slips are skilfully cut and seamed to fit smoothly and stay in position. The French panties are short and smoothly fitted over the hipline, and also are trimmed with the heart applique. Each piece looks like the very expensive hand made lingerie of the before-the-war lush era, but the prices are modest for such quality.

Black lingerie, the last word in femme fatale lure, appears even more siren-like this spring in the midst of such utilitarian lingerie as tailored pajamas and the legally limited yardage of slim nightgowns of rayon satin or silk. See this black magic if you want an optical thrill. One nightgown has a lace trimmed bodice attached to a sunburst pleated wide skirt of black net. Another black sheer has a hem band of black lace. The bodice top of black lace has a flesh colored chiffon lining. A third nightgown is made of a material resembling point de esprit. Some are teamed with sheer black negligees, some are trimmed with pale beige colored lace . . . all are black magic for any wardrobe.

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

The theater is a place where anything can happen, and last night it did. Flourishing calliope effects in the orchestra, the Civic theater opened a brand new play of circus feuds and changelings called "The Lady and the Clown," which should have moved a few steps west to the river. Not necessarily to drown—I wouldn't insist on that. It could be salvaged by a showboat.

This curious piece for playacting is the work of a mysterious Byron Taylor, said to be Edwin B. Self in disguise. No matter. One is just as widely unknown as the other, at least to me. My private suspicion is that the whole thing is jointly subsidized by Anne Nichols and the Shuberts to get even with the critics for bemoaning the return of "Abie's Irish Rose" and the indestructibility of "Blossom Time." "So it's something new they want," I can imagine them gritting out between clenched teeth, twisting moustachios the while, "Well, let them have it."

So we got it. We got it in two acts and four scenes about a lordly lady, played with authority and a straight face by Estelle Winwood, who tangles with a circus and lives to love it, $250,000 worth. She buys it, for a friend who happens to be her granddaughter, incognito. This in reparation for breaking up her daughter's marriage to an acrobat turned clown, and swiping his twin babies, a compliment he returns in one of the funniest pieces of bassinet business ever seen without riparian rights. She gets them back, offstage when you aren't looking, so you couldn't guess the twist, unless, of course, you are up on Victorian melodrama.

Among the plot, the dialog, and the general level of acting and direction, you could arrange a good race for booby prize, but I think the dialog would win. It has the head start of some of the fuzziest nonsense ever written in the name of erudite goings on by a drunken judge, and some of the most ludicrously plushy prose ever penned about the romance of the circus, much of it inflicted on Miss Winwood by Mr. Effrat, an actor who did every line of it justice.

Just about twice in the play did the writing show any signs of life. There was a touch of irony flickering in Mr. Effrat's later dialogue with the gorgeously caparisoned dowager, and when the old man got around to selling the circus, he did it neatly with a charm that was Mr. Kirk's own, and was not too little, tho it came too late.

It is Miss Winwood's show, of course, which is why she is in it, as actors love a fat role so dearly they get astigmatic about plays. But take a look at Adrienne Moore, who is simple and real and pretty as a picture, even in the middle of pasteboard makebelieve.

F. D. R. Says Women Should Have a Part in Making the Peace

New York, March 27 (AP).—President Roosevelt said today in a message to the Advertising Women of New York, Inc., that women should play a part in the making of the peace and in post-war reconstruction.

The President's message, addressed to the organization's opening session of a conference on women's contributions to the future, said:

"It has already been demonstrated that women can make a great contribution to our war effort. Any movement to increase the effectiveness of their participation such as I understand you and your associates are to discuss in the forthcoming forum, should be fruitful.

"It is equally true that we shall need the aid of American women in the making of the peace and the reconstruction of the world. It is my hope that helpful suggestions will come out of your deliberations."

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 27.—I spent an afternoon, not with a fawn, but in federal court, listening to testimony on the Joan Berry-Charlie Chaplin case. It was obvious that Joan was very nervous, because several times Judge J. F. T. O'Connor asked her to speak a little louder so that she could be heard. . . . The star of the courtroom, however, was Jerry Giesler, the defense attorney. Even when he posed for pictures with Mr. Chaplin, Mr. Giesler was always a little ahead of him. Charlie's white hair is very becoming. . . . I've never seen Giesler work before. He's quite an actor, suave, insinuating, always appears helpful when he's propounding a question that demands the deepest concentration. . . . Watching Chaplin, you could tell which questions intrigued him most. Those times he took out his glasses, nervously polished them, and put them down on the table in front of him. Or he would cross and uncross his feet or instinctively reach for a glass of water.

The Ladies of the Jury.

Members of the jury look just like your neighbors—friendly, honest, and like leaders in their community. For the second day of spring, three of the seven women jurors wore red hats. All looked as tho they had dressed carefully. Two of them kept on their white gloves during the whole afternoon. . . . The array of correspondents was impressive. It struck me as curious that Margaret Buell Wilder, who was under contract to David Selznick [she wrote "Since You Went Away"], is covering the trial as a correspondent. . . . The Beaverbrook papers have a special man covering the trial and I understand he'll write it up two different ways—one for the British public, where Charlie is more or less an idol, and one for Australia.

The Judge and His Career.

Judge O'Connor, always a great friend of the motion picture industry, had the dignity you'd expect from a federal judge. He was a practicing lawyer here before he campaigned for Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932. I believe he introduced me to Lt. Col. James Roosevelt. He used to send me his speeches when he was appointed controler of the currency by Mr. Roosevelt. Later he became a law partner of the late William G. McAdoo. He's had a colorful career, and thru it all still remains a bachelor. . . . Charles Carr, our young, red-haired United States attorney, who's handling the case for the government, is trying his wings. I believe this is the most important case he's ever handled. Important because of its ramifications and implications. The eyes of the country are on this case, and naturally the heads of the film industry are much concerned.

Success—A Contrast.

I couldn't help thinking, as I sat there in that courtroom, of the contrast between Charlie Chaplin and Jackie Coogan, who came to fame thru Chaplin's picture "The Kid." The pictures of Jackie just a few days ago showed him landing behind the Japanese lines with our glider pilots. Life hasn't always been easy for Jackie. Thru his talent he built up a fortune; thru no fault of his own it was dissipated. He didn't always do the wisest thing for Jackie, but long before his country called him, he was in there pitching.

Side Lights on the Trial.

The press was well taken care of by Casey Shawhan, who was lent by 20th Century-Fox as public relations man to Giesler thruout the trial. . . . Some wonderful characters were in the courtroom—one old man who had obviously just come from work stopped by in his dungarees. . . . One of the prettiest spectators was Mrs. Carr. . . . The bobby-sox brigade was conspicuous by its absence. The average age of the onlookers, I should say, was 40. In the corridor were a few kids who came for autographs. . . . It wasn't a pleasant afternoon, but an interesting one. And it renewed my pride in belonging to this America, which—after extending so many privileges to Chaplin—is now giving him the further opportunity to defend himself in its court.

Music Differs from Scores of Composers

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

Last night in the concert halls proved to be a veritable Witches' Sabbath of arrangers. In the course of two concerts the reviewer heard not a single composition played as it was written by the composer. There has been, to be sure, very little music composed for flute, violin and piano—the combination of the Concert Trio, which made its bow at Kimball hall—and none at all for that monumental misnomer, the "piano symphony," which was heard again at Orchestra hall. "Why, then," you might logically ask, "do people persist in giving concerts with combinations of instruments for which no reputable composer ever bothered to write music?" And that would be a fair question.

The Concert Trio opened its program with what appeared to be a home made arrangement of Bach's Fifth Brandenburg Concerto, in its original form a work for string orchestra with solo parts for piano, violin, and flute. The pianist—Jessie Mae Raglan—industriously but monotonously ground out a combination of the orchestral and solo piano passages, with occasional tentative assistance from the violinist, Mildred Coen, while the flutist, Carolyn Coen—an exceptionally able one, by the way—did the best she could under the circumstances.

A "Legende" by the Peruvian, Soulage, boasted a good tune, but also gave the impression of being an inept arrangement, while Miss Coen's flute found busy employment in the succeeding number, apparently an arrangement of a coloratura aria from Handel's oratorio, "L'Allegro, il Pensieroso ed il Moderato."

The pianos of the Chicago Piano Symphony orchestra again were piled high on the stage of Orchestra hall and over all the conductor, Antoinette Rich, hovered with the solicitousness, if not quite the effectiveness, of a mother hen. It had been announced as "prodigy night" and the second part of the program—devoted to the "Youth Piano Symphony Orchestra"—discovered boys and girls of tender age at the keyboards of the 12 instruments.

But while there was some misguided talent apparent in the two young ladies who played the solo parts in Mendelssohn's G minor concerto, there were no prodigies in evidence at any time, and for all that the young people accomplished of musical worth in incredible arrangements of Grieg's "Anitra's Dance," Mendelssohn's "Spinning Song," and Chopin's "Revolutionary" Etude, they might as well have been at home and snugly in bed.

RENT AND PRICE FIXING UPHELD IN SUPREME COURT

Dissenting Opinion Raps 'Petty Tyrants.'

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—The Supreme court, in two split decisions which found a minority vehemently dissenting to "personal government by petty tyrants," today upheld the constitutionality of price fixing and rent control regulations issued under the emergency price control act.

The court was divided, 6 to 3, in affirming the convictions of Albert Yakus and Benjamin Rottenberg, Boston [Mass.] meat dealers, on charges of selling wholesale beef above the maximum prices set by the OPA.

The butchers were sentenced to six months in prison and fined $1,000 each. Chief Justice Stone delivered the majority opinion with Justices Roberts, Murphy, and Rutledge dissenting. Joined with the chief justice were Justices Black, Reed, Frankfurter, Douglas, and Jackson.

Roberts' Dissent Vigorous.

The rent-freeze program was pronounced constitutional by an 8 to 1 vote which reversed a Georgia federal court ruling in the case of Mrs. Kate C. Willingham of Macon, Ga. Justice Douglas read the majority opinion with Justice Roberts dissenting.

The two decisions had long been awaited and the delay in reaching them was obviously due to sharp differences of opinion between the justices on the lengths to which congress may delegate its legislative power to administrators in time of war. Justice Roberts, in particular, used strong language in denouncing "congress' abdication of its legislative power to an executive official."

In the Yakus case one of the main points in dispute was whether the act prevented a defendant, haled into court for violation of maximum price regulations, was prevented from attacking the validity of the regulations as a defense to a criminal charge.

Majority Backs Congress.

The majority opinion said that in exercising power to protect the national economy from inflation, congress "has seen fit to postpone injunctions restraining the operations of price regulations until their lawfulness could be ascertained by an appropriate and expeditious procedure."

"In so doing it [congress] has done only what a court of equity could have done in the exercise of its discretion to protect the public interest. What the courts could do congress can do as the guardian of the public interest in time of war."

The majority opinion held that congress "gave clear indication that the validity of the administrators' regulations or orders should not be subject to attack in criminal prosecutions for their violation."

Calls Review Farce.

To this interpretation, Justice Roberts dissented in these words:

"I am of opinion that the act unconstitutionally delegates legislative power to the administrator . . . in truth, the court review is a solemn farce."

Under the reasoning that one of congress' war powers is the power to transfer its legislative function to a delegate, Roberts continued, "it could close this court or take away the constitutional prerogatives of the President as 'war measures.'"

"I am sure," he wrote, "that my brethren, no more than I, would say that congress may set aside the Constitution during war. If the court puts the decision on the war power, I think it should say so. The citizens of this country will then know that in war the function of legislation may be surrendered to an autocrat whose 'judgment' will constitute the law."

Second Dissent Voiced.

The dissenting opinion in the same case delivered by Justices Rutledge and Murphy remarked: "War expands the nation's power. But it does not suspend the judicial duty to guard whatever liberties will not imperil the paramount national interest.

"Once it is held that congress can require the courts criminally to enforce unconstitutional laws or statutes, including regulations, or to do so without regard for their validity, the way will have been found to circumvent the supreme law . . . this congress cannot do . . . such a doctrine . . . would contain seeds of influence too dangerous for acceptance."

In the rent control case, Mrs. Willingham had appealed to the state courts from an order by the rent director in her area decreasing the maximum rents for three apartments owned by her. The Georgia District court eventually ruled that the price control act, under which the rent regulations were issued, was unconstitutional, and dismissed the OPA's suit for an injunction restraining her from prosecution of her proceedings in the state courts.

Reverses Georgia Court.

In reversing this decision, the Supreme court majority opinion delivered by Justice Douglas asserted that the act had not exceeded constitutional bounds.

"There is no grant of unbridled administrative discretion as appellee argues," the opinion stated. "Congress has not told the administration to fix rents whenever and wherever he might like and at whatever levels he pleases. Congress has directed that maximum rents be fixed in those areas where defense activities have resulted or threaten to result in increased rentals inconsistent with the purpose of the act.

"Congress does not abdicate its functions when it describes what job must be done, who must do it, and what is the scope of his authority. Thus so far as delegation of authority is concerned, the rent control provisions of the act, like the price control provisions [in the Yakus case] meet the requirements which this court has previously held to be adequate for peace time legislation."

Second Roberts' Dissent.

In a strong opinion, dissenting to this view, Justice Robert said:

"Candid appraisal of the rent control provisions of the act discloses that congress has delegated the law making power in toto to an administrative officer. . . . Without further elaboration, it is plain that this act creates personal government by a petty tyrant instead of government by law. . . . I am far from urging that, in the present war emergency, rents and prices shall not be controled and stabilized. But I insist that, war or no war, there exists no necessity, and no constitutional power, for congress' abdication of its legislative power. . . . Congress has attempted to clothe its delegate—an administrator—with the same unchallengeable legislative power which it possesses."

COURT UPHOLDS PORTAL PAY FOR IRON ORE MINERS

Ruling to Eventually Affect Coal Pits.

Washington, D. C., March 27 (AP).—The Supreme court ruled today that underground iron ore miners are entitled to "portal to portal" pay for the time spent traveling between the mouth of the mine and the place where the ore actually is mined.

Justice Murphy delivered the 7 to 2 decision, applying specifically to employes of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company, the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron company, and the Republic Steel corporation, operators of 13 mines in Jefferson county, Ala.

At issue was whether the miners were entitled, under the federal wage-hour act, to be paid for all the time spent underground except the lunch period. The federal Circuit court at New Orleans had ruled for the miners.

The companies said the Circuit court decision had been used as "a judicial precedent in support of the claim of the United Mine Workers of America that it was the intention of congress to include as part of the 'work week" all of the underground time of coal miners." Today's decision may have a bearing eventually on such pay demands by the UMW for coal miners.

The basis of the suit was a ruling of the wage and hour administration that underground travel time must be measured as working time for purposes of determining overtime after 40 hours a week. Under the recent settlement of the coal mine dispute, coal miners are getting pay for travel time when their week exceeds 40 hours.

The majority opinion stated that the fair labor standard act "was not designed to codify or perpetuate those customs and contracts which allow an employer to claim all of an employe's time while compensating him for only a part of it.

Justice Roberts in his dissent said that at the time the fair labor standards act became effective, the miners were being paid on the basis of their time at their working places in the mines.

"The act was not intended by congress to turn into work that which was not work, or not so understood to be, at the time of its passage."

DANCING BANDIT TRIPS NEW STEP INTO FREEDOM

John Macko, 20, the "dancing school bandit" whose case was going to serve as a test on which to attempt to force the state Supreme court to establish a modernized definition of legal insanity, walked out of Criminal court yesterday a free man, the test issue forgotten by the state's attorney's office.

Macko, parolee from the state insane asylum at Manteno, was arrested Oct. 29, 1942, when Miss Dolores Bettes, employed at a dancing school at 116 S. Michigan av., became suspicious and called police. In Macko's pocket they found a scissors and a note reading, "Holdup—No noise or I'll kill you." Subsequently, police said, Macko admitted holding up three other dancing instructors and was held in $40,000 bond.

One jury found him insane, a second held him sane, and finally, after months in jail, he was set free by Judge Rudolph F. Desort.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

This is the night the Blackhawks can drive home a decisive blow, bringing almost certain assurance that they'll skate into the finals of the Stanley cup hockey playoffs. Six times they've played the Detroit Red Wings on Stadium ice and six times they've won, including Sunday night's 2 to 0 shutout which gave the Chicagoans a 2 to 1 lead in their semi-final series with the defending cup champions.

They'll be back in the Stadium this evening and 18,000 or more spectators will give vocal accompaniment. The Hawks aren't kidding themselves, tho, that a third victory will be theirs for the asking. They're expecting to encounter the Red Wings in their most determined 60 minutes—or more—of the season. If the Wings win, they'll be in command for the first time in the series, with two of the three remaining games to be played in Detroit's Olympia, long a graveyard of Hawk hopes. The series goes to the team winning four games.

Montreal Leads Toronto.

If the Hawks win tonight, they'll meet the Wings Thursday in Detroit with a 3 to 1 lead. Failing to win this one, they will get another crack at their opponents Sunday night in the Stadium. A seventh game would send the series back to Detroit for conclusion a week from tonight.

Montreal has a 2 to 1 lead over Toronto and the fourth game of this semi-final will be played tonight in Toronto. The Hawks are pretty well agreed that the Canadiens will take this series in five games. If Chicago and Monteral meet in the finals, the National league is expected to alter its rules to allow the first two games to be played in the Stadium and the remaining ones in Montreal. The Hawks' lease in the west side arena will expire before the normal time expectancy required for the finals.

Leading Scorers Halted.

Leading scorers of the Hawks and Wings have found the going rough in the three games, in which the composite score shows five goals for each team. Doug Bentley, the top Chicago point man, has been held to a goal and no assists. This also is the scoring status of Doug's speedy running mate, Bill Mosienko. Leading Hawk scorer is Clint Smith, center, who scored the Hawks' second goal Sunday night. He has two assists. Joe Cooper is next with a goal and an assist.

Carl Liscombe, leading Detroit scorer, has been blanked in the series. Syd Howe, with two goals and two assists, is top man for both clubs, followed by Joe Carveth, who has a goal and an assist. Four of the 10 goals in the series have been made on solo shots.

Tho Bentley has been checked by the Red Wings, he has played a major part in his team's successes, both offensively and defensively. On two occasions Sunday night, when the Wings were storming in with the Hawks short two men, the little left winger broke up Detroit attacks. The play of Virgil Johnson, Chicago center, also was a pleasing development Sunday.

Stork Visits Smith's Home.

Goalie Mike Karakas, who has blanked the Wings in their last two appearances here, will be going after a third straight Stadium shutout. Smith received word yesterday from his home in Vancouver, B. C., that his wife had given birth to a baby girl.

Two more games in the Stadium will send the season's attedance over 400,000, long the goal of the Hawks' owner, Maj. Frederic McLaughlin. The 17,138 crowd Sunday raised the total to 374,081.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, March 27.—A few days ago we printed an item in this space to the effect that President Ford Frick of the National league thought baseball movies had outlived their usefulness. . . . Which brought the following telegram from President Will Harridge of the American league: "I am sure Ford does not actually believe this to be true. At any rate, it is an alibi for the elimination of his picture department. If he wants concrete facts all he has to do is contact Mr. Robbins or Mr. Coleman of Spaldings, Mr. Rodgers of Hillerich and Bradsby, and the army film service of his own city [New York].

Ford Frick.

William Harridge.

"The army service alone is circulating 250 copies thru camps overseas and in this country. In addition, the American league office has in daily circulation 250 prints. We cannot keep pace with requests. One hundred war defense plants from coast to coast at their own request are showing our new movie to workers. Minor league clubs, because of urgent demand for film, have set up their own programs. The American Legion junior baseball program will use the picture.

"Many bureaus of recreation in various major league cities are using the film. Police departments are using it in connection with handling of juvenile delinquency. This does not take into consideration showings for local organizations in each city. On request we have shipped the film to South America to be translated into Spanish and shown for local entertainment. We now are receiving requests for prints from Mexico. One day spent in the picture department of the American league office would convince any one who is skeptical whether or not our picture program has outlived its usefulness."

Mr. Frick, we hasten to explain, did not criticize the value of movie circulation in war camps. . . . He does believe that after the war money spent on film could be used to better advantage in programs that encourage youngsters actually to participate in baseball. . . . The American league unquestionably has done a much better job with its movies than has the National. . . . Mr. Harridge was the first to recognize the importance of film as a medium of exploitation for baseball and the American league picture has been getting bigger and better thru the years.

It's Up to You.

In this old world of woe and strife
When things annoy and fret you,
Don't be the sort to blame on life
The troubles that beset you.

For life is not at fault, my friend,
And tho you may defame her,
I cannot truly comprehend
Why you have cause to blame her.

This truth you cannot disavow,
Nor can you shun or shake it;
Your life will ever be as now,
Precisely what you make it.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

French Lick, Ind., March 27.—The Cubs, who seemed to be fairly well satisfied with their physical condition despite the hesitancy of spring to give them a break, will go on parade more or less formally tomorrow on their field, which has an ornamental entrance portal, but no fence. The occasion will be the maiden spring exhibition against Bill McKechnie's Cincinnati Reds, who are training in Bloomington, Ind.

As he previously promised, Jim Wilson, the Cub boss, will present as much of his prospective regular lineup as is available. Judging by advance word from McKechnie's headquarters, he intends to do the same. The Reds even will introduce Bucky Walters in a brief pitching act, but the Cubs are going to see a lot of the fellow this summer so those among the Cubs who are new might as well meet him now and know what to expect later.

Reds Have Ancient Rookie.

The Reds have at least one impressive exhibit as proof that the war has strange fellows sleeping in big league beds. He's Bob Fausett, a third baseman. In about another two weeks he'll reach the ripe baseball age of 36, but his performance last season with Little Rock makes one wonder why it took a world war to move him into the big league. He played 140 games, batted .362, hit 26 doubles, 11 triples, and stole 23 bases. Along with this he managed the team and also was in four games as a pitcher.

In picking tomorrow's pitchers, Manager Wilson had to keep in mind that on the following day he will need some of them for use against the White Sox, who are old enemies as well as America's guests in so far as the Cubs' local training field is concerned. Against the Reds the pitching will be divided as evenly as possible among Hank Wyse, Bill Fleming, and Johnny Miklos. This will leave Ed Hanyzewski, who appears to be in excellent shape; Johnny Burrows, Bill Sahlin, and Dale Alderson to take care of the refugee Sox on Wednesday at Freeman field.

Len Merullo Reports.

Len Merullo, last year's regular shortstop, arrived today to cut the Cub absentee list to 10, but the East Boston boy may have to wait quite a while before being given much of a chance to cut into the competition for his old job. He must dislodge Bill Schuster, the Los Angeles fellow who knows all the answers on fielding. Behind Schuster is Tony York, another touted fielder, but for the time being Merullo doesn't have to concern himself about Tony, who is being tested at third.

Wilson's cripples are getting along nicely, but unfortunately all three of them are pitchers. Paul Derringer has been doing some throwing, but still is hard at work on the hot-cold water treatment for the ankle he turned on the first day in camp.

Paul Erickson is spending his time trying to reduce the swelling and discoloration resulting from being plunked on the left cheek by a pitched ball several days ago. Garth Mann, who was picked up as a free agent, is handicapped by a blow on the hand from a batted ball.

The training program again was hampered today by the variable weather. Rain during the night soaked the diamond outside the hotel door, forcing the boys to take to a high spot on the golf course both before and after lunch. This restricted activity to such modest rountine as throwing and running.

AND ANOTHER CHICAGO VICTORY!

DYKES TO SCOUT CUB GAME TODAY

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

French Lick, Ind., March 27. — Manager Jim Dykes of the White Sox and his entire staff of advisers will scout the Cubs-Cincinnati Reds games tomorrow afternoon and expect to employ everything they learn to whip the Cubs at Freeman field, Seymour, Ind., Wednesday.

Today Dykes was ordered by Manager Jim Wilson of the Cubs to conduct the Sox practice beginning at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning if he expects to continue poaching on the Cub practice field here. Wilson made it clear that Dykes and his interlopers must clear the premises by noon.

Expects to Beat Cubs

Despite his rather embarrassing guest arrangement with the Cub management, Dykes was defiant about the baseball match. He says he expects to beat the Cubs despite Wilson's generous attitude toward the nomad rating of the Sox in regard to spring training arrangements here.

Dykes, who has lost all the buccaneering swagger he employed a year ago in declaring squatters' rights on the Cub field, seems actually humble as he adjusts his program to fit into Wilson's and the Cubs' schedule this year. There is nothing else he can do.

But Wednesday it will be different. The game will be played on a neutral field at the Freeman air base and the Sox will be independent of the whims of the Cubs. Even so, Dykes can't get too fresh. There remain many days in which he will have to seek permission to use the Cub field.

Wants to Whip Pirates.

Dykes has announced he will use three of his best pitchers—Thornton Lee, Bill Dietrich, and Orval Grove. Jimmy avers that he is calling forth this talent because he wants the boys to be slick for the Pirates in Louisville next Saturday and Sunday. He remarks he considers it no distinction for the Sox to beat the Cubs, but that he is eager to slap down Frankie Frisch and his boys. Incidentally, in attempting this objective, he will also have the services of Thurman Tucker, bespectacled outfielder, who arrived tonight.

Manager Wilson said he expects to use four pitchers against his tenants, the Sox. He has indicated Eddie Hanyzewski. Uncle John Burrows, Bill Sahlin, and Dale Alderson will be employed unless he has to send one or all of them against the Reds tomorrow.

Detailed Story of Chicago's Intercity Victory in New York

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 27.—Chicago's march to victory tonight in the 17th Intercity Golden Gloves match with New York's best, 9 to 7, is told in this round by round account. It was the 10th triumph in the series for a Chicago team. New York has won four and the other three matches were deadlocked at 8 to 8.

CHAMPIONSHIP CLASS

Cecil Schoonmaker, New York, beat Tommy Nate, Chicago [3].

Nate boxed cautiously and Schoonmaker waited for the Chicago champion's lead. Cecil landed a right that staggered Nate. He took the offensive and rushed Tommy to the ropes and pumped both hands to the body. Nate's left was blocked and Schoonmaker scored points to the head and body with long leads.

Nate was badly outboxed in the second round but he continued to try for a solid right to the head by which to reverse the course of the battle. Schoonmaker was very effective in body punching.

Clayton Johnson, Chicago, beat John Rosato, New York [3].

Almost without regard for defense the champions hammered away from the bell. Rosato aimed for Johnson's body. Clayton caught the New York paratrooper with a good right and Rosato partly slipped against the ropes, going down for a two count. Thirty seconds later Clayton again shot his right to the head and this time Rosato took a four count.

The pace was slower in the second round and once Rosato wrestled Johnson to his knees. The exchanges thereafter were even and most of the fighting at long distance.

Perone rushed at the bell, but Jones caught him with a right to the face and followed with a left. Jones, a southpaw, then outboxed Perone thru the first round.

135 POUNDS.

Buddy Holderfield, Chicago, beat Max Grothe, New York [3].

18,630 WATCH 17TH OF SERIES IN NEW YORK

RagonKinneyGains Decisive Point.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 27.—Chicago's 1944 Golden Gloves boxers tonight sustained their long established supremacy over New York's best amateur fistic hands by whipping the easterners, 9 to 7, before a howling crowd of 18,630 in Madison Square Garden. It was the 10th victory for the Chicagoans in the 17 year feud, against four defeats and three ties, and established a new high in thrills, from the opening flyweight bout until the final heavyweight struggle.

The issue was in doubt until the heavyweight final, in which Pvt. Ragon Kinney, the 25 year old Arkansan who is now stationed at Camp Callan, Cal., assured the Chicago squad of its triumph by his aggressive outmaneuvering of Gerald Jackson, a New York boilermaker who outreached Kinney and outweighed him by 30 pounds.

Standifer Assures Tie.

Until Kinney and Jackson hopped into the ring, the audience didn't know what to expect. They had stood and roared thru 15 bouts. Thru those 15, they had seen the score see-saw from the time the New Yorkers went into a 2 to 0 lead by winning the 112 pound fights until Ray Standifer, Chicago's light heavyweight, assured the invaders of a tie by whipping Chief Boatswain's Mate Herb Kroeten.

Standifer's victory was followed by the decisive triumph of Coast Guardsman Roscoe Jackson of New York, over big Luke Baylark, Chicago's heavyweight alternate. That made the count 8 to 7, and left the big job of the evening up to Pvt. Kinney. When he came out of his corner against big Jackson, it seemed strange that he should be in the ring with the huge New Yorker, but Ragon has had an intercity assignment before, contributing a winning point to Chicago's 1939 victory by the same margin of 9 to 7. He wasted no time in showing the fans that he was up to the task, and by his workmanlike performance against Jackson, had them raising the peak din of the evening.

Sumi Wins Despite Injury.

Joining Kinney in the hero role were little Henry Sumi, the American born Japanese from Chicago's Catholic Youth Organization; Major Jones, 16 year old school boy from Kansas City; Corp. Dick Young of Camp Barkley, Tex., and Sgt. Gene Joyce of Camp Ellis, Ill. Of course, there also was Standifer, who had recovered from a two day bout with the flu, the only one of three Chicagoans who were down with the ailment to bounce back.

Young Sumi, fighting as the bantamweight alternate, threw his right arm out of its shoulder socket midway thru the second round, but kept throwing punches the rest of the route for a decision triumph over Sam Chernoff of the Bronx. It was an exhibition of gameness such as has distinguished all Golden Gloves tourneys, for Henry didn't indicate to his handlers that he had suffered the mishap.

Barney Ross Seconds Winner.

Jones, one of the two youngest fighters ever to win an intercity Golden Glove, had a pretty good man in his corner when he went out on the job of beating Frank Perone, New York's featherweight champion. That was a silver haired marine sergeant named Barney Ross, one of the heroes of Guadalcanal after having won the world's lightweight and welterweight crowns, not to mention the 1929 intercity Golden Glove in the 126 pound class in this same garden ring.

It was Corp. Young, however, who brought the Chicago fans in the audience to their feet. The corporal, a 21 year old native of Asheville, N. C., had drawn the toughest chore of the night—that of understudying Chicago's 160 pound champion, Collins Brown, a flu victim. He showed he was equal to the assignment with a masterful boxing display against Pvt. Hy Bronstein, the Bronx southpaw who last year had scored a winning point for Chicago's team while stationed in a Missouri camp. Young, at the finish, had Bronstein, always a dangerous puncher, in a complete state of bewilderment.

Southall Loses Close One.

Young's convincing victory brought the score to 3 to 3. Sgt. Manny Ortega of El Paso, Tex. and young Jones augmented that 5 to 3, but two Negro New York welterweights put on a rally that tied it at 5 to 5, third deadlock of the wild evening of punching. They were Wendell Wilson, who was awarded a technical knockout decision over Coast Guardsman Harry Sparrow of Chicago, and Sgt. John Wilson of the Rome, N. Y. air depot, who was given a split verdict over Corp. Levi Southall of Camp Ellis, Ill. Southall floored his opponent for a nine count in the third round.

Here Sgt. Joyce entered to give Chicago the lead it never surrendered. Gene, a member of the famed Gary clan of boxers, had his troubles with a game youngster from Amityville, L. I., named Garret Nagel, but at the end of the three rounds the Chicago boxer's superiority was quite evident. Joyce was another understudy who made good tonight, taking the place of Johnny Bratton, another flu victim.

ELMER RIDDLE UNCERTAIN OVER BASEBALL PLANS

Columbus, Ga., March 27 (AP).—Elmer Riddle, Cincinnati pitcher who has just passed his army physical examination at Fort McPherson, Ga., said last night he had not yet decided whether he would report to the Reds' training camp.

Riddle, who worked out with the Columbus Foxes yesterday, said he probably would remain here until called into service in three weeks. He said he planned to talk today to Warren Giles of the Reds, and their conversation would probably determine whether he would go to the training camp.

Riddle, who won 21 games and lost 11 last season for Cincinnati, has been working in Columbus. Because of his work, he was deferred from army service until May. Riddle said, however, he preferred to find out just where he stood so he went with a large contingent of inductees to Fort McPherson.

Holderfield's margin in the second round was no larger—each was sharp and fast—but he still kept on top of Grothe.

The boys kept up the speed of the fight thru the final three minutes and while Grothe rallied to box on even terms, Holderfield had the earlier lead.

147 POUNDS.

John Wilson, New York, beat Levi Southall, Chicago [3].

160 POUNDS.

Dick Young, Chicago, beat Hy Bronstein, New York [3].

Young kept Bronstein off balance and landed a right to the face, the hardest punch of the three minutes. Young was carrying on for Collins Brown, Chicago's champion, who was ill with influenza.

Dick circled Bronstein in the second round and jabbed his left to the face. Bronstein rushed, but Young was under the blow and clinched. Bronstein punched hard with his right and Young backed away. The New Yorker hurt Young with a body blow, but Dick countered with a right to the head and repeated just before the bell.

175 POUNDS.

Ray Standifer, Chicago, beat Herb Kroeten, New York.

Standifer kept Kroeten off balance in the opening round with left jabs and followed with scoring rights to the head. Kroeten landed only one solid punch.

Jackson had a 25 pound weight advantage on Kinney and he was better in clinches because of it. Jackson missed with a right and followed with a series of punches to the body as he half wrestled the Chicagoan.

ALTERNATE CLASS

112 POUNDS.

Francisco Garcia, New York, beat Matt Hammond, Chicago [3].

The action continued at a fast pace in the second round, but Hammond wasted many punches on his taller foe. Hammond smashed in a left and right to the body. Hammond rushed his southpaw opponent and he scored repeatedly, but for each punch he caught one. Garcia hit three times with his left in a half clinch. They stood toe to toe and fought it out. They tired visibly after a final terrific round.

Henry Sumi, Chicago, beat Sam Chernoff, New York [3].

Sumi had the better of the second round until he missed with a right uppercut and apparently injured his shoulder. Sumi recovered but while he was using his left Chernoff closed in to pile up points.

126 POUNDS.

Manny Ortega, Chicago, beat Thomas Baker, New York [3].

Ortega smashed a right to Baker's head, which almost threatened to end the fight in the first minute. Ortega continued to carry the fight and scored readily to the body.

Ortega wouldn't let Baker get set for his short right in the second round. Manny was in trouble once in a neutral corner, but his body punching slowed down Baker.

135 POUNDS.

Gene Joyce, Chicago, beat Garret Nagle, New York [3].

Nagle rushed at Joyce and ran into a stiff lead. Joyce followed up with lefts and rights. Joyce caught Nagle with a right to the jaw and the New Yorker was down for nine seconds.

147 POUNDS.

Wendell Wilson, New York, stopped Harry Sparrow, Chicago [3].

Wilson jabbed sharply twice to the face and came in to shoot his right to the body. Sparrow had no defense for this attack and was far behind in points.

Sparrow escaped the first attack in the third round but took a beating in the body in a clinch in the Chicago corner. Wilson missed with an uppercut and Sparrow held on. The referee stopped the bout and awarded the decision after 1 minutee 31 seconds to Wilson.

160 POUNDS.

Roland Taylor, New York, beat Ray Spurlock, Chicago [3].

Spurlock, a left hander, smashed his left to the body to start the battle but was caught with a right to the side of the head a few seconds later and momentarily dazed.

Taylor rushed Spurlock in the second round and carried on with short rights to the head. The New Yorker was most aggressive but could not land squarely.

175 POUNDS.

Roland La Starza, New York, beat Vince Di Venti [3].

La Starza cornered Di Venti and punched hard to the body and head which assured him the first round. Di Venti also was soundly beaten around the body in the second round.

Di Venti was whipped for two minutes of the third round before he finally landed a smashing right to the head, but La Starza came right back to finish strong.

HEAVYWEIGHT.

Roscoe Howard, New York, beat Luke Baylark, Chicago [3].

Baylark was going along with left jabs and piling up points when he ran into a terrific overhand right to the side of the head. He took a six count and came up gamely. Howard followed Baylark around, and, with 20 seconds to go in the first round, Baylark went down for nine seconds. Baylark knocked the New Yorker down as the bell rang.

Luke and Howard traded punches and both were very tired. Just before the end of the second round Baylark went down for a nine count. Both were worn out in the third round and clinched.

MOUNT HAWLEY STATE AMATEUR GOLF SITE AGAIN

The 14th annual Illinois State Amateur championship golf tournament will be held on the Mount Hawley course in Peoria July 6 thru 9, the Chicago District Golf association tournament committee announced yesterday.

Among Chicagoans expected to compete are George Dawson, two-time amateur winner; Hank Bowbeer, Gus Novotny, and Pick Wagner. Mike Stolarik, Chicago, present champion, is now in the navy and is stationed at Great Lakes.

The tourney will last four days, the qualifying rounds being scheduled for Thursday, July 6, followed by three days of match competition.

VORCE, MERRITT FIGHT TO DRAW IN MARIGOLD RING

Johnny Vorce, 180 pound Detroit fighter, held Dan Merritt of Cleveland, who weighed in at 211½ pounds, to a draw in a 10 round bout that headlined the Marigold Gardens fight card last night. A crowd of 1,242 paid a gross of $2,141 to see the bouts.

Frankie Abrams, also of Detroit, knocked out Isadore Miner in the second round of a scheduled six round semi-windup. While Referee Joey White was counting out the Chicagoan, the 144 pound Detroit boxer caused a stir among the spectators by watching the proceedings from a sitting position in the ring. The referee might have disqualified Abrams for going down without being hit.

Jim Bagby Jr. Enters Maritime Service

Atlanta, Ga., March 27 (AP).—Jim Bagby Jr., the big Georgia pitcher whose arguments with Manager Lou Boudreau made life more interesting around the Cleveland Indians' grounds last season, was sworn into the United States maritime service today. Ensign Frank Corrigan said Bagby would be called to active duty in about three weeks and sent to either St. Petersburg, Fla., or Sheepshead Bay, N. Y.

M'KECHNIE PUTS REDS ON DIET OF VITAMIN PILLS

Bloomington, Ind., March 27 (AP).—The Cincinnati Reds are leading a soup-to-vitamin pill existence in spring training as Manager Bill McKechnie puts them thru five hour drills daily to mold them for iron-man roles in the National league race.

Altho some baseball observers have pegged Cincinnati as a pennant challenger after its second place finish in 1943, McKechnie fails to share the idea and regards the St. Louis Cardinals as the team to beat.

Eat in Fieldhouse.

Lunch is delivered to the players in the Indiana university fieldhouse, and when they return to town for the evening meal, an orange colored vitamin pill is at their plates as the first course.

McKechnie has issued a warning that there will be more hours of practice thruout the season than ever before.

Out of all this practice, he hopes to have men in the infield and outfield who can play any position—a mobility which will help take up the slack when players with 1-A cards are called. He has only six 4-F's to work with.

Ray Starr, veteran pitcher, telephoned General Manager Warren C. Giles today that he would play for the Reds this year, after all. Starr, who had indicated dissatisfaction and asked to be traded, promised to report next Monday.

WEINTRAUB JOINS GIANTS.

Lakewood, N. J., March 27 (AP).—Phil Weintraub, upon whom the New York Giants are depending to cover first base this season, returned today from Chicago where he was rejected for military service. He didn't get in a workout, however, as the Giants were chased indoors by rain.

Meanwhile, Manager Mel Ott was recovering from an attack of influenza while Pitcher Johnny Wittig prepared to leave for Baltimore, where he will take his pre-induction examination tomorrow.

BROWNS SIGN KRAMER.

Cape Girardeau, Mo., March 27 (AP).—Jack Kramer, who pitched a no hit game for Toledo of the American Association last season, signed a contract with the St. Louis Browns today.

Kramer's no hit game was against Louisville. The right hander's season record with the Mudhens, after being discharged by the army in the summer, was eight victories and two defeats. His earned run average was 2.46.

NEW SENATOR CATCHER O. K.

College Park, Md., March 27 (AP).—The little man in the big catcher's mask this year for the Washington Senators will be Fermin Guerra, who is expected to help take some of the back stopping work off Rick Ferrell's shoulders.

Guerra, brought up from Chattanooga, doesn't surprise Clark Griffith with his deft work.

"That's nothing new for him," Griffith said, after watching the Cuban leap for a few fancy tosses. "In Cuba, where he does a lot of catching in the winter, the pitchers throw everything in the book. He's had plenty of experience with knucklers and should show everybody that he's a real catcher."

3 YANKEES INJURED.

Atlantic City, N. J., March 27 (AP).—The New York Yankees considered today a success even tho rain drove them from Bader field just as they finished calisthenics. It was a success in that no member of the team received a call from Uncle Sam.

Manager Joe McCarthy looked over his small squad and decided he would not hold any intra-club practice games prior to the start of the exhibition schedule Saturday.

PIRATES PLAY BASKETBALL.

Muncie, Ind., March 27 (AP).—A heavy downpour diluted the mud at McCulloch park today and the Pittsburgh Pirates once more were forced indoors for a gymnasium workout.

CARDS BLANK ROOKIES, 8-0.

Cairo, Ill., March 27 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals opened their second week in spring training camp with a game between the first and second teams.

The first team, guided by Coach Mike Gonzales, handed the second squad, coached by Manager Billy Southworth, an 8 to 0 beating. All but three of the Cards' 26 players saw action in the game.

RED SOX GO FOR DISTANCE.

Baltimore, Md., March 27 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox almost battered down the fences in Oriole park today when Manager Joe Cronin ordered a lengthy batting drill. Cronin, Bob Johnson, and Jim Tabor had little difficulty clearing the barriers and a near-by structure suffered four shattered windows.

BRAVES TEST INFIELDS.

Wallingford, Conn., March 27 (AP).—Manager Bob Coleman tried out four infield combinations while putting the Boston Braves thru two hard workouts today in the Choate school cage.

TIGERS PLAN FOR CUBS.

Evansville, Ind., March 27 (AP).—Manager Steve O'Neill said today he would reinforce the Detroit Tiger lineup for a two game exhibition series with the Chicago Cubs next week-end, stating at the end of a two hour drill in warm sunshine that Roger Cramer, Don Ross, and Don Heffner would be ready for duty by then.

Occupy Listed As a 20-1 Shot in Derby Book

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Much stress has been placed on the Kentucky Derby chances of Pukka Gin, C. V. Whitney's 6 to 1 winter book favorite, and George B. Widener's Platter, second in the pre-season line at 8 to 1, is accorded substantial backing on its 1943 form and record as winner of Pimlico's Futurity and its Walden Stakes, but right now the Chicago owned 2 year old money winning champion, John Marsch's Occupy, is being left out in the cold.

Occupy was opened by the winter book operators as one of the long shots, something like 20 to 1, yet he has whipped virtually all of the horses he may have to meet if he runs in the Churchill Downs race on May 6. He captured the Washington Park Futurity, the Futurity Stakes at Belmont, and was second in the Washington Primer, the Arlington Futurity, Washington Park's Prairie State Stakes, and the Breeders' Futurity at Churchill Downs.

Finished First 5 Times.

The Marsch colt's record in 1943 was five victories and four seconds in 11 starts and those efforts netted Occupy's owner $112,949, some $60,000 less than Count Fleet, the horse of the year, returned Mrs. John Hertz.

Turfmen say Occupy's breeding is against his chances of winning the mile and a quarter Derby and point to the fact that he is a son of Bull Dog, whose sons never have done well over the route, plus the chance that he may not go to the Derby post.

However, the Bull Dog colts which couldn't win the long races during the last few years were running against either great horses or just had some bad luck in the race.

Can't Go Distance.

Bull Lea, a son of Bull Dog, won the Widener at a mile and an eighth in 1938, and looked like he could go the Derby distance, but was off to a bad start and never figured. Then there was Our Boots, another Bull Dog colt, which finished up his 2 year old campaign with championship rating—something a bit superior even to Whirlaway. In fact, when the Derby nominations for 1941 were announced, the winter book operators made Our Boots the choice at 3 to 1 and Whirlaway was quoted at 10 to 1. Then they met in the Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland over the mile and an eighth distance—and Our Boots won.

Came the Derby: Our Boots was eighth in a field of 11. The winner—Whirlaway.

MAFFIA'S TEAM CONSTITUTES HIS GREATEST BOAST

One thing the South Shore senior basketball players do not have to worry about is Coach Tony Maffia telling them of his playing experiences at the University of Illinois. For Tony did not have any college athletic career.

Tony Maffia.

Tony's athletic career in school competition dates back to his days at Crane Tech on the west side. He won four letters, two for basketball and two for baseball. That he was capable is evident from the fact that he joined the senior team for competition in the national tournament at the University of Chicago in 1929 altho a member of the juniors during the season.

Won Handball Title.

At Illinois Maffia's athletic interest was in intramural competition, his basketball team winning the all-university title as well as the I-M championship for three years. Handball enters the picture here, Tony taking the intramural trophy in 1933 and being a member of the doubles championship team both that year and in 1934.

His first attempt to enter the school system was unsuccessful, so Tony got a job with a paint company and played on the Hanley's in the strong Windy City 16 inch softball league. He also played in the Knights of Columbus basketball league as a member of the Hennepin-Shields council.

It was three years ago that he finally entered the school system, being assigned to Marshall High school for about a month being transferred to South Shore. This year's championship team is the first on which all players began their freshman year at South Shore, the previous teams having had players who transferred to the school when it was opened.

Record Is Good.

Altho this is the Tars' first basketball title, the team has been a strong member of the south section since its inception. Both junior and senior teams qualified for the City league playoffs in Tony's first year, the juniors losing in the first round and the seniors failing to participate on the flip of a coin.

The following season the seniors were eliminated by Manley in the quarter-final playoffs. The juniors went to the semi-finals before Harrison stopped their championship bid.

Despite missing 9 month old Mary Ellen when he was at the state tournament, Tony was not too anxious to return to his home on the south side. For his wife, the former Bernice Rix, not only calls Elgin her home town but is a graduate of Elgin High school, which eliminated South Shore.

CHICAGO BOARD TO TRY SPECIAL SALES METHOD

Stock Market Plan Approved by SEC.

A Chicago Stock exchange plan for handling special offerings of securities was declared effective yesterday by the securities and exchange commission and will be given its first market test soon after ratification by exchange governors today.

The program differs from one previously approved for five other exchanges, and was designed to facilitate the distribution thru the exchange of relatively large blocks of stocks whose liquidation by the usual auction method could otherwise unduly upset the market.

Higher Commission Scale.

In provisions relating to offerings of Chicago stocks that are neither listed nor have a primary market on a New York exchange, the Chicago plan permits a higher scale of special commissions and provides for offerings of smaller blocks of stocks.

The two New York exchanges and exchanges in San Francisco, Detroit, and Philadelphia adopted similar plans within the last year or so to keep this type of business on the exchanges and to limit such transactions of nonmembers.

Under the system, exchange members announce an offering of a specified number of shares and solicit purchases by other members at a designated price, paying them a specified commission for finding buyers. SEC approval was necessary because of a commission rule prohibiting the payment of compensation for inducing purchases on the exchanges under certain conditions.

Will Synchronize Action.

Kenneth L. Smith, Chicago exchange president, said the plan will work to the advantage of all interests concerned in situations lending themselves to special offerings. The advantage to the market is that the regular auction market will be synchronized with the special offerings, he said.

Members will be able to handle special offerings without the necessity of organizing underwriting groups, and buying brokers will receive commissions larger than in the ordinary course of business, he observed. The Chicago plan permits the seller to go short to the extent of 10 per cent of the offering in order to stabilize the market thru later purchases.

Special exchange approval will be required of each special offering.

NEW BILL PLANS SALE AFTER WAR OF U. S. VESSELS

Washington, D. C., March 27 (AP).—Legislation designed to clear the way for sale of government owned ships to "facilitate the adjustment of the merchant marine to peace time operations" was introduced today by Chairman Bland [D., Va.] of the house merchant marine committee.

The bill would authorize the maritime commission to sell or charter any vessel built by it since Jan. 1, 1941, or any vessel built in the United States and acquired by it in the same period, under specified conditions.

Because of excess costs due to war time construction, a vessel's selling price would be 65 per cent of cost after deduction of installation charges on defense and war service features and depreciation based on a 20 year life plus war accelerated depreciation. Sales to citizens of the United States would be authorized on the basis of this formula as provided in the bill.

PLAN TO MERGE FOREIGN WIRE SERVICES READY

Washington, D. C., March 27 (AP).—The navy has developed a plan for merger of all United States international communication services into a single, privately owned company and is ready to submit it to congress if asked to do so.

Rear Adm. Joseph R. Redman, director of naval communications, said the navy had worked on the plan in conjunction with the state and war departments and other interested agencies. The navy is not advocating such a consolidation during the war, he added. The plan has been made ready in case it is requested by the senate in its present inquiry into communications matters.

Provision for government financial aid would not be made under the plan nor would there be any government control altho representatives of the state, war, navy, and other departments interested in communications would serve on the board of directors.

Solves Bomb Fin Problem to Win Award

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Clair M. Harter, North Chicago war plant worker, tonight will be presented with The Tribune War Workers' Award for devising a production procedure for the manufacture of a bomb fin lock nut which saved the taxpayers $300,000 on one order, made a 40 per cent saving in a critical steel, and reduced man hours by 30 per cent. He is employed by the Cyclone Fence division of the American Steel and Wire company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation. The savings came thru improvements over old methods.

Clair M. Harter.

Harter is the 20th to win The Tribune Award, which is symbolized by a diamond studded gold pin, for notable achievement in war production. Presentation will be made by Maj. J. Albert Roesch, assistant chief of the ammunition branch, Chicago ordnance district, in a broadcast at 8:45 p. m. over station W-G-N.

Nut Secures Bomb Fin.

A bomb fin lock nut is a small item when compared with big war weapons, but it is an important one. It holds securely in place the fins on bombs which help guide them truly to enemy targets

Army ordnance officers were having difficulty in getting production on the lock nut. Under an old practice it was made as a drop forging, but forging plants had become overloaded with war work. Plans for a lock nut that could be produced with stamping equipment were made available by the Chicago ordnance district office, but few would undertake the job.

Harter took a look at the drawings and "gambled" that he could devise the machines and set up the procedure for doing the work. His superiors backed his "gamble" to the extent of a substantial investment in equipment. He worked long hours on the task on his own time and at home. He says assistance from his fellow workers at the plant and the coöperation of ordnance officers made his success possible.

Small Farm Is Home.

Harter, who is 37, lives on a small farm near Gurnee with his wife, Jeannette, and their three children, Barbara, 18; Kenneth, 15; and Betty Ann, 7. He is a native of Waukegan.

Week's Steel Operations to Show Slight Decrease

New York, March 27 (AP).—Steel operations this week will be at the rate of 99.1 per cent of capacity against 99.2 per cent last week, the American Iron and Steel institute estimated today.

FIVE AIRCRAFT FIRMS START DISPOSAL OF OUTDATED SUPPLIES

New York, March 27 (AP).—Five eastern aircraft manufacturers put up for sale today about 50 million dollars in excess inventories ranging from nuts to an electric stove for a bomber. The sale, jointly sponsored by the industry and the WPB, will last two weeks.

Most of the items represent excess inventories due to change in aircraft design, a WPB official said, and are surplus for the five companies only. The participating companies are the Bell Aircraft company, Eclipse Pioneer division of Bendix, Eastern Aircraft division of General Motors, Glenn L. Martin company, and Republic Aviation.

Representatives of mail order and large department stores were on hand for the sale along with jobbers and wholesalers.

The exhibition and sale, a WPB spokesman said, represented the first step by government and industry to distribute into trade channels large holdings of critical items heretofore held for aircraft needs.

MOKAN GROUPS COMPROMISE ON BOARD CONTROL

Wilmington, Del., March 28 [Tuesday] (AP).—A dispute between stockholders' groups for control of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company was settled temporarily early today with a compromise election of directors representing both factions. Frank P. Parish of Chicago, former president, heading another group, immediately disclosed, however, that he would sue to invalidate the meeting, adjourned from March 21 to yesterday.

Reëlected directors were W. G. McGuire, Carl E. Main, G. R. Mellor, and John R. Perry, representing one group. New directors named were Richard B. Hand, Arthur G. Logan, H. H. McKee, H. Y. Byrd, and J. Donald Duncan, representing another.

A plan for distribution of Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line company's stock was approved earlier.

Taft Criticizes Effort to Hold Prices in Line

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—Administration efforts to "hold the line" against inflation were attacked by Sen. Taft [R., O.] today at a senate banking committee hearing at which Eric A. Johnston, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, recommended extension of the war time price control act.

"No price control machinery is any good if it puts any one out of business," Taft asserted. "It isn't fair to hold the line at the cost of some elements in business which seek and need changes in the price structure."

Charges Inequities Result.

Taft said office of price administration regulations had resulted in inequities in many businesses, permitting unlimited profits for dealers in high priced furs, for example, and denying a fair return to other merchandisers.

He asserted the experiences of the recent coal strikes and threatened rail strike showed that labor could get around the Little Steel wage formula, which was based on increases in the cost of living. In the coal and rail disputes, wage increases were permitted by government agencies without reference to the formula.

Johnston admitted there had been some "creeping" of prices and wages but asserted that the nation's economy would be "shot" if prices and wages were permitted to rise indiscriminately. He said inequities were inevitable under present legislation but that they were infinitesimal compared with the effects of uncontroled inflation.

Urges Stronger Control.

Price control should be keyed to wage control, Johnston said. He urged that congress make the price stabilization act more rigid so that living costs would be kept down and reasons for wage increases thus eliminated.

Johnston said he was opposed to the principle of subsidies to keep prices down but that those in effect should be continued. No new subsidies should be permitted without the specific authorization of congress, he said.

"Subsidies are like narcotics, once they are started, they must be continued," Johnston asserted.

He recommended that the present price control act should not only be continued for another year but that congress should consider some measure of price control after the war so that business can readjust gradually to peace time conditions.

Defects within the OPA in the past were a result of faulty administration, Johnston said. He asserted that business had been more satisfied with the agency since Chester Bowles was named administrator last fall.

NEW TRACTION PLAN FILED IN FEDERAL COURT

Proposed in Case City Plan Fails.

An amended plan for the reorganization and unification of the surface and elevated lines, which may be submitted to the Illinois Commerce commission with a request for approval, was filed in the federal District court yesterday.

The committee which drew the amended plan, headed by Atty. William P. Sidley, made it clear that it was not recommended, but was drawn under the instructions of Judge Igoe. The court ordered the new plan to make sure that the road to unification is kept open if the city's plan for a merger under municipal ownership fails. Work on the city plan also is progressing.

Simpler Capitalization Asked.

To meet objections to the old unification plan, which was turned down by the state commission some 10 months ago, the committee suggested a simpler capital structure for the proposed consolidation and a sharp slash in the interest rates to be paid investors.

Under the proposed arrangement the total amount of bonds to be given present investors would be a little under 80 million dollars, of which about 7 millions would go to the senior L investors and nearly 73 millions to surface lines security holders. Present junior security holders would get one million shares of common stock, of which about one-third would go to the L and two-thirds to surface lines owners.

Interest Partly Conditional.

Interest rates in the new plan are set at 4 per cent, but the investors would be guaranteed a lien only on 2 per cent—the other 2 per cent would be paid only if earned by the consolidated company. At present the surface lines senior bonds pay 5 per cent interest regularly; the elevated has had no net income applicable to interest for some years.

Two members of the committee, Henry F. Tenney and William J. Friedman, said in the report that they objected to the cut in interest rate, maintaining that it was not just to apply a reduction to the surface lines senior issues.

A hearing on the plan was set for April 14.

Charges Kaiser Aid Muzzled Inspectors of Liberty Ships

Seattle, Wash., March 27 (AP).—An inspector testified before the senate Truman committee today that he was muzzled by his superiors at the Kaiser operated Oregon Shipbuilding corporation yard whenever he attempted to report faulty construction of Liberty ships.

The inspector, Marcus R. Dukes, employed by the maritime commission in the Oregon yard until a superior recently suspended him, said Kaiser officials adopted an arbitrary, high handed policy whenever he sought to point out production mistakes.

Company Officials Testify.

Dukes testified after five steamship company officials declared the Liberty ships generally had served their purpose. They testified that most of the faults, such as cracked plates, had developed in cold water.

William Semar, Northland Transportation company general manager, charged reports of difficulties had been exaggerated, partly because of an unidentified congressman's desire for publicity.

Dukes told the committee "there was little use of trying to make a report to Washington simply because such complaints were likely to wind up in a Kaiser waste basket."

Plates Looked Like Waves.

"Because of improper welding procedures," he testified at another point, "the flat keel plates on Oregon Liberties were so badly buckled they looked like ocean waves."

Dukes charged that inspectors were threatened and intimidated by E. A. Mortensen, chief company inspector at Oregon, who, Dukes said, suspended him. Dukes left Oregon two weeks ago to work in Kaiser's Vancouver, Wash., plant, where escort carriers are being constructed.

TWO WAR YEARS CUT ILLINOIS' ROSTER OF RETAILERS BY 21,000

Springfield, Ill., March 27 (AP).—After two full years of war 21,835 fewer retailers are paying the Illinois retailers' occupational [sales] tax, the state revenue and finance departments reported today.

In 1941 133,724 retailers paid $83,172,560, but last year only 111,889 paid $72,708,212. The tax was reduced from 3 to 2 per cent July 1, 1941.

The decline in retailers was attributed by a state finance department official to consolidations and dissolutions of retail businesses and to tax exemptions granted some firms engaged in war production.

PACKARD'S 1944 SCHEDULE TWICE OUTPUT OF 1943

Packard Motor Car company's 1944 output of war products "is projected at practically double our 1943 results," President George T. Christopher told stockholders yesterday in his annual report. Last year's production of Rolls-Royce aircraft and Packard marine engines broke all records and exceeded the 1943 level by 70 per cent, he said. Packard will attempt to develop post-war markets for its nonautomotive engines, he added.

Dillon, Read to Reoffer Michigan Gas Securities

Detroit, Mich., March 27 (AP).—The Michigan Consolidated Gas company today awarded Dillon, Read & Co. and associates a new issue of 38 million dollars of first mortgage 3½ per cent bonds and 40,000 shares of preferred stock. The syndicate announced it would re-offer the securities at 106¼ for the bonds and 105½ for the stock.

VAST POST-WAR PROBLEMS FACE AIRCRAFT MEN

Need Legislation, Says Douglas.

Douglas Aircraft company and the aircraft industry generally "face a formidable array of problems of the first magnitude at the war's end, or before," Donald W. Douglas, president, told stockholders yesterday in his annual report. The company operates a large plant northwest of Chicago. Until congressional recognition of the national importance of the problems of war contract cancellations and reconversion "is translated into constructive legislation, management cannot help but be apprehensive," he said.

In accordance with the recommendations of the Inter-American Conference, the undersigned was authorized, as Agent, to register up to the close of business on June 30, 1943, securities of the aforementioned issues not held by enemies of Mexico, pursuant to the Presidential Decree of the United States of Mexico dated August 4, 1942, and amendments thereto. Said securities not so registered are presumed under Mexican law to be under the jurisdiction of an enemy of Mexico and the United States of Mexico appointed Nacional Financiera, S. A., Mexico City, as Trustee of all the rights belonging to the holders of "enemy Bonds", i.e., Bonds not so registered.

The word "securities" as used in the Decree dated August 4, 1942 includes (a) securities and their attached coupons, and (b) cash warrants issued by the Bankers Trust Company, of New York, under the agreement between the Mexican Government and the International Committee of Bankers on Mexico, dated June 16, 1922, and the Deposit Agreement dated July 1, 1922, both as amended October 23, 1925.

It has come to the attention of the Mexican Government that many citizens of countries friendly to Mexico failed, for various reasons, to register their securities within the prescribed time. It being the desire of the Mexican Government not to disregard the request of "non-enemies of Mexico" to register their securities, but to deny registration to enemies of Mexico, accordingly, by Presidential Decree dated December 16, 1943 it extends to the holders of any of the aforementioned securities who have not presented their securities for registration the privilege of applying for the exclusion of their securities from their present status as "enemy Bonds".

Request for exclusion shall be made in the form of a letter addressed to Nacional Financiera, S. A., Mexico City, setting forth in detail the reasons for failure to present the securities for registration on or before June 30, 1943. Such request must be presented to The Chase National Bank of the City of New York, Foreign Securities Registration Department, 11 Broad Street, New York 15, N. Y., together with the securities and an application for registration covering said securities. Upon receipt thereof the undersigned will submit such letter and a copy of the application to Nacional Financiera, S. A., for approval and when authorized will register and return the deposited securities.

Application forms for registration may be secured from the undersigned.

U. S. AID KEEPS COPPER MINE IN CUBA OPERATING

Company Partly Owned by British Interests.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—The foreign economic administration asserted today it is following war production board instructions in paying a 2.9 cent a pound subsidy to a Cuban copper mine, in which British investors have a large interest, to keep the mine from closing.

The FEA said it has agreed to continue paying the subsidy to the Matahambre mine in Cuba because WPB has directed it to obtain copper from foreign sources to supplement domestic production, which WPB reported was lagging behind war requirements. FEA said if the subsidy were not paid the mine would have to be abandoned.

Contract Is Extended.

The mine, which has been near abandonment for several months, was given a new lease of life recently when the United States Commercial company, FEA agent, extended its contract to buy 1,600 tons of copper a month from the operating company to include April, May, and June.

The contract price of 13.9 cents a pound compares with the current domestic price of 11 cents a pound and the ceiling price of 12 cents a pound.

The company's directors include Albert Bennett, Arthur D. Storke, and A. Chester Beatty, all of London, and Robert C. Stanley and John F. Thompson, chairman and vice president, respectively, of the International Nickel Company of Canada.

Deposits Nearly Depleted.

Heath Steele, vice president in charge of operations of the mining company, said in New York that the Matahambre mine is almost depleted of its copper ore deposits and the subsidy is necessary to cover the excess mining costs. He said the mine is not yielding any profit, even at the premium price.

The mine workings are from 3,200 to 3,400 feet below the ground and the available ore area is small, Steele said. He asserted that the mine will be abandoned whenever the United States government stops buying its copper. The 1943 report of American Metals company said the mining company is in partial liquidation.

FEA said the purchases from the mine represent less than 1 per cent of United States copper imports. [Statistics on copper imports, production, and stocks are not made public during the war.]

In emphasizing the need for the Cuban copper FEA referred to a WPB report which asserted that the munitions program was consuming more copper than American mines were producing.

BRICK COMPANY MANAGERS WIN PROXY FIGHT, 2-1

In a repetition of last year's proxy battle, the management of the Illinois Brick company last night again emerged the winner, reëlecting two of three directors whose terms had expired. A group headed by Edwin C. Schlake, a stockholder and brother of a former president who is now a director, formed the opposition. The management's fight was led by John Goodridge, president.

Directors aligned with the management who were reëlected were Arthur R. Jones Jr. and Louis J. Naumann. The sole director elected who represented the opposition was Frank B. Lambert, replacing John McCarthy.

The two directors elected by the opposition a year ago were aligned this year with the management instead. They signed the management's letter requesting stockholder' support.

FORECAST VAST SLASH IN PLANE OUTPUT IN PEACE

New York, March 27 (AP).—Peace time production and employment in the aircraft industry was forecast today at approximately 10 per cent of the war time peak in the monthly survey of the Guaranty Trust company. It characterized aviation as one of the nation's "most critical reconversion problems."

"The magnitude of the reconversion problem clearly depends on the size of the post-war market for aircraft," the survey said. "Authorities within the industry appear generally inclined to take a rather conservative view of the early post-war prospects and to deplore the extravagant predictions that have been made in some quarters concerning the probable growth of air transportation."

VAST POST-WAR PROBLEMS FACE PLANE INDUSTRY

those of the preceding year, the company's profit for the 12 months ended Nov. 30 was lowest since 1939.

"As a private enterprise, faced with decreasing margins of earnings to sales and with the multiple problems and financial hazards of contract termination and reconversion, which threaten survival, the company finds much to be desired in the over-all results of 1943 operations," Douglas asserted.

Recognizing that "national welfare, rather than stockholders' earnings, becomes of paramount importance" in war time, he said, "in return, the government, too, has an obligation to industry. It has a duty to remove by legislation and prompt and equitable action all obstacles in the path of restoration of the company to peace time activities without delay or impairment."

Sales Near Billion Mark.

Douglas Aircraft net sales and fees in the 1943 fiscal period totaled $987,687,196, after deducting an allowance of 6 million dollars for possible inability to obtain payment of all items. The comparative figure for 1942, after renegotiation, was $489,781,985. Net income, after providing $6,950,000 for contingencies, was $5,952,257, equal to $9.92 a share, compared with $9,229,620, or $15.38 a share, in the preceding fiscal year, after 3.5 million dollar reserve. The 1942 figures have been adjusted to reflect the renegotiation settlement with the government.

The company's order backlog totals 3 billion dollars, or about three year's operations at the 1943 rate.

Altho reserves for contingencies and disallowances were provided, Douglas said, "there is no present means of knowing whether these reserves will be adequate." The company's government contracts are on a cost plus fixed fee basis.

Crane Company Reports.

J. H. Collier, president of Crane company, also emphasized the post-war problems confronting industries now busy with government work in the company's report to shareholders, but expressed optimism as well.

"While operating with a single objective—to speed victory—we cannot ignore the problems which the future holds," Collier wrote. "We are experiencing cutbacks and cancellations on certain items, but for the time being also are experiencing increased demands for other items. We must be prepared to face the problems of wholesale termination of contracts and changes in the character of our products, as well as the problems of the post-war period. But we believe the post-war era holds some bright prospects as well as depressing ones and that the company is in a sound position not only to withstand shocks, but also to take advantage of the opportunities for peace time demands."

Share Earnings Are $2.53.

Crane company's 1943 profit was $6,909,382, after appropriating 4.5 millions for contingencies, compared with $3,962,927 in 1942 as adjusted to conform with the renegotiation settlement. A reserve of 4.5 million for contingencies also was set aside in 1942. Per share earnings on the common stock last year were $2.53, and $1.28 a year earlier.

Net sales in 1943 were $166,611,590, against $169,087,448, and the decline reflected lower volume of plumbing and heating materials and jobbed goods. Federal income taxes, after allowing for debt retirement credit and post-war refund, totaled $25,129,640, against $23,031,934 the year before. The profits were exclusive of equities in undistributed earnings of Canadian and British subsidiaries.

The result for the year ended last Dec. 31 was benefited by more than 2 million dollars in provision for federal taxes because of a loss sustained on the liquidation of Crane Export corporation, a subsidiary, which had been written off in previous years.

LAWYER SCANS WAR'S EFFECT ON CONTRACTS

The destruction and impairment of private contracts because of edicts by government war agencies, and the difficult legal questions involved, are discussed by Werner W. Schroeder, Chicago attorney, in an article prepared for the Michigan Law Review.

The impact of the war on contracts has been more far reaching than is generally realized, Schroeder says, and it raises two principal questions. They are: What is the effect on the continued existence of a contract which is made impossible or more difficult of performance by orders of government agencies such as the WPB or OPA? Who bears the loss arising from frustration of a contract thru government action?

Altho the number of cases dealing with frustration of contracts by war orders is rapidly multiplying, the number dealing with the burden of loss is meager, Schroeder says. The principal cases are analyzed in his study.

STOCKS WEAKEN IN SLOW TRADE; LIQUORS STRONG

Churchill Talk Held Bearish Factor.

New York, March 27 (AP).—The stock market turned lower today, altho scattered rails, liquors, and specialties advanced. Air transports, gold mines, and industrial favorites generally were weak.

Some more profit cashing on the recent lengthy rally developed and investment demand slackened in the wake of Prime Minister Churchill's warning that the invasion hour was approaching. Earnings and dividend reports supported individual issues.

CHICAGO LIST MIXED.

Prices were mixed in yesterday's trade on the Chicago Stock exchange. Volume leaders included Commonwealth Edison, up ⅛; New York Central, down ¼; Chicago Corporation, down ⅜; and Domestic Industries "A" common, unchanged. Berghoff Brewing touched a new high of 10¼ and closed at 10, up ¼.

BOND TRADE LIGHT.

New York, March 27 (AP).—The bond market maneuvered in close quarters today with trading light. The Associated Press average of 20 rails reached a new high since 1937 at 86.5, up 0.1 of a point, but many of the more popular issues were unchanged or lower. The industrial average added a small fraction.

RATE INCREASE BY CAPITAL GAS UTILITY UPHELD

Washington, D. C., March 27 (AP).—A $200,000 annual increase in rates granted the Washington [D. C.] Gas Light company, which had been questioned by government agencies as inflationary, was upheld today by the Supreme court. Justice Roberts delivered the 6 to 3 opinion. Justice Douglas wrote a dissenting opinion in which Justices Black and Murphy concurred.

The director of economic stabilization and the office of price administration asked the court to determine whether higher rates for public utilities should be denied as inflationary unless it was clearly shown that the increases were necessary.

This the court was unable to do because the petitioners had failed to provide evidence supporting the inflationary effect of the rate increase under consideration, the decision said.

IT SEEMS LAST OF MOVES IS UP TO WOOLWORTH

The F. W. Woolworth company and three federal bureaus are playing a "ring-around-the-rosy" moving game, it was learned yesterday. Last week the division engineers' office of the army moved from the McCormick building, 332 S. Michigan av., to the Civic Opera building, 20 Wacker dr. Its former space in the McCormick building will be occupied by the war labor board, now at 222 W. Adams st. When WLB moves, its space will be used by OPA's Chicago area office, now in the Builders' building.

The Woolworth part in the moving is a rumor which neither company officials nor Leo J. Sheridan, manager of the Builders building, would confirm. It is reported, however, that Woolworth will move its administrative offices shortly from 520 N. Michigan to the space in Builders now occupied by OPA.

OUTPUT OF MEAT CUT AS ANIMAL RECEIPTS SLUMP

Meat production slumped abruptly yesterday when cattle and hog receipts at all markets dropped. The largest shrinkage was in beef, a trend which industry leaders had expected. Receipts were below year ago volume for the first time in several months.

The smaller cattle supply was sold readily at stronger prices. Some classes were 10 to 15 cents a hundred pounds higher when advance estimates indicated light receipts again today. No highly finished steers were offered.

Several consignments of choice 194 to 282 pound hogs brought the $14.35 top, and the average was $14.25, each an advance of 10 cents.

Lamb receipts were larger than a week ago and declined mostly 25 cents. The best loads sold at $16.40.

TARDY SELLING WAVE SWEEPS GRAINS LOWER

Heavy selling of active deliveries of grain after an early advance which carried December oats and rye and July barley to new highs brought lower closing prices yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. The wave of selling accompanied news American interests had bought 800,000 bushels of Argentine rye and that Argentina might eliminate her export tax on corn in a few weeks.

Deferred deliveries of wheat closed ½ to ⅝ cent a bushel lower. Oats lost ⅛ to ⅜ cent. Rye was 1 to 1¼ cents lower, breaking more than 2 cents from its top. Barley finished ⅝ to 1⅜ cents lower. May wheat at one time touched the $1.73¾ ceiling price but finished ⅛ cent under that figure. May oats and barley held at the maximum permitted price all day, unchanged from Saturday.

Rye Bought Last November.

The purchase of Argentine rye reported yesterday is understood to have been made last November, but eastern cash interests said little likelihood of the grain being shipped to the United States existed because of the difficulty of obtaining steamship space.

The shortage of feed grains moving into commercial channels is becoming more severe. Brokers now doubt that farmers will sell as much corn as was anticipated a short time ago because field work has been delayed by persistent wet weather. The visible supply of corn decreased 1,590,000 bushels last week and is 14,471,000 bushels, the smallest for March since 1937. A year ago the visible supply was 42,377,000 bushels. In the last two weeks visible supplies of corn, oats, and barley have decreased 8,153,000 bushels.

Canadian Oats Ceiling Reported.

The office of price administration is reported to have recognized a ceiling price of 94½ cents, delivered at Buffalo, for Canadian oats. The price of oats is estimated as being equal to $1.65½ for corn on a pound for pound basis, compared with a ceiling of $1.16 bushel for No. 2 yellow corn, Chicago, and a ceiling of 82 cents on May oats. More than 40 cents of the price of Canadian oats at Buffalo represents export tax on the grain.

UNION SECURITY AGAIN ORDERED ON 4 LAKE LINES

Washington, D. C., March 27 (AP).—The war labor board ordered today that the unique form of maintenance of membership applied a year ago to the Great Lakes maritime industry be continued thru the 1944 season.

Four Great Lakes carriers—Interstate Steamship company, Inland Steel company, Bethlehem Transportation corporation, and International Harvester company—were directed to employ the same proportionate total of members of the National Maritime union [CIO] as was employed on Aug. 1, 1943.

Should the number of nonunion men exceed the proper proportion, each nonmember of unlicensed personnel will be given 15 days in which to join the union, the WLB order provided. At the end of the 15 days the correct number of union men must be hired if the union can provide them.

Chicago Mail Order Buys Retail Outlet in Kankakee

The Chicago Mail Order company yesterday announced the purchase of the Chicago store in Kankakee, Ill. Edgar L. Schnadig, president of Chicago Mail Order, said the store will be operated without change in merchandising policy as Alden's Chicago Store, Inc.

Inland Steel Freighter Set for First Cargo Trip

The Inland Steel company's freighter P. D. Block was scheduled to leave Indiana Harbor, Ind., at midnight last night for Port Inland, Mich., to load the company's first 1944 season cargo of limestone.

NOTE TO DREAMERS

American Industry would not tolerate for one hour the crass incompetence of the theorists and dreamers in Washington who want to make industry over in their own image.

It is the attitude of the Times-Herald that if there is anything seriously wrong with American Industry, the first step in effecting a cure is to choose a judge who can match the culprit in intelligence.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Ben Markland

Season of New Life.

March 27, 1944.

AN early spring day on the farm, like a chocolate cake, consists of many ingredients, including sudden snowstorms. When we moseyed thru the Tribune farm at Wheaton the other day, just after the Friday night snowfall, we found many of these portents of spring in every yard and woodlot and along the fences.

In the barnyard, three of the men were digging postholes for the new rail fence from the cattle barn to the granary. There's still a little frost in the shade of the big white barn, so a heavy pick is necessary for starting the holes. As the men dig the new holes and tamp clay around the inserted posts they talk about the coming season.

Feathered Romances.

One reports that the cock pheasants are staging their spring battles in the fields and along the roadsides, each plumaged bird trying to chase rivals away from his harem. Another of the workers tells of having heard flocks of Canada geese going over the farm the night before, which reminds the third man that there's a wild gander on Half Moon pond—probably a cripple from the migrant flock.

A truck loaded with silage backs into the barnlot, and the herdsman starts emptying the feed into the bunks. The hungry herd of Angus, locked in the barn, watch the man fill their breakfast trays. After the silage has been emptied into the feed bunks, the herdsman adds a coating of wheat germ and then lets the cattle out of the barn. In 10 seconds, the 42 animals are feeding greedily, side by side along the four bunks.

Bluebirds on Stage.

We drive down the road to check the bluebird houses in the next orchard, and on the way notice that the buds of the soft maples, poplars, and elms are starting to swell. A flock of about 20 bluebirds speeds ahead over the fence, and two or three Vesper sparrows trail behind. Eight of the bluebirds' wooden houses are cleared of last year's nests and made ready for new occupants. Spring snows never bother the hardy bluebirds, which often arrive in northern Illinois in early March.

Around the farm ponds, the weeping willows have turned to a distinct yellow, forming a frame around the shores. Near the dairy barns, the new twig growth of the upland white willows provides a contrasting orange hue.

These are only a few of the symbols of spring noticed on a typical middle western farm, but they serve as proof that the season of new life came on schedule.

The GARDEN

SNAP beans should be planted in every home garden because they provide a large quantity of food from a small space. Bush types are recommended over pole types; they usually have better flavor and require no trellises or other supports. It is not advisable to plant yellow beans near green beans; the two types can cross pollinate, thus lowering the flavor.

Giant stringless green pod [a green bush bean] has been the favorite variety in the farm gardens for several years. It can be planted from late April until Aug. 1, but two or three small plantings in that period should suffice for most families. Other recommended varieties that can be planted the same way include Tendergreen and Bountiful.

Rabbits are common pests in the garden in early spring. They are especially fond of the tender bean shoots. Light dusting with arsenate of lead will repel rabbits.

1ST COURT STEP LOST BY WOMAN SUING WRIGLEY

Miss Iris Gardner of St. Louis, Mo., lost the first step in her suit to collect $500,000 for alleged breach of contract from Charles W. Wrigley, advertising executive, yesterday, when Judge John F. Haas of the Superior court ordered her complaint stricken, and gave her 10 days in which to file an amended complaint.

Miss Gardner alleges that Wrigley, 71, and brother of the late William Wrigley Jr., gum manufacturer, orally agreed in 1937 to pay her $1,000 a month for life to assist him socially and in his business. She asserted he paid $65,000 up to May, 1943, when the payments ceased. She described herself as "a woman of pulchritude, charm, and grace." Wrigley's attorneys challenged her charges, and called her suit blackmail.

In ordering an amended complaint, Judge Haas said that the services Miss Gardner claimed she performed for Wrigley "are hidden under a cloak of obscure verbiage." She might have been a "handshaker or a greeter," he commented. Her amended complaint must describe specifically the services she allegedly gave, Judge Haas said; and he added, inasmuch as she describes the alleged contract as a life contract, "she will have to set forth her age."

BUROCRAT BARS SILVER SERVICE OF BATTLESHIP

Lt. Gov. Cross Appeals for New Illinois.

Lt. Gov. Cross yesterday denounced as "burocratic arrogance" the refusal of the war production board to allow Illinois a silver priority. This was sought to enable the state to furnish a complete silver service for the new super-battleship Illinois.

W. S. Murphy, chief of the silver-gold section of the war production board, denied the request, commenting that the regular manufacturing quota was sufficient for the work. His action was taken despite repeated pleas that the extra silver was necessary.

Appeal to Nelson Asked.

Lt. Gov. Cross has appealed to Senators Brooks and Lucas of Illinois to take the matter direct to Donald Nelson, WPB chairman. He pointed out that Murphy had attempted to dictate and had exercised an arrogant and insulting attitude.

"Here is another example of a burocrat who sits in his swivel chair and exercises an arrogant, abusive control over the persons who must deal with him," Cross said. "The right to furnish a silver service for the U. S. S. Illinois belongs to the people of Illinois in accordance with time honored custom. The silver required would have in no way interfered with winning the war.

Burocrat Murphy Denounced.

"The attitude of Mr. Murphy is so highly irregular and insulting as to warrant his summary removal from the position he occupies. The people of Illinois are anxious to coöperate with the war aims in every way, and the record shows that the state has done this. It is the burocrat of the Murphy type who destroys the confidence of the people in their civilian leaders in Washington."

Cross explained that the state had received contributions of $16,000 to pay for the silver. Application was made to Murphy after silver manufacturers had expressed no interest in the work unless extra silver were released.

Murphy denied the request for the priority, made by Cross, and rejected subsequent applications from the state, from C. D. Peacock, Inc., and from the Watson company of Attleboro, Mass.

On Jan. 26, Cross notified the WPB that work on the service had been suspended because of the lack of fine silver.

WPB Threatens Manufacturers.

There was a further exchange of telegrams and letters, and on March 17 Murphy ordered the Watson company to complete the work out of regular quota silver. The letter carried the threat that, unless this were done, Murphy might issue a preference rating that "would compel you to complete the manufacture . . . ahead of all those unrated items which you are manufacturing under your quota."

Murphy followed this with a letter to the Peacock firm that said:

"Recently there has been a renewal from several directions of attempts to force a change in our silver policy covering the silver service for the battleship Illinois. I have indicated our unwillingness to change that policy to the manufacturer, as well as the nature of the recommendation I am prepared to make in the event of any further pressure of this kind.

Murphy Quizzes Company.

"In this connection, I am wondering if you could confirm or correct the following statements that have been made to me:

"1. That a partial payment ment was due you from the launching commission [the state organization handling the silver matter] on March 1 and that it is in default. If so, a full statement of the reasons for this default; of its effect on your contract and that of Watson company would be helpful.

"2. That it was represented to you as well as to the Watson company—prior to the placement of this order—that the silver necessary for this contract would assuredly be provided.

"Any corroboration of the second point would seem to indicate a hope of influence over the policy of the war production board which I do not share, even to the extent of a dog license if containing more than one-half per cent of silver. I would greatly enjoy testing this belief."

WAR INDUSTRY CONFERENCE TO BRING 4,000

John Collyer, president of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber company, will be the principal speaker at what is expected to be Chicago's largest war conference of manufacturers Thursday in the Stevens hotel, Paul A. Jenkins, Chicago manager of the war production board, said yesterday. More than 4,000 representatives of manufacturing plants in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, and Wisconsin are expected to attend, Jenkins said, to hear discussions of war production problems. Rear Adm. A. S. Carpender, commandant of the 9th naval district, will discuss "The Course of the War in the Pacific" at the evening dinner.

DETECTIVE SHIFT IN STORMS' HANDS, ALLMAN ASSERTS

Some changes in personnel at the detective bureau are likely with a new chief of detectives in charge, Police Commissioner Allman said yesterday, when asked about reports of a wholesale shakeup at the bureau to be made Saturday.

The new chief is Walter G. Storms, who for years served as deputy chief. He succeeded John L. Sullivan, who headed the bureau for 10 years and now commands the Summerdale station. Sixteen captains, including eight who had been reinstated by court order; 14 lieutenants, 5 sergeants, and 21 patrolmen also were transferred in the order that made Storms detective chief.

Allman said detective bureau changes would depend on Storms' recommendations. Likewise, Allman said, appointment of a new head of the homicide detail will await Storms' wishes. This detail has been guided for years by Lt. Otto Erlanson, who is retiring on pension.
